A few days ago S. R. The Journal ad did it. Do you want to sell your business? If so, advertise it.

NOT OBEYING THE JIM CROW LAW

So Says County Solicitor Bryan of Duval County and He Will Prosecute Street Car Companies

County Solicitor W. J. Bryan, of Duval county, announced that, in his opinion, the street car company in Jacksonville is not complying with the "Jim Crow" law and he intends to prosecute the company. The Jacksonville company has adopted the same rules for the separation of the races in the cars as those adopted by the Pensacola company, and the matter will therefore be watched with interest in this city. Speaking of the case the Jacksonville Metropolis says:

Mr. Bryan's Reasons.
The reasons given by the solicitor for this action were that the street car companies were not complying with the law. He said that the law requires the street car companies to "furnish separate accommodations for white and colored passengers," that they are required to separate them "by separate cars or fixed divisions, or movable screens, or other method of division in the cars of such lines."

When asked what he proposed to do the solicitor replied:
"I propose to file information against all companies, persons, associations of persons, firms or corporations which have operated their cars without having provided separate cars or cars within which no fixed divisions, movable screens or other similar methods of division for each and every day any such persons had so operated such cars since the 1st day of July, 1905. The companies were given by the legislature until July 1st to fix their cars, and not having done so, and apparently not intending to do so, it has now become my duty to enforce the law and compel them to do so. I entertain no doubt as to the constitutionality of the law."
The penalty for the violation of the law is a fine not exceeding $50 for each car for every day that the law has been violated.

The Children's Jacket Makers union, which has a membership of 5,000, has ordered a general strike to go into effect to-day for higher wages and recognition of the union.

THE ELECTION AT DeFUNIACK

Special to The Journal.
DeFuniack Springs, July 11.—The election for mayor, clerk, marshal and four aldermen took place to-day. It was a hotly contested election and chief interest was in the vote for mayor. Dr. Henry, who has been continuously mayor since the organization of the town, was opposed by W. V. Flournoy, and the result was as follows:
For mayor, G. P. Henry, 80; W. V. Flournoy, 55.

The following gentlemen were elected to succeed themselves: For Aldermen, A. L. Beach, M. Kaplan, W. T. May, B. P. Morris.
For Clerk, D. S. Gillih, 41; John F. Watson, 35.
For Marshal, N. C. Morrison, 40; John W. Douglass, 20; H. H. Stewart, 11.

For Forty years Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been curing summer complaint, dysentery, diarrhoea, bloody flux, pain in the stomach, and it has never yet failed to do everything claimed for it.

Let the Cat Out of the Bag.

A certain English innkeeper's family conducted a weekly raffle. In this raffle the prizes were turkeys, ducks, young pigs, baskets of eggs and such like rural commodities. A quantity of steel disks, numbered from 1 to 25, were put into a black bag, and the little daughter of the innkeeper put her hand in the bag and drew a disk for each speculator in turn. The person whose number was the highest got the prize.

Well, it had been noticed that the innkeeper's wife got the prize pretty frequently, but nothing was thought of this by the simple, honest rural folk.

One evening, though, the little girl, with her hand in the bag, paused. It was her mother's turn, and she did not draw forth her mother's disks in her usual quick and careless way. She rummaged about. The other rafflers looked at one another oddly. The innkeeper said:

"Come, come, child, hurry up."
"But, father," said the little girl, "I can't find the hot one."

Oldest Dwellings in Europe.

One of the very earliest human settlements in Europe is Roche Corbon, on the banks of the Loire, seven miles above Tours. Here limestone cliffs stretch for miles and are pigeonholed with caves, which are on different levels and open on to terraces. When the rest of the country was nothing but forest land Roche Corbon was a thriving settlement inhabited by wild skin clad predecessors of the present cave dwellers. These terraces and caves were formed by the action of mighty rivers, and during the glacial period, when the climate of that portion of France was very severe, man drove out the bears and hyenas and took refuge in these natural shelters, which faced south, and so became human settlements of a primitive sort. Near at hand were the rivers and great forests full of fish and game.

The Really "Good Man."

If you are really "a good man," if you can really do good work in any line, you do not need capital. In every trade newspaper you will find advertisements of this character: "The services of a good man more important than capital." A cry goes up from every quarter for really good men, men who can accomplish results, men who will not cause more trouble around a shop than their services are worth. Of course you say you are "a good man," but if you can prove it you are all right. There is no end to the possibilities of a young man who has good habits, good health and is able to do something well.—Atchison Globe.

Sought a Safe Spot.

"A Chinaman asleep in a tiger trap is something of a novelty, even for Perak," says a Penang writer. "A cooly was discovered one morning coiled up in a Kinta mine, having apparently passed the night in the trap. When rescued he said that sleep had overtaken him, and so he chose the one spot least likely for the tiger to visit—the trap that had been set for a tiger without result. He thought that the tiger knew a thing or two about traps."

HAPPY CROWD AT SUNBURNT CAMP

Sunburnt Camp, Duncan's Point, Garner's Bayou, July 10.

Editor Pensacola Journal:
We are always glad to get the old reliable Journal at our camp every other day and nothing pleases us more than to hear from home.

There are nine in our camp, viz: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. L. Johnson, Misses Allie McGuire, Claude Pereira, Bella Duncan, Messrs. Dallas Duncan, Jas. Duncan, Thomas Duncan and Jas. Dunham. We get lots of fine fruit from the Duncan's orchards, good fishing and boating.

Stopping at the old Gus place are Allie Riera and father and several others, all having a fine time.

Mrs. Johnson has caught the most fish of any one in camp; Mr. Johnson the largest trout; Mr. Johnson the largest bunch of fresh water fish. Uncle Tom and Jim Duncan send their regards to Editor Frank Mayes. ONE WHO IS SUNBURNT.

Meals in the Dark Ages.

Few references can be found as to the manner in which a meal was served and eaten during the dark ages. As near as we can learn, the soup was put in a big bowl with ears, called a "porringer." There was seldom a spoon for each person. Those who had spoons dipped them into the porringer, and the liquid was carried directly to each mouth. Those who were without spoons drank their soup from the porringer, holding it by one of the ears, or else borrowed a spoon of their neighbor. The meats were placed in a large vessel in the center of the table. Each person present at the meal picked out with his fingers such bits as he desired. One or two knives answered for half a dozen guests. Those who were without knives borrowed from those who had them. As a rule, the guests at table used their own knives. There is no evidence that napkins were supplied to guests at this period. At any rate, no mention is made of them.

Lovers of Coffee.

The London Globe doubts whether there is anywhere in the world a place more addicted to coffee than the little island of Groix, about nine miles distant from Lorient. The customs' records show that the annual consumption of coffee in the island is about 90,000 pounds. Now, the population is 5,300, and, as the men pass practically their whole lives afloat as seamen, this large quantity must be consumed by about 3,000 women, children and old men. It works out at thirty pounds a head per annum.

A Healthy Puppy.

"There's only one good thing about that young puppy that came to see you last night," said the irascible father, "and that is he's healthy."
"I'm surprised to hear you admit that much," replied the dutiful daughter.

"I wouldn't except for the fact that when you met him in the hall last night I heard you say, 'Oh, George, how cold your nose is!'"

CITY DOG CATCHER WAS EXONERATED.

Jim Powell, who took the contract to catch all stray curs roaming the streets of the city when the dog law went into effect, and who was arrested during the latter portion of last week on a charge of having caught a dog in a yard and then having accepted 50 cents from the owner to turn the animal loose, was given a hearing before Judge Landrum yesterday afternoon and exonerated.

WANTED TO SLEEP.

Curious That a Tired Preacher Should Have Such a Desire.

A minister speaks of the curious effect of Grape-Nuts food on him and how it has relieved him.
"You will doubtless understand how the suffering with indigestion with which I used to be troubled made my work an almost unendurable burden, and why it was that after my Sabbath duties had been performed, sleep was a stranger to my pillow till nearly daylight.

"I had to be very careful as to what I ate, and even with all my care I experienced poignant physical distress after meals, and my food never satisfied me."
"Six months have elapsed since I began to use Grape-Nuts food, and the benefits I have derived from it are very definite. I no longer suffer from indigestion, and I began to improve from the time Grape-Nuts appeared on our table. I find that by eating a dish of it after my Sabbath work is done, (and I always do so now) my nerves are quieted and rest and refreshing sleep are ensured me. I feel that I could not possibly do without Grape-Nuts food, now that I know its value. It is invariably on our table—we feel that we need it to complete the meal—and our children will eat Grape-Nuts when they cannot be persuaded to touch anything else." ## TO INVESTIGATE ASPHALT CLAIM

By Associated Press.
Chicago, July 11.—William J. Calhoun, of Chicago, has been selected by President Roosevelt to act as a special commissioner to visit Venezuela and determine the equity of the asphalt company's claims and other vexed questions. Mr. Calhoun went to Cuba of somewhat similar import before the Spanish-American war. When the report of the appointment was brought to Mr. Calhoun he refused to discuss the matter but did not deny it.
Mr. Calhoun was a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission from 1898 to 1900.

Nothing renders a young person more amiable than virtue and modesty without the help of false hair. Red cow tail and D— (the barber)—"Diary of Anna Green Winslow," Alice Mono Earle, 1771.

Keep Your Brain Busy.
Dr. Duke, the leading English brain specialist, says the trouble with most brains is that they are not kept busy enough. The brain ought never rest except during sleep, and most persons take too much of that. A good, healthy circulation of blood would be maintained in the brain if professional men would relax themselves from their intellectual pursuits, not in golf, but in chess problems and scientific investigations.

MAY KNOCK OUT STANDARD OIL CO.

By Associated Press.
Kansas City, July 11.—The taking of testimony in the suit of the attorney general of the state to oust the Standard Oil Company from Missouri, was resumed here to-day before Judge Robert A. Anthony, the case having been transferred from St. Louis. Herbert B. Hadley, the attorney general and two assistants, represented the state. The state charges that the defendants have entered into a combination to control the prices of oil, destroying competition. Judge Anthony was named special commissioner by the supreme court to hear the testimony and report the findings in the case. After examining several witnesses here, he will likely go to other parts of the state for the same purpose.

Looking at a new moon for the first time through obstructions, as through a treetop, foretells misfortune during that moon. To see it over the right shoulder and in a clear space brings good luck.

When Lightning Kills.
"As a rule," says a meteorological expert, "those killed by lightning maintain an appearance of life, staying in the attitude which they had when struck. An English minister named Butler witnessed the following: In the town of Beverdon ten harvesters had sought refuge under a hedge during a storm. Lightning struck and killed four, who were left as if petrified. One was found holding in his fingers the snuff which he was about to take. Another had a little dead dog on his knees and had one hand on the animal's head, while holding in the other hand some bread with which he had been feeding it. A third was sitting with his eyes open and his head turned toward the storm."—Chicago Tribune.
