HOW TO EQUIP MOTOR BOATS

Government Regulations on Vessels Plying Pensacola Harbor.

Under the Act of June 7, 1897, and Sec. 4426, R. S., motor boats should be equipped as follows:

Whistle, Fog Horn and Bell.

All motor vessels, without regard to size or use, must be provided with an efficient whistle or siren; an efficient fog horn; and an efficient bell. No size or style of whistle, fog horn or bell is prescribed, provided it is available and sufficient for the use for which it is intended.

When navigated between sunset and sunrise they must carry regulation lights, namely:

- 1. A bright white light at the bow of the vessel.
2. A green light on the starboard side and a red light on the port side, provided with proper screens.
3. A white range light aft.

Copies of Rules.

Such vessels are also required to have on board two printed copies of the rules which must be observed by them, which rules will be furnished by local inspectors of steam vessels on request.

Life Preservers.

All such vessels under 15 tons engaged in carrying passengers for hire in addition to the equipment above stated, are required to carry one life preserver for each passenger carried, and shall be operated only in charge of a person licensed by the local inspectors of steam vessels.

Documenting, Inspection, Etc.

All motor boats of over 5 net tons engaged in the carriage of freight or passengers for hire must be documented, viz: Licensed by the collector of customs. (Vessels under 5 net tons can not be documented in any case).

Time to Be It.

There was to be a circus in town next day, and Robert wished to go to see it unloaded, so he sought to obtain his father's consent. The first question his father put to him on being approached was, "Have you asked your mother?"

Time to Be It.

"Yes, sir," was Robert's prompt reply. "What did she say?" the father pursued. "She said I couldn't go," was the frank rejoinder. "What do you mean, Robert, by coming to me to ask to do a thing after your mother has told you you could not do it?"

There Was a Reason.

Williams—Young Astorbill isn't at all exclusive, is he? Walters—Why, I don't know. Williams—Oh, he isn't. Why, this morning I saw him riding in his automobile with a policeman.

New York, Nov. 26.—The Manhattan opera house opened its doors, and the operatic season on Monday night with an audience which crowded it from floor to ceiling. The opera was La Tosca, the enterprising Mr. Hammerstein having this year made arrangements by which at least two of the Puccini operas will be included in his list of productions.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF OLD NEW YORK TOWN

By Glen Gurneay.

New York, Nov. 26.—Hetty Howland Robinson Green, who is more easily recognized as Mrs. Hetty Green, is today receiving the congratulations of friends upon reaching her seventy-third birthday.

When the aged but lively Hetty took up her residence some months ago in a fashionable New York hotel, the fawning sycophants of the New York society gathered about the feminine financier, hoping to receive some small crumbs from her table.

At that, Mrs. Green is not so stingy as is generally believed. While she does not employ a brass band to attract a crowd while she brags of her benefactions, there is reason to believe that the world's richest woman is not utterly lacking in charitable instincts.

Few financiers have more extensive interests than has Mrs. Green. Nearly every important corporation in the world has some of its stocks or bonds in Hetty's strong box, and she has extensive real estate possessions in New York, Chicago and elsewhere.

THINGS THEATRICAL

BY Cedric Brewer.

Campanini and Zeatello were, however, in fine. Of Mr. Renaud we have come to know that his rendition of any role whatsoever will be thoroughly artistic, marked with attention to every slightest detail.

This was repeated with, save in a few minor roles, practically the same cast as last season. Mr. Gardin and Renaud and Dalmore repeated their success in this Massenet opera. Friday evening Saint-Saens "Samson and Delilah" given to opera form for the first time in a number of years in this city, was produced with Miss. Greenville Reache and Dalmore in the title roles.

In addition to the opera season opening, New Yorkers had the favorite Miss Ethel Barrymore in a new play at the Hudson, Paul Armstrong's new "Blue Grass," at the Majestic, while our German citizens were provided at the two German theatres with Schiller's William Tell, at the Irving Palace theatre, and the same poet's "The Robber" at the New German Theatre.

"Lady Frederick," by W. Somerset Maugham, author of "Jack Straw," in which John Drew is now appearing at the Empire, is described by its author as a modern comedy of manners and adventure.

The drama of "Samson," in which Mr. Gillette is the central figure, has filled the Criterion theatre every night. The advance sale is said to be encouraging, and the management expects "Samson" will be the bill at the Criterion for many months.

A good melodrama, entitled "Via Wireless," may be seen at the Liberty theatre. There are a number of striking scenic effects in it, including a storm at sea. Frederic Thompson is the producer. And among the chief actors in the melodrama are Edwin Arden and Miss Virginia.

George M. Cohan's pleasant musical mixture called "The American Idea," is still prosperous at the New York theatre. It gives genuine pleasure, and, after all, that is the aim of Mr. Cohan and his associates. The public wants to be amused, and in "The American Idea" its wish is satisfied.

Next week the prosperous career of "Paid in Full" will be terminated, and on the following Monday Messrs. Wagner and Komper will present Annie Russell in "The Stronger Sex." "Paid in Full" will be transferred to the Walnut Street theatre, Philadelphia. Still later it will be the attraction at the Colonial, in Boston.

"The Mollus" is shortly to be taken on the road, and Miss Irwin will impersonate the character originated in this country by Miss Carlisle. She will also continue her jolly portrayal of Mrs. Packham. Mr. Coyne and Miss Carlisle will go to London, at the close of their engagement at the Garrick, to appear there under Charles Frohman's management.

Miss Billy Burke is filling this theatre at every performance of the amusing comedy of "Love Watches" at the Lyceum. More than this need not be said.

Lulu Glaser, in "Mlle. Mischief," still occupies the Lyric Theatre and her engagement is prospering. There is no intention of changing the bill this year.

nally winning. Kelly retires finally, without making any trouble, and all is well. The interest of the piece is well sustained, there are some exciting climaxes and it will undoubtedly please.

Miss Grace Studdiford, the prima donna of "The Golden Butterfly," is sponsor for the statement that there are at present more young women of culture and of good families preparing themselves for the stage than ever before in the history of musical productions in this country.

Beginning Monday evening "The Red Mill" will enter its third week of its engagement at the Academy. Messrs. Montgomery and Stone have been successful in this musical comedy for several years.

Thomas A. Wise, as the genial politician from Mississippi, has given the Bijou a popular success that may yet establish a record for longevity at that playhouse. Mr. Fairbanks, as the reporter, gives him capital support.

The production will probably occupy that stage until after the holidays. Miss Emily Ann Wellman has succeeded Edith Brovigg as the erring daughter in "The Meg Who Stood Still," now current at the Circle theatre, and in which Mr. Mann is the leading actor. The incidental character of Beattie, which was found offensive, has been taken out of that play. Mr. Brady occupies a long run for it.

The Messrs. Pixley & Luder's charming musical comedy of "Marcella" is still the attraction at the Casino. The advance sale is said to be book interesting. It deserves a long run.

The drama of "Samson," in which Mr. Gillette is the central figure, has filled the Criterion theatre every night. The advance sale is said to be encouraging, and the management expects "Samson" will be the bill at the Criterion for many months.

Mr. Forbes's comedy of "The Travelling Salesman," is still popular. It succeeds in filling the Gaiety Theatre at every performance. Those who enjoy a real laugh will do well to visit the Gaiety during the engagement of Mr. McIntyre and his associates.

A good melodrama, entitled "Via Wireless," may be seen at the Liberty theatre. There are a number of striking scenic effects in it, including a storm at sea. Frederic Thompson is the producer. And among the chief actors in the melodrama are Edwin Arden and Miss Virginia.

George M. Cohan's pleasant musical mixture called "The American Idea," is still prosperous at the New York theatre. It gives genuine pleasure, and, after all, that is the aim of Mr. Cohan and his associates. The public wants to be amused, and in "The American Idea" its wish is satisfied.

god game of scientific, headwork football. First half, P. H. S. 5, P. C. S. 0.

P. C. S. kicked off and High School failed to return. The ball then remained between High Schools 15 and 40 yard lines, for about seven minutes, neither side making any decided gains.

High School then got the ball and on a double pass Coleman made a well-planned end-run for about sixty-five yards for a touch-down. High School failed to kick the goal, and the score was P. H. S. 5, P. C. S. 0. No further good runs were made, nor was the play very fast throughout the rest of the first half. No more points were scored by either side and the half ended with the score 5-0 in P. H. S.'s favor.

Second Half.

High School kicked off and after a few minutes of desultory give and take, Coleman, with the same double pass, the same interference and about the same distance to run, made another touchdown, making the score P. H. S. 10, P. C. S. 0. White kicked the goal for High School, bringing the score up to P. H. S. 11, P. C. S. 0. No further scores were made during the remainder of the game, about six minutes of play, the ball being very near the center of the field when the whistle blew for time.

Marzoni's Team Wins.

In the annual hunt of the Concordia Club the team of Capt. Louis Marzoni won by the score of 8,720. Captain Quina's scoring 5,440. The hunting party was the largest ever known to go out before, and some of the hunters went seventy and eighty miles in search of game. Fifty turkeys, about fifty quail, thirty or forty squirrels, many doves and 407 "puldoo" ducks were killed by the various parties.

Sheriff Van Peit, who spent the day in the swamps of the Escambia river, bagged two turkeys, two hawks, one rabbit, eighteen larks, six doves and eight quail, making a total of 1,000 points for his team, but the large number of "puldoo" ducks brought in by Captain Marzoni and his party overbalanced this big score, notwithstanding the fact that Allie Riera and his party bagged 104 of these ducks. Others who killed turkeys were W. P. Brownson, M. Gonzalez, and William Connor and party.
