MRS. MORGAN'S AMBITION

To Become Proficient in Golf She Has Gone to Scotland.

Burial and Mourning Reform the Latest Fad in the Upper Circles in English Society

It is rumored that Mrs. D. P. Morgan has gone to Scotland, in order to learn the art of golf playing. That Mrs. Morgan intends to study the game in all its intricacies is a foregone conclusion among her most intimate friends, and no doubt when she returns to this country in the autumn the fashion of golf playing will be revived under the most attractive auspices. Many English women are proficient in the art and in the Dominion of Canada it is a universally popular exercise.

Mrs. G. H. Wilcox and family are enjoying the early summer months at their pretty summer home, "Arlow Cottage," Lakeside, N. Y. There they are already quite a Washington colony, including Mrs. Thomas G. Altier and children, wife of the manager of the Washington bureau of the New York World. "Arlow" is the name given to this cozy retreat on the shores of Lake Ontario. Now another among the summer residents is Mrs. Bushrod Robinson and her daughter, Mrs. Yates, who have been demonstrated there since early in June.

Mrs. Heaven has leased the cottage Blue Lodge at Lakeside, formerly occupied by Mrs. Holiday, having gone there after a brief stay in Nova Scotia.

Miss Ida von Dachsenhausen has returned to her home in Georgetown, after a most enjoyable tour of several months duration in the South.

Burial and mourning reform is the latest fashionable fad, according to a recent letter from London to the Cincinnati Tri-Weekly. Discussions of earth-to-earth internment, the material of which coffins should be made, and the amount of crepe that widows should wear are among the most absorbing subjects with our British neighbors across the water. It is said that even the Prince of Wales has taken to this fashion of the hour, and a letter from his royal highness was read recently at a meeting held at the residence of the Duke of Sutherland, in which he sent expressions of approval relative to burial reform. Society's main principle, as formulated by Lord Grimthorpe, sets forth that the expense of the funeral and the material of the coffin should be reduced to a minimum. It is said that this topic, so ghastly in its tendency, has completely fascinated upper London almost to the exclusion of the recent bicycling craze.

Mrs. Lawrence Maxwell and daughters, who are popular in the society of Washington last winter, left Cincinnati last week for Middle Bass, Lake Erie, where they will be located at the Middle Bass Club for some weeks and later visit the Masses Hamlin at Bar Harbor. Mrs. Maxwell's presence will be missed among resident society during the coming week. The ex-district general and his handsome wife won for themselves an enviable reputation for hospitality and genial friendliness during his official term.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Brown are spending the summer at Long Branch, where they have a cottage for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Kindelberger are in their cottage at Jamestown for the summer season.

Ex Postmaster General Wamsucker, accompanied by his wife and second daughter, Miss Elizabeth Wamsucker, sailed last week for Europe. They will spend the summer abroad, and during a great portion of the time will be with Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman Wamsucker in Paris.

Judge Green and family, of New Jersey, who are well-known in Washington have gone to Bay Head, N. J., for the season.

Senator and Mrs. Bruce have already begun their entertaining at Newport where they gave a dinner party on Monday evening. They will entertain extensively during the present season, mainly in the line of dining parties. There will be a number of evening entertainments and afternoon teas added to the programme for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry May will spend the summer at New London.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Cleveland Tyler have already begun their quota of the season's gaieties at their lovely summer home at New London, which is always the center of lavish hospitality.

The engagement of Miss Rosa Wallberg to Mr. Moses Morris is announced. At 7 o'clock on Monday evening, August 1, 1895, from 3 to 9 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Page have postponed their Thursday at home indefinitely.

Mrs. P. B. Ryan has left the city, on a visit to her father and friends in Virginia.

Marine Band at the Capitol. The Marine Band will render the following programme this evening at 6 o'clock at the Capitol: "The Washington Times," "Imes Verdi," "Nabucco," "Verdi," "Corbin," "Grand Fantasia," "Los Hugueros," Meyerbeer.

(Special to The Times.)

St. Louis, Mo., July 2.--Dress parade at St. Louis this evening was the event of the day at Camp Hancock and a finer dress parade has never been seen in St. Louis. The east end of the grand stand and the lawn in front of the Jockey Club house were crowded with spectators.

The music was furnished by the Third Cavalry band and in the parade they were closely followed by the Mount Pleasant field band, of Washington, D. C., in their show uniforms. During the afternoon the Mount Pleasant band gave a concert from 2 to 3 o'clock, and the number of friends the youngsters made during the down town parade yesterday was greatly increased.

About the most enjoyable feature of the day were the company drills immediately after the dress parade. The captains and sergeants of the organizations took occasion to show off their respective companies.

COMPLIMENTED THEIR SPONSORS. The members of the National Rifles were drawn up in line in front of the clubhouse and introduced to Mrs. J. D. Morrison, chaperone, and Miss Lily Carr, Ella Cochran and May Farr, the maids of honor, for whom they gave three cheers and the company yell. The ladies bowed their acknowledgments, but looked as though they could have done with the job.

As a result Capt. Domes did not take eight men with him to Fort Washington, and at once gossip in the Guard circulated the report that Gen. Ordway had his eye on the ex-champions and proposed to teach them and the rest of the boys a lesson in military discipline.

GEN. ORDWAY SILENT. When the rifles were scheduled to drill at 10 a. m., being the first.

The other companies entered in this class and the hour of their respective drills was held. Capt. Robert R. Green, Branch Guards, Kansas City, Mo., Capt. C. E. Wagart, 2 p. m., Company F, First Infantry, St. Louis, Mo., Capt. E. Y. Walsh, 3 p. m., Phoenix Light Infantry, Dayton, Ohio, Capt. John A. Miller, 4 p. m., Branch Guards, St. Louis, Mo., Capt. C. A. Sinclair, 5 p. m., Berkham Rifles, San Antonio, Texas, Capt. Robert R. Green.

PRIVATE PICKETT SUNSTRUCK. While the National Rifles were on inspection this afternoon the military ambulance was called. The Nationals were out in the warmest part of the afternoon and were compelled to wait nearly an hour before the regular inspection was held. Near the conclusion Private Pickett, a large gentleman with an adreumatic abdominal development, succumbed to the heat and staggered out of the ranks.

Immediately after the parade the ambulance cross on his blue blouse, started for the tents, and back he came on the front seat of the ambulance of Battery A. M. N. Private Pickett received today the following telegram from Gen. Charles O. Pierson, of the War Department:

"Capt. J. C. Churchill, Mt. Pleasant Field Band, Camp Hancock, St. Louis, Mo.: Accept my congratulations on the success of your company and your dandy band. Will soon be known throughout the land. Wherever they go, on land or lake. They are really a credit to the service." Capt. Churchill is an old St. Louis boy, and was sergeant of the St. Louis cadets. He will be remembered as one of the bookkeepers in the Third National bank here.

HOPE AND HELP MISSION.

Its Friends Come Nobly to Its Aid. With money and services.

Nearly all the charitable inclined persons in the District yesterday visited the Hope and Help Mission, at No. 604 H street northwest. It had been noticed about that the mission was in need of funds and supplies, and its friends came nobly to the rescue. The lady managers kept open house from 9 a. m. until 7 p. m., and in this time many pounds of provisions, quantities of clothing, and sums of money were left by prominent citizens and their wives who are alive to the importance of this work.

In order to give every one an opportunity of giving something to the good cause, the home will be open to-day and donations will be received.

Among the ladies present were: Mrs. S. D. La Feta, president of the board of managers; Mrs. Mary E. Catlin, secretary; Mrs. E. K. Knowles, worthy visitor; Mrs. Elizabeth Fleck, worthy matron; and Mrs. Lockett, Mrs. Gist, Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Graves.

Nothing to Blow Out. He knew enough to come inside of the door, then, when tired of life. He'd faint blow out his brains!

He pulled the trigger and the lead Went crashing through his hair-- And now whenever he moves his head The bullet rattles there.--Chicago Rec.

FENCIBLES WIPED OUT

No Longer Exist as Company C, Second Battalion.

GENERAL ORDWAY'S ORDER

Capt. Domes Read the Paper to the Men at the Regular Monthly Meeting--Committee Appointed to Obtain a Reconsideration of the Case. Men Feel the General's Action.

The National Fencibles no longer exist as Company C, Second Battalion, National Guard. Gen. Ordway issued an order yesterday which has the effect of disintegrating Company C and scattering the members to the four winds of the Guard.

His action was taken because of the failure of the Fencibles to carry 75 per cent of its men to the recent encampment, and because of his expressed determination to make an example of any company so offending.

When the Fencibles returned from Memphis it was decided by a large number of the men individually that owing to the time and money spent at the interstate drill it would be impossible for them to attend the District encampment.

As a result Capt. Domes only took eight men with him to Fort Washington, and at once gossip in the Guard circulated the report that Gen. Ordway had his eye on the ex-champions and proposed to teach them and the rest of the boys a lesson in military discipline.

GEN. ORDWAY SILENT. When the rifles were scheduled to drill at 10 a. m., being the first.

CHURCH SYSTEM ATTACKED

Appointment and Transfer of Methodist Ministers Criticized.

Innovation Suggested and Applauded at Hamline's Anniversary Exercises--Rev. Price's Address.

The Methodist system of appointing and transferring pastors was dealt a heavy blow by the Rev. Job A. Price, D. D., in his address at the services held last night in Hamline Church to commemorate the thirtieth anniversary of the organization of that congregation.

The large number of Methodists present were in touch with the speaker and by their applause urged the eloquent minister to take part in the exercises, which consisted of a long and difficult programme of single, more than 100 children appearing in the costumes of the different nations where Christian Endeavor societies have been organized. There are to be 300 boys and girls in the Junior chorus, besides a special boys' chorus of 100.

The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. Oliver O. Brown, pastor of Foundry Methodist Episcopal Church, after which Rev. Watson Case, pastor of Grace Church, read a portion of the Scriptures. Bishop Hurst, who was to have presided, was detained at Marion, Mass., and his place was filled by Rev. Luther B. Wilson, the presiding elder.

The musical part of the programme consisted of anthems by the choir, congregational singing and a soprano solo by Miss Julia Turner. Rev. William I. McKinney, who was pastor of Hamline from 1878 to 1881 and who is now in charge of Strathmore Methodist Episcopal Church in Baltimore, delivered an address in which he called attention to the progress that the congregation had made along all lines of its work and he exhorted the members

Judging by yesterday's Shoe Selling, July will be a record breaker in the annals of our sales.

This is the beginning of our semi-annual stock depletion. We never allow ourselves to be overstocked. As soon as we find we have too many of any one kind of shoe, we cut prices right when the season is in its height, giving our patrons the full benefit of low prices, just at the time when they are most likely to be in want of these goods. UNION MEN FEEL WRONGED

Differences Between Them and Supt. Brady Not Fairly Stated.

Explanation Why One of the Workmen on the Catholic University Was Called Off.

Leading representatives of the labor organizations of the District deny the accuracy of the statements alleged to have been made by Superintendent Brady, in charge of the contract work on the Catholic University, concerning the differences between him and union workmen.

They say that the trouble has been brewing for several months, during all of which time they were striving to have union wages paid. When they first approached Bishop Keane upon the subject they received from him the assurance of his sympathy, and he advised them to see Mr. Brady.

He for a time had but a few men, and was paying but $2.50 per day. The fact that the main building had been erected upon the main building by the union men encouraged them to believe that they would receive the same scale.

They failed to see Mr. Brady, but Foreman Hare told them he had no doubt that he would pay union prices.

The labor men say they defy Mr. Brady to prove that any union man offered to work for $1.50 per day, or for any sum less than the regular scale. They say further that it is an insult to other contractors, who invariably pay regular union wages, for Mr. Brady to assert or insinuate to the contrary.
