Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

How To Find Out. Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a brick dust sediment, or settling, stringy or milky appearance often indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back are also symptoms that tell you the kidneys and bladder are out of order and need attention.

What To Do. There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills almost every wish in correcting rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. Corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper and remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

WEALTHY "EXILE" WHO KILLED A WIFE BEATER

John Armstrong Chaloner, who shot and killed John Gillard on his estate near Charlottesville, Va., while Gillard was beating Mrs. Gillard, is the former husband of Amelia Rives and a brother of William Astor Chanler, former lieutenant governor of New York. He is an exile in Virginia, having fled from New York several years ago after having been incarcerated in an asylum for the insane. His case is one of the most perplexing the courts have had to consider in many years, and the control of a large fortune depends upon the United States court's pending inquiry into his sanity. He was held blameless in the killing of Gillard.

VOTE FOR J. F. DAVIS PRECINCT ALDERMAN, PRECINCT NO. 12.

HEADNOTES OF SUPREME COURT

Decisions Handed Down Recently by Florida's Highest Tribunal.

In the supreme court of Florida, Division B, January term, A. D., 1909.

The J. P. Williams company, a corporation, plaintiff in error, v. The Penacola, St. Andrews & Gulf Steamship company, a corporation, defendant in error. Hocker, J.

1. Where a party is not injured by the rulings of a trial court upon pleadings, and is not thereby prevented from submitting his case to the jury, under such a state of pleading as gives him the full benefit of his contentions, those rulings do not present a good ground for reversal.

2. The effect of delay in the transportation of goods by a carrier, when such delay was caused by a storm or act of God and the question of proximate cause in that connection, are treated in the cases of Norris v. Savannah, P. & W. Ry. Co., 23 Fla. 182, 1 South. Rep. 475, and Williams v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., decided at the last (June) term of this court.

Judgment affirmed.

Blount & Blount & Carter, for plaintiff in error; Avery & Avery, for defendant in error.

Oscar Lee, plaintiff in error, v. J. C. Van Pelt, sheriff, defendant in error. Habeas corpus. Hocker, J.

1. Where a party is confined in jail under a commitment issued upon an affidavit charging the offense in positive terms, the commitment and affidavit being in proper form, it is not competent for him in habeas corpus proceedings to question the legality of his arrest by showing simply that the prosecuting witness or witnesses had no personal knowledge of the facts stated in the affidavit, and thereby attempting to show a want of probable cause.

2. While the writ of habeas corpus is a writ of right in the enlarged sense of the term, it does not issue of course, but reasonable grounds must exist for awarding it, and if it appears on the face of the petition that the party in custody would only be remanded, the writ should be denied.

Judgment affirmed.

J. P. Stokes, for plaintiff in error; Park M. Trammell, attorney general, for the state.

Louisville and Nashville Railroad company, a corporation, plaintiff in error, v. W. G. Yarbrough, defendant in error, Jackson county. Hocker, J.

1. The floatage of logs in a navigable river must be carried on with due and reasonable regard to the rights of a bridge owner, and others, and to the general usages and customs of navigation and commerce.

2. While a railroad is not required to keep the open space under its drawbridges over a navigable stream free from obstructions to navigation when such obstructions are a permanent, without fault on the part of the railroad, yet it is the duty of a railroad company to prevent the accumulation of wreckage or drift around the piers of its bridges which would interfere with navigation.

3. When a raft is lodged against the fender of the pier of a railroad drawbridge on an important line of railroad about 9 o'clock at night, there being a navigable channel suitably made to easily permit the passage of boats and rafts on either side of the pier, and the raft remained there until three o'clock the next evening, and when the agent of the owner thereof has made no proper efforts to remove the raft, or to notify the owner of its situation, the river being in a risky condition, and the raft being a menace to the bridge, and a nuisance, which the owner of the bridge has the right to remove for his own protection and the protection of the lives and property of those who had occasion to use the railroad, and the railroad officials had endeavored without avail to pull the raft away from the pier, and then cut up the raft about three o'clock the next day after it lodged, and part of the logs were lost, and a suit was brought by the owner of the logs to recover of the railroad company the value of the logs, in the trial of said suit it was erroneous to charge the jury "the duty upon the railroad before it broke up the raft to notify the owner or his agents of their intention so to do, and to allow him a reasonable time and opportunity to take care of the raft after it was turned loose." Such a charge was inappropriate to the facts. In removing the raft it was the duty of the railroad company to use ordinary care to the owner of the raft, but under the circumstances neither the owner or his agent had a right to any other notice than they had of the exigencies of the situation.

4. No question is presented here of the applicability to the facts of section 3149 General Statutes of 1906.

Judgment reversed.

Lidon & Carter, for plaintiff in error; Price & Lewis, for defendant in error.

The Ferry Pass Inspectors and Shippers Association, a corporation, appellant, v. The Whites River Inspectors and Shippers Association, a corporation, appellee, Escambia county. Whitfield, C. J.

1. The state in virtue of its sovereignty holds in trust for all the inhabitants of the state the title to the lands under the navigable waters within the state, including the shore or space between high and low water marks.

2. The common law rights of riparian owners with reference to navigable waters are incident to the ownership of the uplands that extend to high water mark.

3. Riparian navigation is no exclusive right to the use and enjoyment upon a navigable stream opposite the riparian holdings, and have no right to so use the water or land under it as to obstruct or unreasonably impede lawful navigation and commerce by others, or so as to unlawfully burden or monopolize navigation or commerce. The exclusive rights of a riparian owner are such as are necessary for the use and enjoyment of his abutting property and his business lawfully conducted thereon; and these rights may not be so exercised as to injure others in their lawful rights.

4. The rights of the public in navigable streams for purposes of navigation are to use the waters and the shores to high water mark in a proper manner for transporting persons and property thereon subject to controlling provisions and principles of law. The right of navigation should be so exercised as not to infringe upon the lawful rights of others.

5. A riparian owner may use the navigable waters and the lands thereunder opposite his land for purposes of navigation and of conducting commerce or business thereon, but such right is only enjoyed with that of other inhabitants of the state and must be exercised subject to the rights of others.

6. A riparian owner has a right to enjoy in a proper proceeding the unlawful use of the public waters or the land thereunder including the ENON. Special to The Journal. Enon, March 25.—The Christian rally day at the Enon Baptist church was a happy day for all concerned.

The pastor, Rev. Mr. Lowery failed to be on hand Saturday night. This failure was due to ill health and bad weather. Rev. Mr. Lowery, Rev. Mr. Countryman and the children, gave us many beautiful thoughts to take home with us, and the hospitable farmers gave us such a dinner as cannot be forgotten in a day—such a dinner as only Enon's housewives can cook and will always tempt us to want to come again. The whole-souled farmers were just as hospitable, making every one feel at home.

The baptizing at Water's Ferry was a very impressive sight, with God's own heaven for a roof and the beautiful trees as witnesses to His ever watchful care and gracious goodness. The resident members of the church extend a royal welcome to all visitors and invite the absent ones to come back or let us hear from them wherever they are.

Three accessions were made at the closing service.
