There's enough winter weather coming before Spring to make it a good investment for immediate use, and what a satisfaction it will be next Fall to have this question settled.

FLORIDA SYRUP STOOD BEST TEST

PRODUCT FROM THIS SECTION SHOWN TO EXCEL ALL OTHERS BY U. S. CHIEF CHEMIST.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 27.—The second day of the cane growers convention, like the first, was well attended and great interest was manifested. Secretary Wilson and another prominent speaker being absent the program was crowded along and the convention came to adjournment at 6 o'clock p. m.

The principal addresses of the day were from Dr. Wiley, U. S. chief chemist; Prof. R. E. Rose, Florida state chemist; Prof. McCandless, Georgia state chemist, and W. B. Rodenburg. Their papers were exhaustive and very interesting. Dr. Wiley exhibited a system of color tests for grading cane syrup, adopted by the government, consisting of 20 grades. After testing the samples on exhibit it was found that West Florida syrup tested three degrees lighter than any other syrup present, except some that was bleached with sulphur by the Georgia state chemist.

Prof. Wiley says our common horse mills don't get over one-half the sucrose, or sugar, out of the cane. He suggests that central steam mills be located in neighborhoods and grind all the cane in the vicinity, get all the sucrose, make all the syrup uniform so it will sell better on the market and the farmer will get far more out of it than if he had made it himself and save all his expense. He is an advocate of Japanese cane. Aside from the great amount of syrup it makes there is no better forage crop for stock than it grows. He also advocates the central sugar house which can be built for $75,000 and make pure granulated sugar direct from the cane. This house can give $4.00 per ton for the cane and the farmer can easily make 20 to 30 tons per acre. He claims that if the government had spent half the money it has to establish the best sugar factories in the United States would now be making all its own sugar, instead of importing five-sixths of what it now uses. The sugar trust sets the price on raw sugar but the central sugar mill can make and market its own sugar in its own neighborhood.

Onions as Weather Prophets. One of the rites performed by the French peasants on New Year's eve is the forecasting of the weather for the coming year by means of onions.

When the bells ring for midnight mass they scoop out the middles of twelve onions, set them in a row on the kitchen table, fill them with salt and name them for the months of the year. Then when they return from mass they examine the condition of the salt. If it has melted in any of the "months" those months will be rainy; if the salt remains dry, it indicates drought; if half melted, the first fortnight of the month will be wet.

The peasants have such implicit faith in this means of foretelling the weather that they plant their crops in accordance with the prophecy of the onions.

BOY RETURNS TO HIS HOME

JASPER FAIT, WHO HAS BEEN HERE FOR SEVERAL MONTHS, GOES TO INDIANAPOLIS.

Jasper Fait, the young man who ran away from his home in Indianapolis, Ind., several months ago, and who has been working for Frank J. Stearns here for some time, left yesterday for his home, accompanied by his older brother, W. F. Fait.

The latter arrived here several days ago, after the receipt of telegraphic information from Mr. Stearns that the boy was here in his employ, and that he would detain him until some member of the family could arrive to take him back to his home.

The boy, who is twelve or fourteen years of age, ran away from home and has since been in various cities. Finally he came to Pensacola, where he secured employment with Mr. Stearns, taking an assumed name.

Mr. Stearns learned a few days ago that the mother of the boy was searching for him, and he telegraphed to her at her home in Indianapolis the fact that her son was in Pensacola, and that he would be detained here until she could reach the city or send some person here after him.

A few days ago W. F. Fait, a brother, reached the city, and was the guest of Mr. Stearns at his home until yesterday at noon, when he and his little brother departed for Indianapolis. Mr. Fait is a telegraph operator on the Pennsylvania system, and bears an excellent reputation.

Both he and the little boy thanked Mr. Stearns for the kindness which had been shown the latter during the time he had been in his employ.

DEATH THURSDAY OF MRS. ELLEN MORARITY.

Mrs. Ellen Morarity passed away at 11:15 Thursday night in the Woman's Home on North Davis street, of which she had long been an inmate. She had been feeble and failing for several months and the shock resulting from the recent accident undoubtedly hastened if it did not primarily cause her death. Referring to her death, Mrs. L. E. Nobles, one of the devoted friends of the Home, said:

"The death of Mrs. Ellen Morarity, familiarly known as Aunt Ellen, which occurred at the Woman's Home on Thursday night has brought sadness to the hearts of many persons living in that vicinity. About two weeks ago she was knocked down by one of the city drays as she was crossing Ninth avenue and the injuries resulting are supposed to be the cause of her death."

Of a loving disposition herself, she craved the love of others in return and was keenly sensitive to the least injustice. Her sense of appreciation was of the very highest and her many expressions of gratitude for the least word of comfort to the part of others tried to make her way brighter by "Little deeds of kindness, Little words of love."

"Her devotion and gratitude for the managers of the Home was evident to all who knew her and the names of Mrs. Chipley, Mrs. Thornton and Mrs. Kessler were often brought into her conversations."

"She had no relatives in America, having come here from Ireland with her husband when quite young. Her husband being killed in the war she was left to fight the battle of life alone."

"She had experienced great loneliness, suffered much pain and was only waiting for death to relieve her."

The funeral services were held Friday, Rev. Father Daly of St. Michael church officiating, and the body was laid at rest in St. Michael cemetery.

MUCH INTEREST IN EAST COAST CHAUTAUGUA.

Melbourne, Jan. 27.—As the time approaches for the coming season of the East Coast Chautauqua (Chautauqua of the Tropics) widespread interest is manifested. The program this year will eclipse anything previously attempted by the management, and indications go to show that a large attendance during the session is assured. The best talent available has been secured, and a splendid program will be presented. The session will be held during the two last weeks in February, and the hotels are preparing to accommodate large numbers of guests who are planning to be here for the enjoyment of this assembly.

COTTAGE HILL

Cottage Hill, Jan. 27.—There was a very pleasant flitch party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stahl last Saturday. All enjoyed a very pleasant evening. Among the guests was Miss Clyde McKinnon of Pensacola, who was the guest of Miss Nina Smith, over Sunday.

Mrs. Paul Gray and family, with the other relatives, have the sympathy of the people of Cottage Hill in their sad bereavement.

Mr. Lemons, of Indiana, is here, and is looking for his family to-day. They are going to locate here.

The M. E. quarterly meeting will commence to-morrow and last over Sunday. The elder being a minister, he will also dedicate the church, and the meeting is to be protracted next week.

Mr. Maxey and family have bought the Allen property just below Cantonment and finished moving there to-day.

Miss Leona Walker of Bluff Springs, expects to spend Saturday and Sunday with Miss Nina Smith.

Mr. Joe Brown of this place has been in Pensacola repairing the property he purchased there some time ago.

GLIDING WITHOUT GOLD.

One more proof that all is not gold that glitters is found in the fact that much of the gold lettering seen on signs, and also much of the gliding of picture frames, has no gold whatever about it. Among laymen the opinion prevails that all such decoration requires the actual use of gold leaf, but the reality is different, and a substitute that defies detection has been widely used for some time. The exact effect of gold is secured by using a leaf of either silver or aluminum, under yellow paint. The metal backing gives the required luster, and the paint gives the required color. This method cannot be used in all cases, because the point is of peculiar quality and requires putting on with an even thickness. For this reason it is generally applicable only to flat surfaces. Parts of a gilded picture frame which are molded into waving surfaces generally require genuine gold leaf to cover them.—Philadelphia Record.

A Garbled Message.

At the last moment Mr. Gayley found he could not attend the garden party at Miss Fenton's house, and it was, of course, imperative that he should send his regrets, so he summoned Michael, the family gardener.

"Tell Miss Bessie that I am very sorry, but business will prevent me coming," he said.

"Yes, sir," said Michael.

"And—stay a moment," said Gayley. "Could you remember a line of poetry?"

"Certainly, sorr."

"Well, tell her, 'Thou'g lost to sight, to memory dear."

Half an hour later Michael was delivering his message to Miss Fenton.

"The messenger said it's sorry he is can't be with ye," said Michael, "and— and, though he's lost his sight, his memory's clear. And may I be forgiven for the untruth I'm tellin' ye?"
