THE GIRL WHO SMILED.
The wind was east and the chimney smoked,
And the old brown house seemed dreary;
For nobody smiled and nobody joked,
The young folks grumbled, the old folks croaked,
They had come home chilled and weary.

Then opened the door, a girl came in,
Oh, she was homely—very—
Her nose was pug and her cheek was thin,
There wasn't a dimple from brow to chin,
But her smile was bright and cheery.

She spoke not a word of the cold and damp,
Nor yet of the gloom about her;
But she mended the fire and lighted the lamp,
And she put on the place a different stamp
From that it had without her.

Her dress, which was something in sober brown,
And with gampness nearly dripping;
She changed for a bright, warm crimson gown,
And she looked so gay when she came and sung,
They forgot that the air was nipping.

They forgot that the house was a dull old place,
And smoky from base to rafter;
And gloom departed from every face
As they felt the charm of her mirthful grace
And the cheer of her happy laughter.

Oh, give me the girl who will smile and sing,
And make all glad together,
To be plain or fair is a lesser thing;
But a kind, unselfish heart can bring
Good cheer in the darkest weather.

FOR MR. FORCHEIMER AND HIS BRIDE.
Four couples, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Levy, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Greenhut, Mr. and Mrs. J. Vidal gave an all day picnic at Magnolia Bluff Sunday, in honor of Mr. Edward Forcheimer and bride.

Each couple, accompanied by its family, drove out in its own trap, leaving the city at 6 a. m. and returning at 7 p. m.

They found the crabbing and fishing fine and, as Mr. Joseph catered for them they simply feasted on the most deliciously cooked sea food.

Mr. Cohen caught the largest trout the party has ever seen—big enough to have alone furnished a square meal for the crowd, including the happy-hungry children who were taken along and given full sway, in the water and ashore.

ENJOYABLE PICNIC AT ELECTRIC PARK.
One of the most enjoyable days ever spent by a crowd of young folks was a picnic given at Electric Park Sunday, the hostesses being Miss Katie Cusachs and Miss Mildred De Rocheblave. The day was spent bathing and having a good time, playing games and enjoying delightful refreshments. The crowd was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Commyns, Mrs. Cusachs, Mrs. M. Johnson and Mrs. Williams, and the following young people attended: Misses Katie Cusachs, Mildred, Clara and Lena De Rocheblave, Louise Commyns, Blanch McHugh, Clyde Allen, Ida Kramer, Eva Zerr, Irene Braswell, Bertie Dunham, Katie Haynes, Neita Elliott, Alberta Villar, Minor Wolf, Aneta Schmitz, Elenora Schmitz, Gertrude Whitehead, Florence Wolf, Genevieve Hallmark, Hilan Griffin, Mattie O'Brien, Modeste Rosique, Larine Johnson, Nannie Sweeney, Lala, Helen and Mary Cusachs.

Messrs. Willie Bogart, Leoncio Borras, Frances Commyns, Johnnie Miller, "Chip" Klumker, Ailie Murphy, Robert Pine, Willie Perry, Bunrup Olsen, Joe Stokes, Azell LeGardevant, Charles Touart, Cecil Hoyer, Alphonse Touart, Willie Schmitz, Willie Bell, Julius Daniels, Jasper Lovings, Woodward Day, Clarence Pfeiffer, Ernest Miller, Eddie Anderson, Quintin Borras, Gam Golsy, Tony Klumker, Chas. and Edwin Polman, Earnest Braswell, Joe Gerl, Thomas Cusachs, Chis Mertin.

Music was furnished by Misses Neita Elliott, Genevieve Hallmark and Bertie Ren Lonsberry.

A PRETTY CHRISTENING.
Gwendolyn Howard, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Howard was christened Sunday afternoon at the residence of her maternal grandmother Mrs. J. W. Gingles.

Rev. F. A. Rogers pastor of the Gadsden M. E. church officiated in the presence of a few friends and relatives.

The baby was lovely in a dainty Valenciennes robe the gift of a friend, and behaved beautifully.

The rooms were tastefully decorated the occasion was most enjoyable, light refreshments being daintily served.

MRS. FELTON'S PLEA FOR A DECENT HERITAGE, AS THE RIGHT OF CHILDREN.
In a fragment of the Royston, Ga. Record of some date in May, appears the following comment on an address made by Mrs. W. H. Felton which is worthy of reproduction and thoughtful perusal. The address was delivered at College Hall in Royston, May 22, and the Record says:

"It was one of the events of the commencement season. It was listened to by an appreciative audience and produced a deep and lasting impression, an impression that will last long in the hearts of our people. Her plea for the home, the substitute for that Garden of Eden lost in the morning of creation, was most touching, sweet and beautiful.

She said in part: "The bearing, the nurture, and education of children is the first duty of the world of mankind. Sowing wild oats may be recreation to the thoughtless men of the period but what a harvest of woe to unsuspecting wives and mothers?"

"The first duty of the state is to conserve all forces that will make happy and useful men and women. The first duty of the church is to maintain a barrier behind which men and women can so live as to perpetuate the race in virtue and sobriety, and the first duty of the family is to remove far away from those yet to be as well as those already here, every taint of evil or disease that will corrupt and debase the innocent and helpless."

She said children have not only the right to good pure blood, free from every taint of vice and disease, but also a pure, wholesome Christian home, let it be cabin or mansion. And the obligation to provide these things is laid upon parents by the hand that created all things and enforced by the penalty of losing every species of satisfaction and happiness should they fail in these duties.

She truly said that millions of money and all other things combined could not satisfy us if our children go wrong from our neglect.

She said there are 1,000,000 deficient, deformed, idiotic people in the United States to-day due from avoidable causes, and that the laws of the future may define marriageable people by requiring them to have a certificate of sound mind and body and by requiring a bond for the faithful discharge of the duties of the marriage state.

Indeed it was a noble and gracious message from a full heart and brain of one of the South's greatest women. The greatest of it all it was spoken so tenderly and motherly and good. Mrs. Felton has endeared herself to hundreds of our people who feel that her coming was a blessing that may soon be repeated.

Why does she not write a book upon home, the paradise of earth, for the benefit of her beloved Georgians and for which she is so well qualified?

VIVIAN GREY NEW YORK'S POPULAR COMPOSER HERE.
Robert A. Keiser, the composer of New York, who, under the nom de plume of "Vivian Grey," wrote Mabel McKinley's great successes "Anona" and "Karama," and who is also the author of the international sacred song success, "Beyond the gates of Paradise"—is visiting his aunt Mrs. A. Levy on Spring street.

While here Mr. Keiser will finish the last act of his new opera "Xantippe," which is booked in New York for a run this winter.

ALL IN JAIL 'CEPT ME.
A white man stopped at the boot black stand of "Major" a bow-legged colored man on Tarragona south of the depot. No one was there but a customer whose shoes were being industriously "shined" by a tiny plebeian who is said to be six years old, but hardly looks four. In fact he is so little that he had to stand up straight to "shine" the shoes of the occupant of the chair on its little platform.

"Where's everybody?" inquired the white man.

"All in jail 'cept me," was the mid-get's brief, businesslike reply. "Have a shine?"

THE FIRST OF THE FALL JACKETS.

The first cold days of autumn make one's thoughts turn to the question of coats, and there is nothing that will fill in so well and be suitable for so much general wear as a covert coat. The one pictured shows the smart broad shoulder, the closer fit at the waist, and sleeve that is fashionably full at the top, tapering in at the wrist to a smart cuff. Stitched strap-plings are the only attempt at trimming and there follow the severe simplicity of the accepted tailor mode. The collar, with lapels, is after the mannish style, and the fastening is effected invisibly under a fly down the centre front. Rows of machine stitching afford a smart finish.
