

A Week of Fact and Fancy, Fun and Folly in Florida

Prizes for Tarpon.

The prize for tarpon catches have been decided on by the proprietor of Hotel Royal Palm. A silver spoon engraved with a picture of the hotel and the purpose for which it will be presented, is to be given to the person landing the first silver king to weigh not less than 75 pounds. A silver cup, also suitably engraved in a like manner with the spoon goes to the person landing the greatest number of tarpon by May 1st. A tarpon rod is to be awarded for the largest silver king taken by May 1st. All tarpon must be caught in Caloosahatchee river, and brought to the hotel dock, to be officially weighed and measured by Manager Clark.—P. Myers Press.

Vagrancy Law Needed.

The Florida legislature at the approaching session should take up the question of getting rid of the vagrants. A vagrancy law would do much to lessen crime in this state.—Palatka Times-Herald.

Flopped Clear Out.

Gov. Broward has issued a proclamation calling a special election in Marion and Sumter counties to elect a successor to ex-Senator C. Monroe Brown. The noted flopper flopped off to Dade county and flopped himself out of a job.—Madison Recorder.

Florida Home for Veterans.

Now comes the news from the Grand Army Journal that Senator Tallferro has introduced a bill in Congress to appropriate $300,000 for the purpose of acquiring a site and building a home in Florida for disabled soldiers, sailors and marines. This is a movement that has long been desired in Florida, and if the plan can be carried to completion Senator Tallferro will have the thanks of the veterans of the Civil and Spanish Wars. Almost every state in the Union has its Soldiers' Home, and Florida is certainly entitled to one as much, if not more, than many of the others, as there are a very large number of war veterans living in this state. Many of these settled in Florida after the war, and hundreds of others have come to the "Land of Flowers" to end their days in a congenial climate. Congressman Clark is also in hearty sympathy with this movement, and has frequently suggested the battlefield of Olustee as a suitable place for the soldiers' home and national park. It is to be sincerely hoped that the appropriation will be made and the homes established within the near future.—Fort Pierce News.

Hon. Robt. W. Davis.

Hon. R. W. Davis, who has so ably represented the second district of congress for the past eight years, will retire to private life, Saturday, March 4th. We take pleasure in reprinting from the Washington Post, one of the greatest and most influential papers in the country, the following article regarding our retiring congressman: "A veteran Southern Democrat, who has done his state faithful service retires to private life at the close of this session in the person of Robert W. Davis, of Florida. Small as the Florida delegation is, it has been one of the hardest workers in congress, Mr. Davis in doing things for Florida people. Since Mr. Davis entered Congress eight years ago Florida's two senators and two members have secured many hundreds of thousands of dollars for river and harbor improvements, a number of good public buildings, and have collected from the government over a million dollars for an old Indian war claim. As one of the hardest workers in congress, Mr. Davis contributed his share toward the well known successes of the delegation. He has spoken seldom, but always to the point and never for buncombe. The retiring Florida member has made no enemies during his four terms, and his friends are many on both sides of the center aisle. He is one of the few men in the house who return to private life with a loss to the careful and business-like consideration of legislation."—Daytona Gazette News.

Oil in Sumter.

It is very evident that interest in oil in Florida has not entirely died out, and from a conversation overheard this morning a company has been organized with a capital of $50,000 to bore for the same. The parties to the deal are all men of means and embrace local capital. One party, all the way from the Old Bay State incidentally heard of the efforts made in boring for oil in Sumter county, and seeing samples secured from this well, was taken with it that he insisted on being let into the deal. Of course he had had experience in this business and knew what he was doing. There is no question in the minds of these business men of means that oil exists in this state, and if energy and money can find it it will be supplied.—Ocala Star.

Don't Want Brown's Seat.

Hon. W. H. Long declines to be a candidate for contester for Brown's seat in the Senate. He says he has enough to do as chairman of the Board of County Commissioners of Marion and is doing Marion county valuable services in the position he now holds.—Sumter County Times.

Editorial Indignation.

A fellow in this county who has been taking our paper for two and a half years—whenever one "kicks the bucket" for it during that time—got "miffed up" with us the other day and refused to take the News out of the post office because we sent him—along with many others—a polite statement of his account. Now if this delinquent delinquent had settled up his arrears, and then ordered his paper stopped, we would have thought a great deal more of him, and wouldn't have minded giving him a half column obituary notice (just to please his folks)—with a verse or two of poetry attached—whenever he passes over to that hot country from whence no delinquent subscriber returns. But we can't do it now. We couldn't afford to insert more than two lines about his demise. We don't mind lying a little about a prompt paying subscriber, whenever one "kicks the bucket," but we just be doggone if we are going to wait a delinquent to heaven when we know that he has gone to the other place.—Crystal River News.

Muck Fuel Machine.

We took a look at that muck machinery as we passed by, last evening—it is immense, heavy, gigantic wheels, rollers, grinders, and crushers; it looks "terrible" enough to crush anything crushable on earth. The Lamar Being Groomed.

There are unmistakable signs that Congressman Lamar's friends are grooming him for the Senatorial race when Senator Mallory's term expires.—Starke Telegraph.

Boss Strawberry Grower.

Frank Fletcher, the boss strawberry grower residing two miles west of Plant City, sold strawberries the week after the freeze in the amount of $100, and on Monday brought in $52 worth. He has not missed a single picking since the cold weather, but goes right on salting down a good bank account.—Plant City Courier.

Great is the Mule.

The negro and the mule in these latter days are not getting many encomiums passed upon them, but the Ocala Banner has at last run upon one to the mule which it reprints with merriment and pleasure. It is from a Missouri postmaster, who knows something about this faithful, but much abused animal. The postmaster's name is Wilton and his town is Macon.

When asked his opinion of the horseless carriage for rural mail delivery, here is what he said: "The more Missouri ones of the automobile, the more it likes the mule. The Missouri bird of paradise will go where no auto would dare to tread. He will haul you over fifty-three clay hills on time or kick holes through them and go under. Nothing will discourage a mule. You never have to stop and fix him. You don't have to take a monkey wrench and a bit of burglar's tools along. There's no danger of his blowing up. Difficult roads only inspire him to greater efforts. After colliding with a tree or a brick house the auto is sent to the junk house, but the mule is only brighter and gayier after each collision. It is the thing that he runs up against that goes to the scrap pile. A mule sets more than an automobile, but he gives greater results. Stick to the mule!"—Punta Florida Herald.

SCHOOL TEACHERS MUST ALL BE GOOD LOOKING

Applicants for Positions in Alachua County Have No Chance Unless They are Prepossessing.

(Gainesville Sun)

There is a law—an unwritten law—in the Board of Public Instruction that applicants for teachers from other than residents of Alachua county be required to file their photograph with the application. This is not an order of Superintendent Kelley, whom it must be admitted admires with all his heart the likeness of handsome young ladies, but an informal order and instruction from the board, which has been in effect for some time—a great many months before Dr. Kelley assumed the important position of superintendent, and it is good-naturedly claimed that the order emanated from the suggestion of former Superintendent Holloway. At any rate, it is an unwritten understanding, and Dr. Kelley states that he proposes in future to enforce it.

Teaching school is indeed a peculiar profession. However efficient a teacher may be, the patrons of the school prefer a good-looking instructor, whom they declare will command a better prestige. In negotiating for a teacher they will invariably ask of the superintendent what kind of a looking person the applicant may be, and in a great many cases formerly the superintendent has been unable to answer. Dr. Kelley, however, proposes in future to be in position to meet these conditions, and will have the photograph on file with the application. "You know its peculiar but its true that looks have a great deal to do with the employment of teachers," remarked Superintendent Kelley. "A fine teacher who is not favored with form and grace and beauty does not stand ordinarily half the show that some better looking person might have with half the training and ability."

Dr. Kelley states that he will insist in the future that all applicants beyond the limits of the county be accompanied by photographs, and no objection will be made to photographs of applicants within the county.

"There is another thing to which I desire to call the attention of teachers," remarked the superintendent, "and that is, some teachers must improve in penmanship. It would surprise you to see the miserable writing of some of the most efficient teachers in the employ of the county. I will insist that in future applicants and teachers shall be proficient in this branch, which has been sadly neglected, for I do not believe it practical for teachers to teach successfully something which they do not master themselves. I know of several instructors who are eminently proficient in other branches, but they must 'brighten up' if they want to hold a job in Alachua county."

Dr. Kelley states that the board has continued the arrangement with East Florida Seminary for the attendance of teachers at the normal, which begins on the 13th inst. and continues for two weeks, and is very anxious that all teachers who can do so attend. This will have a great deal to do in the matter of appointment of teachers for the coming season.

FISHING INDUSTRY IS GROWING AT MIAMI

Most Successful Season in History of the City Was Practically Closed Last Week.

(Miami Record.)

The most satisfactory and profitable fish season in Miami's history practically closed with the end of last week. All the boats of the Miami Fish & Produce Co.—the Guerry, the Cause and the Bloxham—are in from their last trip and are preparing to leave for their summer homes.

The Miami Fish Company's boats are all out on their last trip, and McIvlin & Clark and the Rasterson house are closing up their season's business, and there is little left to be done along the fish docks but to complete, book, detail and start the boats and crews for their respective places of abode.

Speaking of the season from a commercial standpoint this morning, Mr. Fogg of the Miami Fish Co. said: "The fish business of Miami, who season now ending, will about double that of last winter; in fact, it has about doubled every season for the past five or six years, and I see no reason why the annual increase should not keep up for some time to come. We are getting better boats, better facilities and more experienced men and extending our trade into new markets, and the prospects are that we will enter next season under many improved conditions.

"This season's catch will be more than 1,500,000 pounds, and the money returned from their sale will be slightly to the good of $100,000. If you will think about this you will probably conclude that this is not so bad for one branch of Miami business, especially when you consider that it lasts only four months.

"There is some talk," continued Mr. Fogg, "of the fish supply giving out here, as it did once on the east coast, but I am not at all alarmed over such a possibility. Of course the nearby waters will become somewhat depleted, in fact, they are now as we have to go a distance of 110 miles at this time to fish for our mackerel, but this is not due to any diminution of the supply, but simply to the fact that the fish become frightened and do not venture so near the old fishing grounds. We will likely be compelled to keep going a little further after them each year, but we will get them just the same, but perhaps at a small increase of expense.

"There is one feature of the fishing business here that will perhaps prove interesting and that is the character of the equipment required. Mackerel fishing here requires the very best class of power vessels and the highest quality of services. For instance, we need one vessel in our mackerel service that cost enough to buy a whole muller fleet on the west coast. But we, as well as the others engaged in the business here, can afford this, as mackerel is a very choice fish and always sell readily and command satisfactory prices.

"The level of fish prices this season," continued Mr. Fogg, "has not been quite so high as formerly, on account of the large catches and full supply, but, all in all, the winter's business has been quite satisfactory, and the prospects for next season are bright and encouraging."
