MARKET QUOTATIONS

The Savannah Market. The Savannah News of Sunday, January 22, says: The spirits of turpentine market were very dull yesterday, so far as sales are concerned, for there seemed to be an entire absence of demand, and up to the close, at 1 o'clock, none were reported, nor were any made in the post-market business so far as is known.

Report of the Week. The Savannah Cotton Trade Journal contains the following for the week ending January 21: The turpentine market ruled firm and upward during the week. A decided improvement in demand was the cause of this, together with the better outlook in industrial circles here and elsewhere.

Turpentine Men Protest. The Bartow Courier-Information says: The Polk County Sub-Association of Turpentine Operators held its regular monthly meeting in this city Thursday, January 13.

MANY IMPORTANT CASES BEFORE CRIMINAL COURT

THOSE CHARGED WITH SELLING LIQUORS ON SUNDAY WILL BE TRIED AT THE PRESENT TERM OF COURT, AND MUCH INTEREST IS MANIFESTED.

The January term of the criminal court of record, convened yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, Judge E. D. Beegs presiding and Solicitor Loftin in attendance. The docket was sounded and the entire day consumed in hearing pleas, passing sentences and setting cases for the term.

The docket shows that so far there are fifty-two cases to be disposed of during the term, and it is very probable that this number will be added during the next few days, as the solicitor has not yet filed all information which are in his hands.

The most important cases to come before the court are those for selling liquor on Sunday. These cases were set for trial as follows: Joseph Arbora, Frank Wilson and A. Borras, set for trial on Tuesday, January 31.
