

WOMEN'S NEGLECT SUFFERING THE SURE PENALTY

Health Thus Lost Is Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women do you know who are perfectly well and strong? We hear every day the same story over and over again. "I do not feel well; I am so tired all the time!"

More than likely you speak the same words yourself, and no doubt you feel far from well. The cause may be easily traced to some derangement of the female organs which manifests itself in depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or do anything, headache, bearing-down pains, flatulency, nervousness, sleeplessness, leucorrhoea.

These symptoms are but warnings that there is danger ahead, and unless heeded a life of suffering or a serious operation is the inevitable result.

The never-failing remedy for all these symptoms is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Kate McDonald, of Woodbridge, N. J., writes:

"I think that a woman naturally dislikes to make her trouble known to the public, but restored health has meant so much to me that I cannot help from telling mine for the sake of other suffering women."

For a long time I suffered untold agony with a uterine trouble and irregularities, which made me a physical wreck, and no one thought I would recover, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me, and made me well and strong, and I feel it my duty to tell other suffering women what a splendid medicine it is.

If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it is free and always helpful.

HOW WE SAVED FOR A HOME.

Amelia, we could buy a home, if we should try real hard. So don't use butter any more, we'll spread our bread with lard. No more from rented house to house, improvident we'll roam. Quick, put the furnace fire out, we're saving for a home.

"I would do as good, both you and me, to get a little thinner; For breakfast we will eat stale bread, and have cold tea for dinner. Think how luxuriantly we'll fare beneath our paid for dome. We'll live on fifty cents a week while saving for a home."

You might take in some washing, wife, and keep some boarders too. Then do plain sewing half the night, when other work is through. No more vacation days for us by woods or ocean's foam; No trolley rides shall take our dimes. We're saving for a home.

Amelia, you did nobly, dear, you led a frugal life. And how you lie beneath a slab, marked, "Sacred to my wife." And while your weary body rests beneath the churchyard loam, My second wife and I reside within the saved for home.

PLAYING SNOW BALL IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

A letter received from Mrs. Frank L. Mayes, who has spent several months at her old home in South Dakota, under date of Friday, Oct. 20, states among other interesting things, that she is just in from a jolly game of snow ball with her two handsome little sons, Howard and Charles. It makes one glow to fancy the picture of health and happiness those three must have made engaged in such jolly fun.

CHOSE PENSACOLIAN AS NEW PRESIDENT.

A recent issue of the Asheville Citizen gives an interesting account of the social side of the annual convention there of the Fertilizer Manufacturers Association and publishes an excellent picture of the newly elected president, Mr. W. de C. Kesler of this city.

One of the brilliant features of the banquet was the toast—"Our New President and his New Wife."

Mr. and Mrs. Kesler are expected home from their wedding trip about Nov. 15, after which they will be at home at "Hollywood," the home of Mr. Kesler's parents on the Bayshore where they will remain while supervising the construction of their own residence on the fine site adjoining.

Mrs. Kesler, who is charmingly remembered as Miss Berrett of Baltimore, the fascinating guest of Miss Kesler last season, will be warmly welcomed by local society.

ANOTHER TELEPHONE OPERATOR SICK.

The telephone exchange has been hard hit by the fever. Miss Florence Burns was stricken a few days ago, making the eighth of the telephone operators.

Miss Burns is a sister of a victim who succumbed last week and her illness is no doubt due more to anxiety and nerve strain than to yellow fever and it is believed that hers will be a light case.

Miss Genevieve Murphy is improving and will return to her duties in a few days.

Miss Mamie English, who bravely shortened her vacation in order to assist in the central office at the time of greatest need only to become ill a few days after her arrival, is improving and will soon be out.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Turner, Sr., and family are still on their plantation near Powelton.

THE DOUBLE-BREADED REEFER FOR THE SMALL GIRL

For school and every day wear in fair weather there are few models at once so smart, practical and all around comfortable as the double-breasted reefer or box coat. In deference to the vogue of fitted garments for their elders, those for the younger generation are assuming semi-fitting lines where formerly they hung full and loose. A dark red cheviot makes this pretty little model, the rich red making it especially suitable and cheery for cold-weather wear. There is a seam down the centre back. The fit is adjusted by means of the shoulder and under-arm seams. The turn-over collar is all in one piece, flaring into a reverse shape at the corners, and interlined with a princess haircloth. As is also the sleeve wrist, to hold the shape. The fronts fasten over in double-breasted style, and convenient pockets appear on the hips. The sleeve is comfortably full at the top, tapering into close-fitting outline below to elbow.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of Basil Bogart, died October 8, 1905.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved; is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
That never can be filled.

A sunny smile, he always wore,
And a kindly word for all;
And we deeply feel the loss of our boy,
That God, in his wisdom, hath called.

In the bloom of youth and health he was snatched,
Like a flower from its stem,
Like a shadow he vanished from our sight
To enter the Heavenly realm.

Father and mother, weep not for your boy,
For Basil is safe evermore
From the stormy blasts that frighten us here
And the troubles that hinder us so.

Hosts of friends that mourned his loss
Would now rejoice to see
Him round the great white throne of God
Free from all misery.

Though awhile from us he's severed
He is safe what'er betide
He may be the first to meet us
When we reach the other side.

Then let us weep no more for him
For when we're called, we too must go.
And when God sends the death angel
For us,
We cannot answer "no."

Ah, rest in peace, dear Basil,
For we soon shall meet again,
Around the great white throne of God
Where no farewell tear is shed.

Origin of "Rule Britannia." It is a curious fact that Great Britain owes "Rule Britannia" to the suggestion of a prince who had few English sympathies and no love of the sea. Frederick, prince of Wales, when residing at Clifden House wished to have a mask performance there on the 1st of August, 1740, to commemorate the accession of George I. and the birthday of Princess Augusta. The prince commissioned Thomson to write something for the occasion, and the result, "Rule Britannia" were the words. Dr. Arne set them to the familiar air, which became so popular that Handel used the opening bars in his "Occasional Oratorio," 1746, to the words, "War shall cease, welcome peace." In 1751 Mallet produced a new version of the words, "Improved" by Lord Bollingbroke, who substituted three stanzas of his own for the fourth, fifth and sixth of the original. Of this mutilation Sir George Grove says, "It failed, as it deserved to fail."

HOW TO PREVENT THE YELLOW FEVER

Marine Hospital Service Issues Circular For Display at Post Offices.

The following circular has been issued by the Public Health and Marine Hospital Service and sent broadcast over the country. It is being displayed in all postoffices and other prominent places and will, no doubt, have an excellent effect:

No Mosquitoes—No Yellow Fever. Treasury Department, Bureau of Public Health and Marine Hospital Service.

Note.—The measures herein mentioned were recommended by the Army medical board of 1900, and have been endorsed by the American Public Health Association and by the First International Sanitary Convention of American Republics. They have also been justified by the experiences and observations of the two working parties of the Yellow Fever Institute of this Bureau in Vera Cruz, Mexico, and by the commission of the Pasteur Institute of Paris, France, operating in Rio Janeiro, Brazil. The measures have been tested successfully on a large scale in Havana, Cuba, and during the yellow fever epidemic at Laredo, Texas, in 1903.

The infection of yellow fever is carried by mosquitoes, and by no other means is the infection spread.

Persons take the disease by being bitten by mosquitoes that have previously bitten a yellow fever patient.

The mosquitoes to become infected must bite a yellow fever patient during the first three days of his attack. These first three days, therefore, are the most important time for preventing the access of mosquitoes to a fever patient.

It is often difficult to decide during the first three days whether a patient has yellow fever; hence the necessity in threatened communities of placing a mosquito bar immediately around every patient who has fever of any kind, and for three days at least.

Facts About Screening. 1. The netting used should have meshes fine enough to prevent the passage of mosquitoes (at least 18-20 meshes to the inch).

2. It is important to screen the windows and doors of the house. It is doubly important to screen the beds of fever patients.

3. Mosquitoes can bite through mosquito nets when any part of the patient's body is in contact with the netting.

4. Frequent examinations should be made to see that there are no torn places in the netting or that no mosquitoes have found a lodgment inside.

5. The netting should be well tucked in to keep mosquitoes from entering.

6. If mosquitoes are found within the netting they should be killed inside and not merely driven or shaken out.

7. All cases of fever should be promptly reported to the local health officer. Awaiting his arrival they should be covered with mosquito bar.

Facts Bearing on Mosquito Destruction. 1. Mosquitoes live in the vicinity in which they breed. They do not fly a long distance.

2. Mosquitoes breed only in water—usually in artificial collections of fresh water.

3. The young mosquito, or wriggler, lives in water at least six to twelve days. Although the wrigglers live in water, they must come frequently to the surface to breathe.

4. Coal oil on the surface of the water prevents the wrigglers from breathing.

5. Destroy the breeding places and you will destroy the mosquitoes.

6. Empty the water from all tubs, buckets, cans, flower pots, vases, once every forty-eight hours.

7. Fill or drain all ponds, ditches, unfilled postholes, and the like.

8. Change regularly every day all water needed in chicken coops, kennels, etc.

9. Treat with coal oil all standing water which cannot be screened or drained (1 ounce of oil will cover 15 square feet of surface). The oil does not effect the water for use if the water is drawn from below.

10. Where oil is applied to standing water it must be distributed evenly over the surface.

11. Put fine wire netting over cisterns, wells, and tanks of water in everyday use.

12. Places in which it is undesirable to put oil, such as watering troughs for stock, fish ponds, and so forth, can be kept free from wrigglers by putting in goldfish or minnows.

13. Clean away all weeds, grass and bushes about ditches, ponds, and other possible breeding places, since these afford a hiding place for the mosquitoes.

14. Clean up vacant lots and back yards of all cans, tins, bottles, and rubbish.

15. First do away with, or treat, all places where mosquitoes are known to breed, and then begin to work on places where they might breed.

16. Inspect and treat with coal oil, gutters, culverts, ditches, manholes, catching basins, etc., along the roadside. Manhole covers should be screened.

17. Houses should be cleared of mosquitoes by burning 1 pound of incense powder or 2 pounds of sulphur to 1,000 cubic feet of space. The mosquitoes will fall to the floor and should be collected and burned.

18. Success in mosquito destruction depends upon the co-operation of the members of the entire community.
