

A Dollar's Worth for a $1

The Mule

The mule is an ass. He has a very hard head. He thinks the size of his voice makes the size of an argument.

Some dealers "drag" a great deal about "cheap" prices.

It's the noise of value at the "Old Reliable," not the noise of words that convinces. There's always full value and a dollar's worth for a dollar here.

THE PENSACOLA CLASSICAL SCHOOL

OPINION OF EDUCATORS AS TO ITS WORK.

Prof. Walter Miller, professor of Greek in Tulane University, after visiting the classical school, wrote the following unsolicited opinion to a friend and colleague:

"The Pensacola Classical School is doing a splendid work for the cause of southern education. It is established upon broad principles, it cherishes the highest ideals of scholarship; it maintains a high standard of excellence; and by the best modern methods and equipment it secures thoroughness of training comparable with that afforded by the great fitting schools of the east. To my mind the Pensacola Classical School is one of the very best secondary schools of the south."

Dr. Venable, president of the University of North Carolina, writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the thoroughness of the preparation of the students who have come from your school to the university. We should be glad to have more of the same type."

Dr. Geo. Petrie, professor of Latin and History in the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, writes: "I consider the Pensacola Classical School one of the best fitting schools in this section of the south. I can confidently endorse the thoroughness of its work and the healthy, manly atmosphere that pervades the institution."

ONE OF JOURNAL STAFF IN INDIANA

Ben. H. Thomas Visiting Friends and Gathering Information There.

The Columbus, Ind., Republican of recent date says: Ben. H. Thomas, of the editorial staff of The Journal of Pensacola, Florida, who has been in Columbus several days, gathering data for an article for his paper, will leave for the south this evening. Twenty-two years ago Mr. Thomas was a nephew of Richard Thomas, a Columbus school boy, and recalls with pleasure the names of several who were at that time in the schools. From here he went to Chicago and later to the south and finally located in Florida. His principal object in making a tour of Indiana at this time is to gather information relative to interurban lines, with reference to their construction, operation, utility, and their usefulness as a factor in building up the territory through which they operate. He also gathers information about street paving, and kindred subjects. All these are woven into a story for his paper, the object being to encourage like investments and improvements in the south and especially in Pensacola. He is much impressed with the Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction Company's line from here to the capital city, and has been over the most of the other traction lines centering in Indianapolis and in the construction and operation of all of them he has found much good material for his purpose. He is also impressed with the northern idea of giving bonuses for the location of factories and will exploit that feature of northern thrift in a special article in his paper, and in so doing will likely tell of the successful effort to raise $100,000 in stock subscriptions to bring the Janney Manufacturing plant from Ottumwa, Iowa, to this city.

Mr. Thomas says that northern progressiveness and capital are doing much to develop the natural resources of that section of the country.

HARD QUESTIONS.

They Sound Simple, but You May Find the Answers Elusive.

"How many holes are there in a laced boot of the ordinary type? Do you know how many there are in the pair you are wearing? That is another question—and it is a little ambiguous, for the average man's ordinary laced boots are generally given away by his wife before he has had time to count the holes. "Which of the feet of a horse touch the ground in trotting?" asks the examiner. You may imagine the whole class raising arms and shouting, "All of 'em!"

Any one man may fog another with ignorance, for our knowledge is in patches. Is it worth your while, supposing you have any business to carry through, to ascertain how many V's there are on a clock face? Do you want to know how many ribs there are in the cover of your umbrella? This is the umbrella maker's business. You want only to find the time of day and avoid the rain. "Thousand words," says an editor to the amateur writer, who may be an umbrella maker. It happens many times a day. The amateur never knows what exertion and what space this means. But the journalist knows exactly the amount of gray matter, black ink and white paper the demand implies. How many words are there in this paragraph? Now—quick!

THE JAPANESE GIRL.

She is Gentleness itself, With an Air of Dainty Modesty.

There were not many Japanese women at the party, which made me wonder, considering the fact that there were hundreds of men present, but perhaps the absence of the many might be explained by the uncomfortable and self-conscious air of the few who were there in most unaccustomed foreign finery. Not that they wore it so badly. Not at all. That is a fiction of the foreign woman who is pleasantly blinded to the imperfections of her own kind.

Of course there are no Japanese girls with Gibson figures of lissom grace and Fifth avenue strides of splendid freedom, but the same thing may be said of many other women in many other climes. Everybody cannot be an American girl, you know, and I declare I think the Japanese girl runs some of her European sisters a very close second in her ability to wear graceful clothes as gracefully as possible with very limited assistance from Mother Nature. All Japanese waist lines run up in front and all Japanese girls are "pigeon toed," but all Japanese girls are gentleness itself, and their dainty modesty serves to conceal a multitude of peculiarities.—Los Angeles Weekly.

GIRL ARRESTED ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Assistant Postmistress of Pritchard, Ala., Alleged to Have Tampered With Mail.

The Mobile Herald of Tuesday says:

Miss Della Williams, 17 years of age, a handsome young woman and assistant postmaster at Pritchard, and a daughter of Postmaster O. R. Williams of the little suburban city, was arrested Saturday night by Deputy United States Marshal Gates. Miss Williams was placed under arrest on a warrant sworn out by Postoffice Inspector Thiele, charging her with irregularities in the postoffice, she having, according to alleged charges, tampered with mail matter.

When arrested Miss Williams was at her father's home at Pritchard. She came to the city with the deputy without objection. She was later placed under $150 bond, but owing to the lateness of the hour she was unable to make it, and instead of taking the young woman to jail Deputy Gates permitted her to go to the Southern hotel, where she was kept under surveillance. Deputy Gates reported his action to Marshal Deans, who approved it.

Yesterday morning Miss Williams made a bond and was released until this morning when she was to appear in the office of the inspector. After several hours "sweating" by the inspector Miss Williams was taken before Commissioner Dunlap. She immediately waived examination and was sent to the United States circuit court under $100 bond, which was furnished.

Miss Williams, who came from Coffeeville five years ago, has been a resident of Pritchard an assistant to her father about a year and a half. She is charged with having opened a letter addressed to another person.

The arrest of the young woman created quite a sensation in the little settlement, especially among her friends.

VARIETIES OF IVORY.

The Best Comes From the Elephants of East Africa.

Ivory is, strictly speaking, obtained only from the tusks of the elephant, the finest of which come from the east coast of Africa. This hard, heavy, fine grained green or grayish ivory is esteemed for its transparency and because its light yellow or pale blood tint, unlike the whiteness of other kinds which becomes yellow, bleaches with age. The different species of African elephant supply almost all the ivory used in Europe. Its quantity is enormous. One London firm sells 10,000 tusks yearly in billiard balls. Under so heavy a drain the supply must fall, but to fall back upon are remarkable deposits of mammoth tusks which have accumulated on the rivers discharging into the Arctic ocean.

Since man began to express himself in art he has made use of ivory. Here, however, the term has a wider application. It covers the teeth of the hippopotamus, the long tusks of the walrus and even the single tooth of the narwhale. Under the description of ivories comes carving in polished stag's horn and in bone. The most remarkable of prehistoric ivories is the representation of a head and shoulder of an ibex carved in reindeer horn, which is done with so much science and observation, though the work of a cave dweller of Dordogne, that naturalists are able to assign it to the ibex of the Alps rather than that of the Pyrenees.

Billiard balls are turned from the most perfect elephant tusks, not necessarily the largest, for the best and most costly are made from teeth scarcely larger than the balls themselves in diameter and known as ball teeth. Some of the balls turned from even these are better than others. They are of higher grade the nearer they are to the termination of the nerve which runs through the tusk, and the smaller this is, as may be observed in the black speck to be seen on a ball, the better the quality.

Fossil or blue ivory is sometimes found in commerce and is used occasionally in the manufacture of jewelry. It is evidently from the tusks of antediluvian mammoths buried in the earth for thousands of years, during which time they have become slowly penetrated with metallic salts, which have given them a peculiar blue color, allowing them to be used as turquoises.—Chicago News.

EYESIGHT AND MINDSIGHT.

There's a vast difference between physical and mental blindness. Some people who can see with their eyes cannot see with their mind while those unfortunately that have lost their eyesight often possess abnormal mental perception. One sign of mental blindness is exhibited by the husband or father who refuses or neglects to insure his life. The uncertainty of life and the insecurity of old age make it apparent to all but the wilfully blind that protection is necessary. The best protection is an Equitable endowment policy.
