by Alix on November 7, 1894. All the conditions were favorable.

The track was in superb condition and there was little or no wind stirring. The hill from the half to the three-quarter pole, however, was too, much of a handi cap for the champion trotter. Time by quarters: 0:30, 1:91, 1:33, 2:94%.

.591 .521 .516 .443 .87 Brooklyn St. Louis It was with the expectation of seeing the Senators clip the Detroits' wings for the third successive time that the thousand or more faithful fans trudged out to see yesterday's game. But, having been walloped twice by the locals, the Wolverines were a trifle leary of them and gave them a wide berth until after the game was called, knowing as they did that the tricky Senators would get wise to their plan of defense and queer the whole thing The Senators played an errorless game and accumulated as many earnings in the base-hit column as the Tigers, but were unable to overcome the lead which their opponents !ad started off with in the first inning. Winnie Mercer was on the rubber for the locals and served up just the kind of twisters that the Michigan laddies were looking for in order to fatten their batting averages. They be-

Winnie was not in his old-time form, for some unaccountable reason, and was unable to put enough steam behind his benders to make them sufficiently elusive gan to swat the sphere into the far outfields in the initial inning and at its close they had gotten next to his delivery for three safeties and counted them as four to fool the Tigers.

Yeager did the laborious box work for the Tigers and although he proved to be somewhat of a puzzle for the Manningites to solve for the first hree innings, and gave them a lot of trouble during that time, they finally got the gauge of his curves and the distance between the rubber and the plate, and touched him up for eight singles, which, combined with Barrett's costly error, netted them their three tallies. Yeager was given splendid support up to the third round, and it looked as if it was a case of whitewash for the locals, but in the third Barrett made a very bad error, which resulted rather disastrously for his messmates. His support was rather ragged in two other innings, but the miscues were not made at very critical times.

The Tigers' chariot hove in sight just as the locals had given them up for lost, as they did not arrive at the fixed hour. Their bright red coats were shimmering in the sun and they presented a very warm and cosy appearance and looked as if they might put up the game of their lives. When they came up from the club-house to size up affairs they noticed Winnie warming up with another Senator, inorder to get his business arm into condition to bring hom the fat side of the purse, they hastily broke the news to Casey, the Detroits' captain, and he Time of game, I hour and 50 minutes. warm and cosy appearance and looked as if they might put up the game of their the purse, they hastily broke the news to Casey, the Detroits' captain, and he in turn told Yeager that it was up to him defeated in three straight games. Yeager also began to get in trim, and from the result of the game it seems that his preparatory stunts aided materially in win-

During the performance there were four double plays made, one by the visitors and three by the locals, one of which was made by Grady, unassisted. Grady ac-complished his feat in the last inning. when a hot liner was waxed to him and a Tiger ran off the initial hassock, thinking that his team mate had made a safe But Grady was all there and trotted over to his bag and nailed the Tiger. Despite the double plays, however, the game was at no time interesting until the sixth round, when it looked as if the Manningites would even up matters with the visitors. Notwithstanding the fact that they succeeded in gathering in several of Yeager's swiftest ones and waxing them into unguarded territory, they could get but two of their number across

The Detroits secured their first four runs in the initial round, when they suched upon Mercer and gave the outposts a little work to do before they were finally put out. They got their other counter in the third, when Gleason hit for three sacks and scored on Elberfeld's hit to right garden. After this they could not get a man passed the second bolster, for Mercer changed his tactics and began to bowl them over in such a fashion that the Tigers did not know how to meet and were treated to the one, two, them and were treated to the one, two, there fare on several following occasions. The locals first got sight of the forbidden shore in the third, when they had a slice of luck. Two men were out when first name to the front, and singled to cante field, where the hit was allowed to custime on its mad rush to the fence better, who parades in that territive Waldron continued on to station and after trying to slip home he thank concluded to drop anchor there or a while at least.

to their long list at the expense of the Senators, but Clarke will see that they get a good run for their money, as he is also after a few end-of-the-season games. The score: WASHINGTON.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 26.-Brooklyn's record of having won eleven of the sev-enteen games played with the Pirates. Good base-running by Kelley and Newton gave the Brooklyns two runs, and Ir-win's three-bagger, all followed by Mc-Guire's liner, scored the other. The Pirates did not get any runs until the sixth, when four of them crossed the plate on singles by Beaumont, Bransfield and Ritchey, Wagner's hard two-bagger.

DEAD HORSE IN HIS CELLAR. Live Stock Also Found in Home of Alleged Thief.

What the police of the Ninth precinct consider an arrest of great importance was made shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Sergeant Montgomers and Policemen O'Dea, Johnson and Bebo The arrested man is John Curran, twenty five years of age, who lives at 1628 Twelfth Street northeast. Against Curran's name on the stationhouse blotter are six dis-tinct charges of petty larceny, preferred by northeast citizens, and the police ex-pect to secure at least a half dozen addi-tional complaints before they finish their present investigation.

In the Curran home the policemen discovered picks, shovels, wheelbarrows, cans of gasolene, a score of live chickens, and a half dozen live ducks, all of which, they allege, are stolen goods. But the most startling discovery of all was the carcass of a dead horse in the cellar of the house. The police claim that the horse, when alive, was stolen by Curran, who put the animal in the cellar for safe For some time past reports of petty thieving have caused the officials of the Ninth precinct considerable trouble, but up to the arrest, yesterday afternoon, they had not suspected Curran as being the responsible person.
It lacked a few minutes of 1 s'clock yesterday afternoon when a colored woman who lives near the Curran house came into the station. She reported to Sergeant Montgomery that Curran was endeavoring to drag from his cellar a dead horse, which she had identified as having been the property of George Banks, of 1119 Q Street northeast. The sergeant, accompanied by Policemen O'Dea, Johnson, and Bobo, went at once to the house and enquired for Curran. A relative of Curran came to the door and home.

Sergeant Montgomery detailed Policeman O'Dea to search the house to find Curran and place him under arrest. The latter finally located the suspect hiding in a closet. After sending the prisoner to the station, the policemen thoroughly to the station, the policemen thoroughly searched the premises.

In a closet they found the live ducks, while locked up in a room were a num-ber of chickens. One room was filled solely with picks, shovels, and wheel-barrows, and standing in the rear of the solely with picks, shovels, and wheel-barrows, and standing in the rear of the house was a new wagon. A complete list of the articles found was made out and a search begun for the owners.

So far the police have secured the names of the following persons, all of whom have identified goods in Curran's house as their property: George Banks, Ili9 Q Street northeast, horse, valued at 33; George Johnson, 123 Twelfth Street northeast, wagon and wheelbarrow, valued at $15.59; Morris Talty, corner Third and M Streets northeast, five picks and two shovels; Henry M. Gray, 1549 Twelfth Street northeast, Henry M. Gray, 1549 Twelfth Street northeast, existens; Annie Stillivan, 1644 Twelfth Street northeast, five gallions of gasolene and cans, Myrtle Cleveland, 1646 Twelfth Street northeast, chickens.

When asked hiw the horse came to hand in his celiar, he said the animal must have walked in, as the doors to the c. larwer always open. He also denied stealing the ducks. He claims to be a steam-litter's apprentice and gave the police the name of his employer. He will probably be held until his case is more fully investigated.

Petty May Be Acquitted. ALEXANDRIA, Sept. 26.-Mrs. Roberta Payne, wife of John Payne, upon whom Willis Petty is alleged to have attemptthe Alexandria Infirmary for treatment everal days ago, and after being in that institution but a short time she parts unknown. It is supposed that she has gone to Washington.
It is reported that while in that institu tion she made a very unfavorable impres-sion. Her husband, Joe Payne, has gone with his children to Fredericksburg, Va., from where he came. The chances for the acquittal of Willis Petty now seem to have a more favorable aspect. Mrs. Payne's object in so hurriedly leaving that institution cannot be accounted for.

CARE OF YOUNG DEPENDENTS.

Annual Report of the Board of Chil.

dren's Guardians. The Board of Children's Guardians vesthe Board of Children's Guardians ves-terday submitted their annual report to the Board of Charities, covering the ope-rations of the organization for the fiscal year ended June 20, 1901. In a tabular statement the number of children com-mitted to the board from 1836 to the end of the last fiscal year was 396. The board began operations for the year with 624 wards and 143 were committed to their care during the year. Of the total number 135 died, 83 were returned to the court, 20 absconded, 16 were married, 11 were deabsconded, is were married, il were de-clared self-supporting, 6 were adopted, and 5 attained their majority. At the close of the fiscal year there were 720 wards under the care of the board, of whom 454 were boys and 295 were girls. Classified according to race 274 were white and 446 were sectioned. and 446 were colored.

The children are cared for in various Institutions as follows: In Hart Farm School, 52; in Children's Temporary Home, 35; in Industrial Home School, 25; in Na-tional Junior Republic, 15; in St. Rose's Industrial School, I; in House of the Good Shepherd, Baltimore, 4; to boarding homes, 114; in St. Joseph's Male Orphan Asylum, 5; in Freedman's Hospital, 2; in Washington Asylum Hospital, 1; bound out, 23; on trial or probation, 175; ap-prenticed, 42; at large or self-supporting,

The increase in the average number of wards during the year was 101. There were 44 feeble-minded children under the care of the board, and the report states that 43 of them are permanently so and will e sequestration.
expenditures for administration were $6,713.17; for the care of the feeble-minded, $5,964.72; for children in District of Columbia institutions, $10,239.03; for of Columbia institutions, $10,223.05; for children in o.aer institutions, $12,800.61; for private boarding, $11,786.11; making total expenditures of $34,835.75 for the boarding of children. Other expenses, including medical aid, $225.65, and for clothing, $225.65, are added, making a grand total of expenses of $35,835.28. These expenses were covered by appropriations from Congress amounting to $44,950.

With reference to the general policy of the board the report says:

"The policy of the board has been to "The policy of the board has been to find free homes for its wards as soon as they are fitted to go into such homes. Until that time they are kept in suitable boarding homes or institutions Personal visitations are made to every child in a home or an institution by an agent at icast once a year. The exceptions have been few, and for reasons satisfactory to the board. Written reports of visits are made on the forms provided. The board has been compelled to keep some of its wards on expense for a long time, and some will always be dependent, being crimbed on the state of the same of the same some will always be dependent, being crippled or afflicted with incurable diseases.

"Difficulty is found in obtaining free homes for the colored infeats and children of tender age, especially when they are afflicted with various disorders. A great majority of the children, however, are sound and healthy, docile and of good character. There has been little trouble in finding good homes for white children of normal health and character.

"When wards are placed in situations in which wages are to be paid them, the agents are instructed to have pass books prepared, in which receipts for the payment of wages are to be entered, and to encourage these wards to save a portion of their wages and deposit the same in a bank. Authority is given to the president of the board to consent to the enlistment of wards in the United States Navy or Marine Service, when such enlistment appears to him to be desirable."

The report closes with the estimates for the ensuing fiscal year, aggregating $57,900.

EXPLODED THE TORPEDO.

Boy and Colored Woman Seriously Injured by Flying Metal.

While endeavoring to explode a raffoad torpedo with a brick shortly after his home at 919 Delaware Avenue northeast, Edwin Kline, a twelve-year-old youth, was injured in the hand and leg by pieces of the exploding torpedo, while Emily Thomas, an elderly negress, who was passing by, was struck in the left breast.

The noise of the explosion attracted an immense crowd. Bicycle Policeman quail, who was in the vicinity, immedi-ately sent in a call for the patrol wagon and both the injured boy and the woman were removed to the Casualty Hospital for treatment were removed to the Casualty Hospital for treatment.

The boy's injuries are regarded as of no serious nature, but the surgeons felt no little anxienty over the condition of the woman. They found, upon examination, that a large piece of steel struck the woman in her breast, imbedding itself in the flesh a short distance below the heart. She was very weak from loss of blood. The surgeons stated that had she been struck a quarter of an inch higher her death would have undoubtedly resulted. Her condition was reported to be much improved at a late hour this morning.

a Legal Action.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 25.—The first of what may be a large number of suits instituted against the Jefferson Hotel Company for personal property lost in the fire which destroyed that building last March was filed in the Law and Equity Court today by counsel for Mrs. S. R. King, of Painesville, Ohio, who asks $1,500 damages.

King, of Painesville, Unio, who assa $4,500 damages.

The declaration sets forth two leading points of contention, that the property was burned by reason of carelessness on the part of employes of the company and was also falsely advertised as fireproof. This will be the first case of the kind which the Virginia courts will be called upon to decide.
