PENSACOLA, FLORIDA, MAY 30, 1905.

The Daily News's Boomerang Has Hit Home.

If the city election could have been held last night an indignant public sentiment would have swept Chas. H. Bliss into office by the largest vote ever given a candidate for mayor in this city.

That, at least, as the condition as The Journal has been able to gather it, and that is the sentiment, we believe, which even the Anti-Primary people themselves have found exists throughout the community.

After many veiled threats, after a direct announcement Saturday of some sensational disclosure that was to come, after numerous caucuses and no little work all day Sunday, the Daily News yesterday afternoon, in that peculiar fashion of its own so characteristic of main strength and awkwardness, brought forth the issue that was to turn the tide and demote the enemy.

And it was in the form of another TELEGRAM! A real, actual TELEGRAM this time, so they say. Well—

The Journal publishes that telegram, including the whole News report, in these columns this morning. We trust the public will read it and, as it appears in the columns of The Journal, we feel sure that the public will do so. The Journal also—

Publishes Mr. Bliss's reply to this telegram. We know the public will read the reply, and until the public has had a chance to read it and digest it The Journal will for the present refrain from comment on it. We have previously remarked, however, that we thought Mr. Bliss was abundantly able to take care of himself in this matter and his reply, we think, justifies our previous impression.

It is of course not especially material, but while we are on the subject, The Journal would take advantage of this opportunity to commend one feature—yes, two features—in the editorial page of the Daily News which must of necessity have been the result of a great deal of religious reflection and Sunday labor.

The features consist of the earnest and fervid appeal which our devout contemporary makes to the people in the name of CHRISTIANITY and of LABOR.

This is the first occasion that we recall wherein its tender solicitude for the public welfare has ever led the Daily News to such an extreme appeal, and we can only trust that its apparent recently developed love for religion and labor may be as abiding as its purpose is apparent.

Now, as to this question of Mormonism—but really it is too deep a question for discussion in any such limited time or space as The Journal happens to have just now at its disposal. But we may say this—

If the importation of a Mormon or two from Salt Lake City—one of the cleanest, most progressive, and best governed cities on the American continent—could do for Pensacola what some one has done for Salt Lake City, we are willing to have a dozen or so of them imported at once. We will go further and say that—

WE HAVE A DECIDEDLY MORE WHOLESOME RESPECT FOR A DECENT, LAW-ABIDING, RESPECTABLE MORMON THAN WE HAVE FOR CERTAIN PEOPLE WHOM WE WILL NOT NAME, BUT WHOSE PERSONALITY THE PUBLIC CAN LOCATE WITHOUT MUCH TROUBLE, AND, IN CONCLUSION, PERMIT US TO SAY THAT—

IF MR. BLISS WERE A MORMON TEN TIMES OVER—THOUGH HE IS NOT—WE SHOULD INFINITELY PREFER TO SEE HIM AT THE HEAD OF THE CITY GOVERNMENT, ELECTED BY CLEAN METHODS AND WHITE VOTERS, THAN TO HAVE A MAYOR WHOSE ONLY HOPE OF ELECTION DEPENDS ON DIRTY METHODS AND THE NEGRO VOTE.

WE HAVE NO FEAR OF MORMON DOMINATION IN PENSACOLA, BUT WE ARE NOT GOING TO TAKE ANY CHANCES ON NEGRO DOMINATION.

It may be a little foreign to the issue, but it has just occurred to The Journal that if Mr. Shine should be elected mayor he would have to resign that Republican job of referee in bankruptcy which Judge Swayne appointed him to some time ago.

Since the Daily News took occasion to ridicule Mr. Avery's "Jim Crow" bill when it was introduced and since Candidate Shine has never publicly announced his position on the subject, The Journal would suggest that at his next meeting Mr. Shine tell the public where he stands regarding the "Jim Crow" law—does he think it a good law or a bad one?

The Journal seeks to suppress every feature of this important contest so vital to the good name and fame of this old city and for this purpose boasts loudly on its primary tom tom to distract attention from the real issue which is its candidate who is proved out of his own mouth to be an enemy to organized labor, and a schemer who, while promising the people free water, is working industriously to get a charter for a new water company which would be of immense value to him and those interested with him.

Oh no, The Journal doesn't seek to suppress anything, either about the issues or the candidates, and every intelligent reader knows that what the News says in the above is false. Nor is it "distracting" (this word is really in the dictionary) from any issue or issues. As a matter of fact, The Journal will be read this morning by more regular subscribers than all the people who read the thousands of extra copies which the News printed yesterday afternoon and which were distributed free.

It may surprise The Journal, however, to know that those contributors to the interesting literature of the campaign are, almost to a man, strong advocates of the primary, but they still at Bliss for mayor. They are not character assassins though The Journal has been pleased to term them such, and the manager of that paper may have cause to regret the harsh language employed.

The manager of "that paper"—to wit: The Journal—is not worried over the threat which its puny little contemporary makes in the above.

On the contrary, if out of all the volume of anonymous hogwash which the News tries to dignify by calling the product of "business men," it can produce three articles that were written by that many reputable business men of Pensacola, The Journal would like to be introduced to the writers. Nay, more, it would like the privilege of publishing their names so that the public may see who and what they are.

The Journal may be wrong, but its faith in the honor and integrity and common decency of the business men of Pensacola repudiates any such idea. The Journal does business with nearly all of the business men—possibly twice as many of them as does the News, and probably three times as much business—and it is frank to say that in them all, it doesn't know a single one who it thinks would stoop to the methods which characterize some of those communications.

The communications referred to are generally believed to be written by a few people who are paid for doing it, and the News is not helping either itself or its cause by trying to lay the responsibility onto the business men.

If they had only known what a boomerang it was going to be.

The Journal's war news was first Sunday morning as it is also this morning. The Associated Press has covered itself with glory in its reports of the big naval engagement.

There is one sure way to distinguish the Bliss men and the Shine men now—the former wear broad smiles while the latter are both glum and mad. Just do a little observing yourself and see if it isn't so.

The Daily News still fails to answer the question: "Are you or are you not in favor of a White Primary System?" In the absence of an answer we are reluctantly compelled to believe you ARE NOT.

Which do you belong to, the glad side or the mad side? If you are among the latter, you can probably find congenial company either at the News office or the fish house—any time between now and election.

It may be a little foreign to the issue, but it has just occurred to The Journal that if Mr. Shine should be elected mayor he would have to resign that Republican job of referee in bankruptcy which Judge Swayne appointed him to some time ago.

Since the Daily News took occasion to ridicule Mr. Avery's "Jim Crow" bill when it was introduced and since Candidate Shine has never publicly announced his position on the subject, The Journal would suggest that at his next meeting Mr. Shine tell the public where he stands regarding the "Jim Crow" law—does he think it a good law or a bad one?

GIBBINS MAY BE A CANDIDATE

A special to the Jacksonville Metropolis from F. L. Huffaker, its correspondent at Tallahassee says:

Rumors regarding prospective candidates for the governor's chair four years to come, in spite of the fact that only a few months of that period have dropped upon the back seat of the wagon of political destiny, are as "thick as flies in June time," and it is a very common thing to have a new governor elected daily by those who regard themselves as prophets of things political. Among those mentioned so far are Attorney General Ellis, Railroad Commissioner R. Hudson Burr, President Trammell, Speaker Gilchrist, Frank Adams, and—well, the list is too numerous for mention in one issue.

Another name has been added to the list—that of Hon. Cromwell Gibbons, of Jacksonville, the general lawyer who was speaker of the House in 1903.

Mr. Gibbons's frequent visits to Tallahassee since the beginning of the session have led some to believe that the gubernatorial bee is buzzing "quite considerable" in the gentleman's dome of thought. In view of this state of affairs, I ventured to ask the gentleman if he was among the army of "prospectives," to which he replied:

"It's too early to talk of such a matter at present, for a good many moons will pass and a good many things happen between now and the close of Governor Broward's term. There is another legislature to consider, and no one can tell what kind of a candidate 'crop' will spring up from that or the present session."

"I didn't ask for information as to other prospective candidates," I said; "I asked for information as to whether the bee was at work in your bonnet."

The only reply I got was a non-committal smile and a good Tampa cigar, the fumes of which exploded my bump of persistent inquisitiveness and carried me off into a dream that I was so unfortunate as to be a gubernatorial candidate myself. God forbid!

From the constant mention of Mr. Gibbons's name in connection with the gubernatorial race, from his frequent trips to Tallahassee and conferences with men of the "powers that be," also from the non-committal answer to my direct question, it is evident that there is decidedly something more than "hot air" in the reports of the prospective candidacy of the gentleman from Duval for governor.
