

DR. BRYANT SAYS GOOD-BYE. Preaches His Farewell Sermon at St. Paul's.

MEMBERS EXPRESS DEEP REGRET. Resolution Adopted Unanimously by the Congregation Giving Voice to Sorrow Over Separation—Goes to Occupy the Pulpit of Hyde Park Church, Chicago.

With a rising vote the members of St. Paul's Church, Fifteenth and R streets northwest, at the 11 o'clock services yesterday morning, unanimously sanctioned the following resolution, which had been previously adopted by the official board of the church:

The official board of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church of Washington has received and accepted with great regret the resignation of the Rev. Stowell L. Bryant, who has been the pastor of this church for the past six years, and the board desires to put on record its deep appreciation of the faithfulness and success with which Brother Bryant has served this charge.

Under his ministry two churches have been harmoniously joined, and both the spiritual and temporal interests of the united organizations have been wisely and successfully cared for.

The Rev. Mr. Bryant has received a flattering offer from the Hyde Park Methodist Episcopal Church, Chicago, and he felt it his duty to accept, as his field of usefulness will be much larger and his opportunities greatly extended.

Mr. Bryant will leave for his new charge this afternoon. He preached his farewell sermon yesterday, and many were moved to tears by his affecting reference to his departure.

His Farewell Sermon. The text of his sermon was from St. John 1:12: "As many as receive him, to them gives he the right to become children of God."

He said in the course of his sermon: "I will not do to turn our backs resolutely upon the past and shut our ears to its teachings. The past pours its treasures, spiritual as well as material and intellectual, at the feet of every child born into the world, and every generation that appears, and says take them and use them and live by them, for they are all yours."

His Final Wish. In concluding his sermon, Mr. Bryant said: "My friends, I can wish you no larger blessing than that this new year may lead you to a larger reception of Christ, to a more complete brooding children of God, to a fuller and warmer approach unto man, to a fuller and warmer approach unto man, to a fuller and warmer approach unto man."

Rev. Richard D. Harlan Preaches at New York Avenue Church. The story of the birth of Christ and the result of his advent on the world was most beautifully told yesterday by the Rev. Richard D. Harlan at the morning service at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Justice Harlan's Son. The discourse of the Rev. Mr. Harlan was based on text Luke 11:10: "Fear not, for behold I bring you good tidings of the great joy which shall be to all the people."

This was the message, he said, which the angel brought to the shepherds who were watching their flocks by night. It was the first intimation that they had of the birth of Christ.

Services at St. Elizabeth's. Services were held in the chapel hall at St. Elizabeth's Asylum for the insane, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A sermon was delivered by the Rev. William C. Davenport, and the regular hymn choir, supplemented by several other voices, rendered an excellent musical programme.

Headings for the Blind. This week's programme of readings for the blind given at the Library of Congress follows: Monday, December 29, Miss Brewster, "Candor," N. J.; Tuesday, December 31, closed all day; Wednesday, January 1, closed all day; Thursday, January 2, Miss Myra Chittenden (violin), Miss P. E. Chickering (piano), Dr. J. H. G. Green, "Hymn," Friday, January 3, Miss Sallie Matthews, Saturday, January 4, Miss Florence H. Dobrend.

Ambassador Tower Leaves Paris. PARIS, Dec. 29.—Charles-Marie Tower, the American Ambassador to Russia, who has been visiting Paris in connection with his book, "The History of Lafayette," left here yesterday for Switzerland.

ALL THE WORLD A SCHOOL. Dr. Easton's Tribute Yesterday to Man's Ability to Teach Himself.

"Days should speak, and multitude of years should teach wisdom," was Dr. Thomas C. Easton's topic yesterday morning at the Eastern Presbyterian Church. He termed the world a large school-house, and all society its teachers. He said in part:

"It is to the honor of our new century that so many great and good things cluster within its first decade, but it is a disgrace to the human race in general that it had no railroads at the opening of the last century, and had no printing presses in the days of Homer and Virgil. Man could write poetry 4,000 years ago, but he did not know that the world was round. Man steps forward as a grand student of the 10,000 lessons of wisdom and beauty and happiness and goodness, and the problems he has solved, and the victories he has won are tremendous."

"The being who wrote the thoughts of Pyrrhus and Greece can be forgiven for traveling on horseback, and sending his mail by a man on foot a hundred miles. Sages who composed the 'Iliad' and 'Odyssey' may be forgiven for the absence of steamships, and the earth might, without sin, still be considered flat if only it knew such men as Plato and Socrates, and we can forgive its old wood-axes plows if the handles were held by a Cincinnatus."

"All in all, man is a great occupant of the earth, and alarms all analysis by the class of one man per year at school, this learner, this perpetual pupil, this everlasting boy, comes to us with many mad marks of deficiencies in some studies, and a proud advance in others. Man cannot yet guard his home and warehouses against fire, for the flames have devoured millions of property the last year. Man cannot yet drain all their cities, as typhoid is still a menace to thousands. They cannot yet supply their homes with pure water."

"Many tell too much, and there are as many who follow an industry too ardently as there are others who too ardently avoid all labor of hand or brain. Franklin stood by electricity without seeing the telegraph, or night transformed to day; but our era stands now times a hundred degrees happier and nobler, and yet we will not permit the blessed years to appear. Franklin failed from not seeing the good; our age fails for not caring for what it sees."

Continuing, Dr. Easton compared this country with the Old World, saying: "Whole multitudes follow some few paths of progress and neglect others. France loves art and politeness; Germany loves music and is beautiful; Italy is satisfied with climate, bright colors, and song. Our nation loves individualism and riches and honor, most of the money it makes goes into the growth of private life, unless the water-trained helmsman is dying to marry some old knight, duke, or prince, and send to college children whose families in our land, gain lead a royal out of a log cabin into an elegant residence, and send to college children whose families in our land, gain lead a royal out of a log cabin into an elegant residence."

BOOTH-TUCKER'S ADDRESS TO MEN. DISCUSSES STORY OF TEN LEPERS.

The attendance at the mass meeting for men at the Columbia Theatre yesterday afternoon was somewhat affected by the heavy rain. Commander Frederick Booth-Tucker of the Salvation Army was the speaker of the afternoon.

Commander Booth-Tucker, after thanking the Commissioner for his remarks, spoke of the ten lepers that Jesus had healed, telling them to call on the high priest and be delivered of their disease. He pictured the lepers on the roadside calling upon Jesus as he passed for relief from their burden. He imagined them debating whether they should go to the high priest or let the matter drop.

Only One Expressed Gratitude. They went and were healed, but only one returned to thank Jesus for his mercy. Commander Tucker then asked his audience how they were treating Jesus, and earnestly exhorted them to come to Jesus.

NO CAUSE FOR GERMAN WAR. Views of a Latin Republic Diplomat.

WOULD BE TOO MUCH AT STAKE. Declares That Monroe Doctrine Is Not Threatened by the Kaiser, Nor Is Venezuela's Territory Menaced—Seeks Only the Payment of Debt Deemed Just.

"There has been considerable newspaper talk of late about the likelihood of a war between the United States and Germany," said a secretary of the legation of one of the Latin Republics yesterday. "You may depend on it that neither Germany nor the United States will be foolish enough to embark on a war solely on account of the Venezuelan indebtedness to German capitalists. There is too much at stake."

"You can figure it out yourself," said the diplomat. "The expenses incident to the preparation for war by either country would be far greater than the whole sum of Venezuela's debt to Germany. Germany knows that, and Emperor William is too well informed on the resources of the United States to engage in a war which is bound to result ultimately in the loss of lives, treasure, trade, and prestige."

Germany would face worse. "Germany, even if the United States should come out of the fight crippled as much as Germany, would fare worse in the end. America has inexhaustible resources and would quickly recover from any sort of reverse, whereas Germany is now taxing its people to its utmost, has France as an enemy on one side and Russia on the other side, a more than doubtful neutral power."

This talk of America being bound to support the Kaiser's position in the Reichstag as regards his demands for an increased navy, and I would not be at all surprised if the attitude of some of your American papers in the Venezuelan discussion would aid Emperor William in obtaining from the Reichstag an increase of his navy. It is a game which will benefit the German aspirations for a more powerful navy—a navy which, as it stands now, ranks with that of the United States, or is even a little stronger, if comparisons are in order."

Then another important factor to be taken into consideration by the American diplomatists is that of the German element in this country and their numerous offspring. Germany has a large population in our land, and they keep up a connection with their brothers across the sea. They are good and thrifty Americans; they prove to be the best citizens of this country, and they have willingly responded to the call of arms when the United States was in danger. But this great country of yours was never an ally of Germany, and, notwithstanding all our German population, we do not know what the Germans of this country would do in case the United States should declare war against the land of their birth."

Venezuela Owe the Money. "Another feature of the question which must be well considered is that Venezuela owes to Germany the money which the latter now is trying to collect. Venezuela knew what she was doing when she permitted the investment of German capital within her boundaries. It is an honest debt, and the American Government is well aware of this fact, and I do not think that President Roosevelt would protect Venezuela in the present situation. The American Government was risked on that score alone by the United States; it would be unjustifiable, and a calamity."

Empire William, so far as I am aware, has not at any time disputed the validity of the Monroe Doctrine, and so far as our information on the subject goes, intends making a demonstration in Venezuelan waters simply for the purpose of protecting German interests and no more. That is fair, and Americans are well understood by all fair-minded newspaper readers, and I know your Government would not consent for one moment to assist Venezuela in sinking her debts and evading her obligations."

German Interests in Brazil. "Another myth is that of German agitation in Brazil to restore the monarchy. It is true that there are whole States or Provinces in Brazil that have been settled by and are populated by Germans. They have made that country their permanent home, have transplanted their language and customs, and occupy positions of public trust and honor in the Legislature of Brazil. They are better satisfied under the Republic than they were under the monarchy, because as it is now they elect their own representatives to the legislative bodies of their adopted country."

Germany has considerable interests at stake in Brazil, and it is but natural that Emperor William should take a deep interest in the welfare of his subjects and the advancement of the material interests of his Empire. Your Government is doing identically the same thing, and to be consistent you must not deny others what you yourself claim as a right. The Emperor of Germany has not forgotten the fate of the Emperor of Mexico, and it is really ridiculous to discuss the reports concerning his intention to plant the banner of his Empire in Brazil, or any other soil on the Western hemisphere which has the benefit of the Monroe Doctrine."

Not Appaling in Personal Tax Case. After talking the matter over in board session, the District Commissioners have decided not to carry the question of the enforcement of the personal tax law to the higher court. The recent decision of Justice Cullagh settles the matter unless such an appeal is entered, and the Commissioners are of the opinion that, in view of prospective legislation on the subject by Congress, there is nothing to be gained by entering the appeal now.

Regret Judge Tax's Retirement. The law class of 1904, Columbia University, at its meeting, adopted resolutions expressing deep regret at the necessity which compels Judge Walter S. Cox to resign as dean of the law school. The class, in its resolutions, gave unanimous voice to the deep regret in which he was held.

CHEVY CHASE HOUNDS MEET. Saturday Afternoon See the Largest Turnout of Many Years.

The Chevy Chase hounds held their largest meet Saturday afternoon they have had for many years. There were over forty in the saddle, and a large percentage of these were ladies; in fact, there were more ladies than there has ever before been known in the history of this club. This is all the more remarkable, as the day was far from an ideal one for hunting. The ground was in the worst possible condition, owing to the recent heavy rains and hard frozes.

The meet was at the Tenleytown power house at 3 o'clock, and the hounds were cast, after the usual fifteen minutes' grace, to the north, and carried the scent in a direct line toward the Potomac River until they reached the river, when they trailed along up the river for four or five miles, leading the field over Jee after fence, where, turning again, they started in the direction of Chevy Chase, finally "killing" on the outskirts of the city.

The next meet of the hounds will be held on New Year Day at the Chevy Chase Club at 11 o'clock in the morning, when a wild hunt will take place.

THE PRESIDENT TO ATTEND. Ordered by Fellow-Members to Report at Old Guard Hall.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—President Roosevelt is to attend the Old Guard hall at the Metropolitan Opera House January 27. He is a member of the organization and has been told that he must not fail to appear. Every box has been taken and the demand for tickets, which cannot be bought, is greater than it has been before in years.

RECEPTION TO HISTORIANS. Former Senator and Mrs. John B. Henderson Informally Entertained.

Former Senator and Mrs. John B. Henderson gave an informal reception to the members of the American Historical Association at their residence, Florida Avenue and Sixteenth Street, yesterday evening from 4 to 7 o'clock.

ITO'S MISSION IN ENGLAND. Trying to Secure Admission for Japanese to Australia.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The Marquis Ito, who is now in London, loses no opportunity of making it known that his visit is entirely one of pleasure, and that when he left Japan he had no intention of coming to England.

The latter statement is undoubtedly correct, for it is now learned that he altered his plans while he was in the United States on receipt of a cable from the Japanese Government to go to London and see what could be done to bring imperial influence to bear on the Australian Government to agree to exclude the Japanese from the scope of the colored immigration legislation.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—The Empress Eugenie is busy preparing her memoirs, being at work daily with the assistance of four secretaries.

MAY CHANGE ENGLAND'S MAP. Paris Scientists Say Greenwich Is Not a Meridian.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—There is much scientific activity at the Paris Observatory, where French and English scientists are studying the meridian because of an error discovered in the meridian of Greenwich. The Observatory of Paris is directly on the meridian of Greenwich, which is two or three seconds in error; the scientists are now working at the Paris Observatory to discover the exact meridian and much of the geography of England will be altered.

MILES REBUKE CRITICISED. Caustic Comment by Army and Navy Papers.

DECLARED "BRUTAL AND CRUEL." "Register" Refers to the Tone of Mr. Root's Letter as "Unnecessarily Severe and Out of Proportion to the Offence"—May Become a Campaign Issue.

The comment of the "Army and Navy Register," published Saturday, in regard to President Roosevelt's rebuke of Lieutenant General Miles, favors the head of the army very emphatically.

The event has created much comment, the consensus of opinion being decidedly in favor of General Miles. It says, "Even among those who do not share that officer's view of the Selkay case, the impression prevails that the tone of the Root letter is unnecessarily severe, all out of proportion to the offence. There are even those who think the language employed is brutal and that the publicity given the correspondence was a cruel advertisement of the President's displeasure."

Possible Campaign Issue. "The result of the Root-Miles correspondence," continues the writer, "may be a campaign issue, and it is certain that reference will be made to the rebuke in the House or the Senate, where Roosevelt is gaining much popularity."

Mr. Root's Rebuke Revisited. "It is certain that military men have been left free to express at least their complimentary opinions of others, even to the extent of publishing resolutions of approval, and the presentation of various tangible tokens of esteem. If a different rule is to prevail in the future and a more severe penalty is to be imposed than has been apparently intended, it would seem that some more definite methods might be found for making the fact known by the open rebuke through the public press, by a civilian Secretary of an officer of long distinguished service, who by virtue of his position, represents the honor and dignity of the military service."

Court-Martial Revisited. "By article 538 of the regulations punishment for light offences is limited to the censure of the commanding officer, and a reprimand such as has been administered to the Lieutenant General can only be administered on the verdict of a court-martial, and it is a distinct and well-defined punishment for specially named offences. Even a non-commissioned officer is under the protection of article 256, which directs officers to be cautious in reporting him in the presence or hearing of private soldiers. It is not incumbent that at least equal consideration should be shown to the officer commanding in the presence of his military inferiors."

In another column the "Journal" says: "We greatly regret to learn that there is a suggestion in the press of a statement appearing in the despatches from Washington to the effect that the President openly rebuked the Lieutenant General Commanding in the presence of others during the visit of General Miles to the White House. The army regulations forbid such a showing of disrespect toward even a non-commissioned officer by his superior in rank."

HAPPENINGS AT LANGDON. Christmas Entertainment of Sunday School the Best Ever Held There.

LANGDON, D. C., Dec. 29.—The principal event of the week was the Christmas entertainment of the Langdon M. E. Church Sunday school pupils, which was generally conceded to be the best entertainment of the kind ever given in Langdon.

The programme was under the direction of Mr. R. B. Phelps, and included "Jesus is Come," by the choir, Miss Ella Pace officiating at the piano; prayer, Rev. A. L. Hughes, pastor; "Awake, O Believers," by the choir; address, Rev. Mr. Hughes; responsive reading, led by Mr. Bland Phelps; recitation, "Long Ago," by the infant class; "A Boy's Christmas Rhyme," Harold Goehner; recitation, Majorie Phelps; song, "Hang Up Baby's Stocking," Anna Walton; recitation, Collins Orth; duet, Miss Susie Warren and Mrs. Walton; recitation, "Santasville Fairies," Miss Jones; selection, "Santa's Jolly Boys," recitation, Walter Phelps; song, "From Ancient Times," by the choir; recitation, "The Man of Galilee," Lotus Hughes, "Fairly Scene," Santa's fairies; song, "Santa's Coming," song, "Christmas Bells," by the elves and fairies; recitation, "Two Little Stockings," Willie Bayliss; recitation, Beasie Goehner; song, "Glad Bells," fairies and choir; recitation, "Lady Mabel," Nellie Bayliss; song, "On This Happy Morning," by the choir; fairy scene, "Where Fairies Dwell," by the fairies; closing song, "Glorious Anthem Ring," by the elves, fairies, and choir.

Mr. and Mrs. William Harvey and Miss Susie Harvey were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Durfee on Twenty-fourth Street, on Christmas Day, and the evening was pleasantly spent with songs and piano music by Miss Edna Durfee and Miss Susie Harvey.

The name of the postoffice at Langdon for several years has been "Fruitfinder," in honor of the newspaper of that name, which at the time of the change was the principal support of the postoffice, but beginning with the new year it will be known as the Langdon Postoffice, because of the increased business on account of the Standard Butterine Factory, and the gradual increase of population here.

Mr. O. T. Putnam, the present postmaster, has on account of change of grade and name been required to alter his bond four times. The compensation is now $1,100, and Mr. Putnam desires all of his time to be the duties of postmaster.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Patterson, of Langdon Heights, and Mr. Augustus Gehret, of Camden, N. J., Mrs. Patterson's father, were guests of Mrs. Della Sheehy, on Massachusetts Avenue northwest, for Christmas dinner.

Mr. William Goehner, of the Agricultural Department, will move into his new house in North Langdon on the 15th of next month.
