Seen, Heard and Done Among Those Who Go, Come and Tarry—Women and Society, Here and Elsewhere

MISS ISRAEL SURPRISED.
Miss Janette Israel was surprised Sunday night by the Summer Social Club in a very pleasant way.

The red and white color scheme of the decorations were carried throughout even in the refreshments and the hostess was the recipient of a gold seal ring presented by Miss Alice Wagenheim.

The table was made very attractive by a large oval glass bowl of red and white roses on a large battenberg center piece over red.

Various games were enjoyed, "Telegram" being the principal amusement, at the close of which Miss Ethel Friedman was awarded the prize.

Among those present were Misses and Messrs. Ethel Friedman, Alice Wagenheim, Bertram Coleman, Bertram Helberg, Henry Frolichstein, Jeanette and Ethel Israel, Aubrey Wetland, Max Guggenheim.

FLORIDIANS IN ATLANTA.
Quite a number of informal dinners will be given at the Driving Club this evening. Mrs. Jefferson Brown of Tallahassee, and Mrs. William Porter of Key West, will be guests of honor at one dinner party. Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Porter are two of the handsomest of Florida young society matrons. The guests at dinner will include:

Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Brown, Mr. and Mrs. George Williamson, Miss Graham of Alabama, Mrs. William Porter of Florida, Mr. Thomas Felder, Mr. Logan Johnson.—Atlanta News.

GOVERNOR BITTINGER.
Whenever the press gang needs a ready, brilliant orator to make an important speech, on a subject likely to excite the ability of the other numerous orators present, "the distinguished editor of the Ocala Star, Col. Bittinger" is always called upon, always responds gracefully and eloquently to everybody's satisfaction, and it is very gratifying to his friends to have the Tampa Tribune nominate Col. Bittinger to succeed Governor Broward—since Mr. Broward cannot succeed himself. Mrs. Bittinger would make a charming "first lady of the land."

GOOD EFFECTS OF DR. KENNEDY'S SENSE.
Dr. S. R. Mallory Kennedy is entitled to a vote of thanks—a unanimous vote—from us plain, untechnical, unprofessional people who do not know the difference between a stegomyia and a peanometer. One woman who read, understood and was grateful for Dr. Kennedy's plain, common-sense interview on the most interesting subject now being discussed—with and without the dis—said to the writer:

"I wish I could tell Dr. Kennedy what I think of him, for what he told The Journal. I declare, I was scared out of my wits after I read those long-winded things—they were just like a warrant, or a brief or some of those ridiculous law papers my husband has grown gray explaining to the people. Do you know what I did Sunday? Instead of going to church or Sunday school as usual I got hub and the children off early. Then I put up one side of our mosquito net near the open window where that bush stands. Then I sho'd all the little beasts I could, from under the bush into the net. Then I put the net down and examined them as I gently pressed their life out one by one.

"And—what do you think? In the whole lot there was not a single creature with a 'blue' wing. I spent about three hours fineing out about them, and have felt so light hearted and relieved ever since. And Sunday night I slept sounder'n if I had gone to church."

As the writer believes in giving roses to the living, she ventures to publish this compliment for Dr. Kennedy, trusting that, as he pays nothing for this notice his brethren will not withdraw the hand of fellowship from him, supposing it is a "regular" advertisement. "Cause 'tain't.

If you wish to secure immunity from form mosquito bites, mix a little alcohol and water and add a few drops of pennyroyal, then apply it to the hands, neck and face. Scattered on the bed-

The odor will drive the pests from the sleeping room. Those to whom pennyroyal is offensive might use oil of cedar or citronelle with perhaps equally good results.—Tampa Times.

The Hartford, S. D., Herald says: Saturday Howard Lee Mayes was four years old and in the afternoon his grandmother Mrs. I. C. Kingsberry, gave a party in his honor at the Kingsberry home. The children enjoyed a fine time and were given a ride in the evening in a hay rack.

NEEDED IT MOST.
A regiment was drawn up for church parade in the barracks square, but the church was being repaired and could hold only half of them.

"Sergeant major," shouted the colonel, "discharge all the men who did not fall out, and march the others to church—they need it most."—The Wasp.

A FITTING CHANGE.
Mrs. Pugh—Our minister says he is going to change the last part of the service.

Mrs. Knave—Does he think he can improve it?

Mrs. Pugh—No, but he thinks it's necessary. Instead of saying, "Let us sing the Doxology," he is going to say: "Let us adjust our clothes, slip on our gloves, grab our hats, forget all about the Lord and be dismissed."—Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune.

THE BAYEUX TAPESTRY.
An Extraordinary Work of Art of Great Historic Value.

Few besides those who have visited Bayeux or have especially studied the subject have any idea of what this extraordinary work of art is really like or have any authentic knowledge of its history. It tells the story of Edward, Harold and William and of the conquest of William in a series of pictures, so that its value is great as a chronicle as well as a relic of needlework 800 years old.

The vicissitudes of the treasure have been many. It is a curious fact that from 1476 until 1724 it seems to have dropped entirely out of the world's knowledge. It was preserved with care among the treasures of the Bayeux cathedral and was brought out for eight days every summer and hung about the nave of the cathedral. No one but the peasants ever saw it, and the cathedral authorities cared for it only as a decoration. In 1724 an old drawing of part of the tapestry came into the hands of a learned antiquarian, who tried without success to find the original. The Pere Montaucon also tried to find it and at last succeeded and told the world about it in his great book, "Monuments de la Monarchie Francaise."

The church had no power to protect such a treasure in 1724, and the ancient length of linen with its quaint embroidery was dragged out of the cathedral and used to cover one of the military wagons belonging to the local battalion. M. le Forestier rushed to its rescue and substituted a canvas to cover the wagon and brought the tapestry to his study till he was relieved from his self appointed mission by a commission that undertook the protection of the work of art. Now the tapestry has been restored and may be seen framed under glass in a museum of its own.

LIONS DEVoured THE KIDS.
The Kids and Lions played a game of baseball last evening at the corner of Palafox and De Soto streets which resulted in the Kids' defeat 13 to 17. The batteries were Mr. Roland White and Mr. Tom Bass Covington for "The Kids" and Mr. Warren Zellus and Mr. Edward Motto for "The Lions."

NOT TO BE DECEIVED.
Sergeant Sharp was as regimental as it is possible for a man to be. "Shun!" he cried to his squad. "Quick march! Left wheel! Halt! Take

THE GANGLWAY.
The Tampa Tribune offers a prize for an appropriate name for that section of the coming fair to reach which it is only necessary to "follow the crowd," at all expositions. Why not call it "The Gangway" in honor of the "press" sure to be there?

The Journal's Daily Fashion Feature

SAILOR SUI SERGE.

The sailor mode is always in good taste for the growing girl, and there are few styles with such possibilities for the picturesque. Blue serge or moiré or sidienne will develop well in this style, and while it is almost equally a favorite in the materials quoted. The blouse has a yoke section to which the fullness is applied; this is managed in the cutting rather than in the making. The broad collar and the shield are in white duck, and a cravat of scarlet ribbon is tied at the base of the sailor collar. The skirt is constructed with a yoke top, to which the skirt is plaited, the front carried up in tablier form to the band, and the fastening effected here. The sailor facing in the back is meant to be tied throughout.

WHY MERCHANTS HOULD ADVERTIE IN THE WEEKLY JOURNAL

The attention of merchants and advertisers in general is directed to the fact that The Journal's WEEKLY EDITION is now read by practically every reader in the county outside of the city who does not take the daily.

Advertisements in the DAILY reach practically all of the city people and a large part of the country people; but an advertisement in both the DAILY and the WEEKLY will reach all of them—both city and country.

THE WEEKLY JOURNAL is a compilation of the local and telegraphic news which has been published in the daily during the week, and it reaches every subscriber in time for him to read on Sunday.

No Pensacola merchant who desires the country trade can afford to stay out of The Weekly Journal.

It is mailed to subscribers for $1.00 per year, and practically every voter in Escambia county reads it.
