PENSACOLA, FLORIDA, THURSDAY MORNING, JUNE 6, 1907.

T. A. Jennings

In the Race to Stay. The Tallahassee correspondent of The Tampa Times who, by the way, is one of the keenest political prognosticators in the state, sends his paper the following regarding the candidacy of T. A. Jennings for governor:

So much has been said, pro and con, of the intentions of the Hon. T. A. Jennings, of Pensacola, in the coming campaign--his chances in the gubernatorial race have been so widely canvassed throughout the state--that the Times correspondent determined to see Mr. Jennings--who has been here several days--and settle the matter once and for all by putting the direct question--"Do you mean to run for governor, or not?"

The question was put all right, and without a moment's hesitation, the answer came, frankly and openly: "The conditions appear to be entirely satisfactory to me, and I see no reason why I should not, at the proper time become a candidate for governor of Florida."

That settled it; and, so far as Albert Jennings is concerned, all doubt as to his position is removed. That ought to settle it with every one who is interested in this coming gubernatorial race, and let The Journal add just one thing, viz: Mr. Jennings is not only in the race, but he is going to make one of the most systematic and exhaustive campaigns that this state has ever seen. His statement, made weeks ago that if he entered the race it would be to make a winning fight will hold true now, and those who are interested in seeing how it is done will do well to watch Mr. Jennings from now until election day.

The Panama City Pilot is the latest addition to The Journal's exchange table. It is a well edited, neatly printed, five column folio, and is highly creditable to the publishers as well as to the live little community in which it is published. Panama City is destined to become one of the most important cities of West Florida and the Pilot, getting in on the ground floor, and growing up with the city, has a great future. Here's success to both paper and town.

The Apalachicola Times makes the following announcement: "The serpent is due to arrive in this vicinity during the present month. When off the coast last summer he was described with a head like a dragon's, a tail like a dolphin's, and a body at least forty feet in length. Probably he has grown several feet the past year."

The Good Roads Association of Florida will hold their annual meeting in Pensacola, June 18th. Washington county should be vitally interested in this subject and have representatives at this meeting--Panama City Pilot.

Pensacola hopes that every West Florida county particularly will have representatives here.

The Tampa papers are quarrelling as to which one is entitled to the credit for the defeat of the Pinellas county division bill. Powell of St. Petersburg, will probably contend that the defeat of the bill was no credit to anyone.

Paper is to be used for clothing, but it isn't guaranteed for rainy-day suits--Lake City Index.

Yes, and if it keeps on going up it won't be guaranteed to be cheaper than a lot of other kinds of wearing apparel, either.

The Tropical Sun has an editorial on the "Awakening of West Palm Beach." Glad to hear it. If the same thing would only happen to Tallahassee, but--

The people of Florida purpose to celebrate Masonic Day, June 24, with a brass band, a baby show, and Judge Chas. H. Laney, of this city. What more could anyone want?

But we somehow have an idea that "Powell's Pinellas Pioneers" will be on hand by the time the next legislature assembles.

Are You Going Away

this Summer? Are you going away this summer--to the mountains, the lakes, or some northern seashore resort? If you are you will want The Journal to follow you.

You will want The Journal for several reasons. It will keep you in touch with the home news. It will be to you what a letter from home always is, but more complete and satisfactory than any letter you could get. It will reach you daily and as soon as the mails can carry it from Pensacola, and you will come home knowing as much about what has been going on in the Deep Water City as will those who have remained at home.

And more than all this a daily copy of The Journal will afford the best advertisement of your home city which you can exhibit to your friends in other states. Do you know that The Journal will compare favorably with any paper published in any city of three times Pensacola's size? And do you also know that in exhibiting such a paper to a friend abroad you will impress him, more than you could do in any other way, with Pensacola's enterprise and importance?

If you hadn't thought of these things, you will do so now, and you will consequently order The Journal sent to you when you leave the city for your summer outing. Don't forget it.

Notice to Advertisers.

A great number of The Journal's advertisers will close their places of business hereafter on Friday afternoons. We therefore ask that they prepare their Sunday copy Thursdays or sooner hereafter, because many of them will not have time, or forget to prepare their copy Friday morning. Saturdays are usually busy days for the merchants and they seldom have the time to attend to advertising on that day, and besides The Journal cannot always handle copy sent in here as late as Saturdays.

One of the things that the new city government might take up is the establishment of a city market. Pensacola should have had one long ago.

De Cash--"Why don't you poets form a union? Poet--"where would we get the money to pay our dues?"--Judge.

SPENDERS AND SAVERS

The First of a Series of Heart to Heart Talks on Saving.

Volumes have been written, sermons have been preached and even songs have been sung from time immemorial regarding the different classes into which the human race is divided, but after all, there are only two classes between whom there is a real and distinct dividing line; the spenders and the savers.

The accomplishment of the great works of any age--the building of the houses, the mills, the bridges, the railroads, the ships and everything that has furthered man's advancement and happiness has been done by the savers. The spenders carried up the bricks for the savers who built the house.

The man who never has a dollar laid away for the proverbial "rainy day," or in readiness for opportunity's knock, is a slave. He cannot help being a slave, for he is in constant peril of falling under the bondage of those others who have money.

The first step toward freedom and independence is economy. Economy means the avoidance of all extravagance and the application of money to the best advantage. The starting point of economy is the first nickel, dime or dollar that is saved as a nucleus around which the whole future may be built.

The trouble with most men is that they are not willing to climb the road to wealth by industry, temperance, frugality and honesty, but spend all their time looking for the royal road

THE GOVERNOR AND THE PRESS.

Live Oak Democrat.

For the sake of the Pensacola Journal, if for no other reason, Governor Broward, who apparently has no very flattering opinion of the Florida press in its entirety, should magnanimously concede that the state papers are not without their good uses, after all, even, though some of them are such refractory sinners and persistent critics of his policies.

Without being in the least fulsome, the Journal of Sunday makes the governor the subject of a leading article reviewing his career during the past three years and concluding that he is "the most remarkable man in the state to-day. It is a capital tribute from a friendly source, and with much of it, even Governor Broward's enemies will agree.

Our chief executive is beyond question a man of strong character and mentality, something of a Roosevelt in his way, and with convictions so intense that he falls into the error of sometimes impugning motives as honest as his own and holding a well maintained difference of opinion on public issues as the crime of lese majesty itself.

Governor Broward has no reason better than his predecessors generally and other governors throughout the Union for disliking the press and making it a theme for his contemptuous disparagement. He has been criticized freely but fairly, as a rule, in his public capacity, and this is inevitable in the case of every man in high administrative station. In fact, he has been fortunate beyond many of his contemporaries, for in his case the storm of criticism that has beat upon the governor has always spared the man and left his personal integrity and patriotic desire to promote the welfare of Florida unassailed.

The most useful function of the press, outside its work as a news purveyor is not to praise and coddle, but to use its argus eyes and its trained intelligence to find the faults and flaws and weakness in mundane things, including governors and their policies, with a view to their correction. And if there are no news papers to perform this thankless task for the great body of the people it is as sure as sunrise that things would soon get in a very bad way in this country; honest representative government would go to the dogs, and out of the succeeding chaos would sooner or later rise the despotism of a one-man power, which a free press, honest in purpose, and fearless, even though often wrong in criticism, is now the chief agent in making a practical impossibility.

We don't know what the people of Florida are going to do with this big, resolute governor up at Tallahassee after his term expires, and he has preserved a fascinating silence as to his own future ambitions, but we can tell him with entire confidence that he should obey the Scriptural injunction when he leaves the governor's office and love even his enemies of the Florida press, for not one of them but has helped to add to his political bulk and prestige, and if the criticism that has enraged him had been withheld, he would have been deprived of one of the most effective agencies for making him a notable figure in the annals of his state.

THE INHUMAN FATHER

Governor Folk of Missouri said the other day of a proposed law: "This law, I fear, would bear too hard on certain classes. To some people it would be a convenience. To others it would be a cruelty. Thus it is like the luminous paint story. "This new invention of luminous paint," said a young father, "is going to be an excellent thing in growing families." "How so?" asked a friend. "Why," said the young father, "you just touch up the baby's face with it before retiring, and then you can see to give him his bottle without making a light."

QUITS OFFICE AFTER 9 YEARS

By Associated Press. Atlanta, June 5--Dr. John M. Candless, state chemist for nine years has resigned, effective August 1, to enter private business. Commissioner of Agriculture Hudson has selected a successor, but the name is not yet announced.

WHY PAT WOULD NOT WORK AS A DIVER

In Philadelphia one day a young Irishman applied at the wharves for a diver's post. He knew nothing of diving, but the strangeness of the work attracted him; and since he was a likely looking chap the firm took him on.

The next morning he was encased in a diving suit, the helmet was screwed on his head, and he was lowered down some 30 or 40 feet to examine a sunken boat. He went down well and bravely. He remained on the bottom some minutes doing a lot of hard work. Then he signalled impatiently to be drawn up. They drew him up and he motioned to them to remove his helmet. As they started to do this, the foreman, said:

ADAM ENGEL'S YANKEE.

Adam Engel, a few days before he closed his historic chop-house in Herald Square, lunched with a Denver correspondent, says a New York exchange.

"The loss of this chop-house will be a great loss to New York," said the correspondent. "It will be like," he went on eloquently, "the obliteration of some historic light." "I hope," said the modest Engel, "that it won't be so bad as that. Speaking of lights, by the way, I hope that my chop-house's departure won't inflict any such loss as a certain Yankee by an uncontrollable impulse, once inflicted on a Buddhist temple in Japan." "They say, you know, that a priest showing this Yankee over an ancient shrine, led the man reverently to a small silver lamp." "This lamp, sir," he said, "has not been extinguished for seven centuries." "The Yankee puffed out his cheeks and blew." "Well," he said, "I guess she's out now, any way."

THE POLITICAL CHESS-BOARD

Miami Metropolis Discusses Candidates Who Are Out or Mentioned.

The Miami Metropolis says: The news comes from Tallahassee, that R. Hudson Burr, of Little River, Dade county, and chairman of the Florida Railroad Commission, will positively be a candidate for Governor to succeed Napoleon B. Broward. Mr. Burr made this announcement last Friday.

Mr. Burr came into prominence four years ago by newspaper advertisement, announcing his candidacy for railroad commissioner. He developed into a strong public speaker. Albert W. Gilchrist, of Punta Gorda, is already an announced candidate for governor, and he is a man of strong personality, and an active campaigner. He has strong support and will be a decided factor in the contest.

T. Albert Jennings has made no formal declaration of his candidacy, but it is generally understood that he will run. In fact, he is giving encouragement to the use of his name in this connection.

Other candidates will soon be announced and those who are now being "mentioned" are Judge Minor S. Jones, of Titusville; Hon. E. S. Crill, of Palatka; Frank Harris and J. M. Barco, of Ocala, the latter being the father of Mrs. J. M. Jackson, Jr., and Mrs. S. L. Patterson, of this city.

It is thought by some politicians that S. M. Sparkman and Frank Adams will soon announce for the U. S. senate to succeed Senator Mallory. John S. Beard has already announced his candidacy for this position, and will make an active canvass of the state. Should Congressman Sparkman enter the Senatorial race, Park M. Trammell will declare his candidacy for congress. Some believe that Mr. Trammell will run for congress regardless of Mr. Sparkman's decision.

There was some talk of Frank Clark announcing his candidacy for the United States senate, but local politicians say that the second district congressman will be contented to succeed himself, and that he will likely have no opposition.

WHY HE WAS A GREAT WONDER

One day some Americans on a visit to Wales expressed a wish to see a certain old and historic church. The incumbent was only too pleased to show them round, especially as he believed it would end in a donation being given to his parochial funds. He is as proud of the school as he is of the church, and finished up by asking them in there also, and inviting them to question the scholars.

One of the party accepted the invitation. "Can you tell me, little boy," he said to one lad, "who George Waastington was?" "Iss, surr," said he, "he was a 'Merrycan gen'ral." "Quite right," said the American. "And can you tell me what George Washington was remarkable for?" "Iss, surr; 'e was remarkable coz 'e wass a 'Merrycan an' told the trewth."

The American didn't question further.--Cassell Journal.

LOVE LEFT, MOST ELSE HAS VANISHED Prince Eberwein, of Bentheim-Streinfurt, who some time ago forfeited his rights of inheritance and his position in the German army by marrying the daughter of a burgo, master, is now a bankrupt. After the wedding he hired a castle at Oudwassenaar near The Hague, perhaps hoping for recognition by his aunt, the queen dowager of the Netherlands, but neither she nor Queen Wilhelmina nor any of the aristocracy has received him. His failure to pay rent for the castle has led to its seizure by bailiffs, whose presence, however, did not disconcert the prince and princess. They merrily played tennis ignoring the officers who watched the game, the pair have now gone to Germany, leaving the bailiff in possession.--Expert.

"Your daughter is a skilful performer on the piano is she not?" "Yes," answered Mr. Cumrox. "The way she can play for hours without getting an earache or a sprained wrist proves to me that she's uncommonly expert."--Washington Star.
