

LIVES DEARER THAN OUR VERY OWN

How many lives dearer to us than our very own have been placed in needless jeopardy by failure to provide against and forestall the great suffering which too frequently accompanies and follows the bearing of children? That we would do anything within our power to obviate the possibility of such an happening is too patent to admit of question; therefore—mark well this fact—a liniment, by name, has been devised, whose function it is to prepare in advance the muscles and tissues intimately associated with parturition.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

This liniment is for external application. By its use the parts are relaxed and enabled to withstand not only the actual strain brought to bear on them during anouchment, but also to rally from this ordeal and speedily regain their normal proportions and tonicity. It is not irritating to the most sensitive surfaces, and is applicable to all cases. It's not enough to call it Mother's Friend—it's the friend of the whole family. $1.00, all druggists. Book "Motherhood" free.

WARREN HASKELL DIED AT HOSPITAL

WAS BADLY INJURED IN WRECK ON LOGGING ROAD NEAR CRESTVIEW THREE WEEKS AGO.

Warren Haskell, of Crestview, who was badly injured in a wreck on a logging road near that place three weeks ago, died at St. Anthony's hospital yesterday morning, about two hours after an operation had been performed removing his leg, the other having been amputated at Crestview immediately after the accident. The cause of death, as shown upon the certificate, is "septic infectious injury to arm and head caused by cars." The remains will be interred near Laurel Hill, to which place they will be taken by a brother of deceased today.

In the wreck near Crestview Mr. Haskell was horribly mangled both legs being crushed, an arm broken and severe injuries sustained about the head, and it was then believed that he could not possibly survive. However, after the amputation of one of his limbs he seemed to rally a little and was brought to this city and placed in the hospital. Every effort was made to save the remaining limb, but the wounds refused to heal and a septic condition developed which made the second amputation the only hope of saving his life.

Deceased was single and is survived by his mother, who resides at Crestview, and a brother who is a resident of this city.

Reminders of the Moors.
Concerning the dwellings in the Argentine Republic a traveler writes: "Wherever there was a collection of houses I was greatly struck with the character of the architecture—like Arab or Moorish villages, one great wall without windows surrounding them. The country is very quiet now—safe enough for a party of schoolgirls to travel in by day or night—but still the peculiar architecture remains. At Negra Muerta, where we camped, there was only one large building, once the headquarters of the 'estanceros,' who own hundreds of square leagues of the surrounding country, but now tenanted by his manager, a superior sort of half-breed Spanish Indian, with his family. There was the huge square outside wall without any windows of any kind, one arched doorway and the inside house or houses built against the outer wall and facing into a patio—a most Moorish looking place. Truly the occupation of Spain by the Moors has left its deep markings; they extended across to the new world, influencing today even the customs of the Indians of Spanish South America."

Shoemaking in the Black Forest.
The Black forest of Germany, a region famous for centuries, is hundreds of years behind the present age in methods of living and conducting simple industries. This fact is strikingly exemplified in the primitive ways the natives follow in making leather and shoes. When a farmer kills his beef he takes the hide to the local tanner, who will keep it for two years before he considers it fit for the shoemaker. When the hide is leather the shoemaker is informed of the fact.

Then some morning the shoemaker comes to the farmer's house with his kit of tools and for the time being is one of the family. Every Katrina and every Johann is marched before him and measured, and the work of making shoes for the family begins. It may take a month, more or less, but he sticks to his job until every one is properly shod, when he is away to the next customer needing his services.

The Baboon's Nine Lives.
When baboons once take to a mesquite field they will not leave it till they have eaten every cob. When they depart every evening for home they have filled their stomachs, their cheek pouches and their arms! You cannot poison these pests, for fifteen grains of pure strychnine in a banana has failed to kill one. Only shooting with a rifle will do, and no human army was ever cleverer in setting sentries. Even at nighttime a large force of hunters has often been defied in its attempts to surround the rocky stronghold of Cynocephalus porcaris. Even dogs sent against the baboons fall before creatures which have hands with which to seize their enemies before biting them. Let the stay at home farmer congratulate himself on possessing merely rooks, pigeons, rats and sparrows!—Country Gentleman.

We think that the bird hunters will have to attack the English sparrow if they get any game as they seem to be all the birds there is left now in this vicinity.

ALABAMA RAILROAD BUILDING FOR COMING YEAR.

The Birmingham Age-Herald says: This promises to be an active year in railroad building in Alabama. Three railroads are practically under contract, namely, a road from Bay Minette to Fort Morgan, about fifty miles long; the West Alabama railroad extending from Mobile to Florence, about four hundred miles, and the Atlantic and Birmingham, which will lay about two hundred miles of track in this state. These lines may not be completed in 1905, but all will be advanced, and the railroad mileage in the state may be increased even as much as five hundred miles. Several short spurs of existing lines are to be built.

Alabama is a fortunate state. It has many railroads and many noble rivers. If the West Alabama railroad be built every county, sixty-seven in number, will be connected with the great railroad system of the country. Choctaw is now the only county that is isolated, and the West Alabama railroad will cross it.

Scarcely anyone appreciates fully as yet the value of the Panama canal to the gulf states. Alabama will get the full benefit of that towering enterprise. The canal will make Alabama a rich and great state in the course of the next twenty-five years. It will fill the state full of factories, and it will lead to the development of this district far beyond our brightest dreams.

Where Happiness is Found.
Don't look for true happiness in the mansions of the very rich, where high-priced physicians are called in to doctor every ailment. But seek it and find it, too, in the comfortable homes of the middle-classes and so-called poor, where Green's August Flower is always used to keep the family healthy—to cure all stomach troubles, whether indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, loss of appetite, bilious attacks or torpid liver. AMUSEMENTS.

LAST NIGHT'S P-LAY.

Richard and Pringle's Minstrels amused a large audience of their own color, and a few white people at the opera house last night. Some parts of the program were good while the majority of "stunts" were rather tiresome.

In this minstrel as in all others composed of colored performers the actors make the mistake of trying to act like white men instead of real genuine negroes. However, this aggregation possesses a few men with good voices, which appear to be well trained.

Bob Williams, the "mocking bird" whistler, was about the best thing in the first part, while the acrobatic work of the "three Toners" in the second part was very good indeed.

The mass of humanity in the gallery was a thing to gaze upon, but strange to say it was all very well behaved.

FREDERICK TRUMAN.

Frederick Truman, the character impersonator, whose impersonations of the characters from the works of Dickens created such a favorable impression at the Baptist church during the past week, has left the city for a few days, but will probably return during the coming week. The interpretation and delineation of the many characters in which he appeared show unusual ability in this line, and his work was thoroughly appreciated by the large audiences who had the pleasure of hearing him.

WALKER WHITESIDE.

The engagement of Mr. Walker Whiteside in this city will undoubtedly call forth one of the most brilliant audiences of the season.

This statement may be safely made in view of the announcement that this splendid artist will present his new play, which he secured while in London.

MR. WALTER WHITESIDE. As David Garrick, will appear at the opera house next Monday night.

REGISTRATION OF BRITISH SUBJECTS

CONSULS ALL OVER WORLD WILL REGISTER ENGLISHMEN AND FURNISH CERTIFICATES.

The following notice to English subjects has just been issued by the British Vice Consul at Pensacola:

His Britannic Majesty's Vice Consul at Pensacola, begs to inform British subjects residing in this district, that the British Foreign Office has instructed its Consuls to encourage as much as possible the practice of registration of British subjects at His Majesty's Consulates abroad generally.

Every British subject is entitled, should he desire to do so, to register himself at a British Consulate, and to obtain a certificate that he is registered.

It cannot be too strongly impressed upon British subjects coming to reside in foreign countries where claims against the government occasionally arise, that they should without delay register themselves as British subjects at a British Consulate in such foreign country.

For further particulars apply at the Vice Consulate, where registrations can now be made for the future.

CONDITION OF INJURED NEGRO VERY SERIOUS.

The condition of Wash Ferrell, who was badly injured during an altercation with Frank Peake in the rear of the Kandy Kitchen some time since, is very serious, the injured man having become partially paralyzed as a result of the wound in his head, his skull having been fractured. It is hardly though possible that he will recover. Peake was on yesterday turned over to the county officials, and is held without bail. Both parties are colored.

Too late to cure a cold after consumption has fastened its deadly grip on the lungs.
