CLEVELAND HAS BROKEN ITS LONG LOSING STREAK.

Cleveland, May 29.—The Naps managed to break their losing streak last week, winning two games from the tail-end Washington club. Washington took the other two, however, and with Connie Mack's fast-going Athletics here today for a series of three games, the outlook is not exceedingly bright for many more victories before the club leaves for St. Louis.

That the Naps must take a brace, and right away, at that, is certain. St. Louis has braced up considerably, but the Naps seem to be still in a rut. When the team bats well, some one makes a disastrous error, or the pitchers go to the bad. When the pitching is good, the men behind them can not bat, and so it goes.

Had the Naps played up to their true form, the team might have been in the first division, instead of trailing along just ahead of Washington. Were the club woefully out of shape, the cause of the slump might be excused, to a certain extent, but physically the men are all right, with the exception of Birmingham and Sullivan. Birmingham had to have his right elbow operated on last week, while Sullivan is in the hospital suffering with malaria. Turner, of course, is hardly in tip-top form, but, nevertheless, he has been playing a star game at short. His arm does not appear over-strong, but he has shown his gameness by sticking to the game.

For fear that he might be compelled to retire again, the magnates last week fortified themselves against such a happening by buying infielder Neal Ball from New York. As yet, however, Ball has not had to perform.

CUBS WOULD SEE PITCHER ED. REULBACH.

Manager Chance of the Chicago Cubs seems to be decidedly anxious to get rid of Pitcher Ed Reulbach, who led the National League in percentage of victories last season, and who probably was yanked off the rubber oftener than any other twirler in the business, says a special from Chicago. Chance tried to get Harry McIntire from Brooklyn in exchange for Reulbach, and at the present writing is coaxing Manager Griffith to give him Bob Spade, the still rebellious twirler, in exchange for the "wild man." Griffith is willing, provided Chance also throws in Arnie Hoffman, but this the Peerless Leader doesn't seem inclined to do. A deal of some kind may be fixed up before the Reds return home, as Spade is no use to the local team, while Reulbach certainly would report and probably could manage to find out where the plate is located some time after the fourth of July.

Roy Castleton, the Atlanta Southpaw, blew into town early last week and, after being declared free of any dangerous germs, started in to take on about 15 pounds of flesh and in other ways fit himself for a trial with the team when the home series begins after the latter part of this week. Castleton declares that he could not do himself justice in the Southern climate, but that with the pepper-spraying atmosphere of Cincinnati, he hopes to prove that he is all to the good as a left-hand twirler, and that he will be able to deliver a superior brand of groceries for the Reds.

CAMNITZ, PITTSBURG'S STAR TWIRLER, LOSES FIRST GAME.

Howard Camnitz, Pittsburgh's premier pitcher, met with defeat for the first time after he had won seven games in succession. He officiated in nine games, pitching full nine innings in all but two, or rather three, as he pitched a 12-inning game against Chicago. In the nine games he pitched 70 innings, and in these 70 innings 14 runs were scored against him and 44 hits for a total of 58 bases made off his delivery. He gave 12 bases on balls and struck out 27 batsmen. He has not yet made a wild pitch, hit a batsman or made a balk. Camnitz's record is a solid one, one that leaves nothing to quibble about. He never gave more than two bases on balls in any game except one. In the 12-inning contest against the Chicago he issued six free passes, and in two games, each of full nine innings, he did not give a single base on balls. In all his games, except two innings, he was caught by George Gibson.—Pittsburg Gazette.

THE CUBS PROSPER WITHOUT MANAGER CHANCE.

The Cubs have been progressing through the East with great eclat, despite the bad news that has come out of their camp, says a Chicago special. The discovery that Manager Chance's shoulder contained a broken bone which might ruin his baseball career, came like a flash of lightning out of clear sunshine to local rooters of all persuasions. The hope now is that the plaster cast which has been put on the broken shoulder will prove efficacious in mending the bone, although the Eastern specialist who treated the shoulder was not optimistic in his promises.

The world's champions could not have done much better with Chance in the fray than they have without him on this trip. They have forged well in to second place, and only Pittsburg's splendid work has kept the Cubs from grabbing first place while on the road. Del Howard has proved an excellent substitute for the manager in every way and the boys have been hitting well and together.

The troublesome factor, however, is the fact that with Howard and Hoffman now in the game as regulars, the great reserve strength which they represented while on the bench is something of an uncertainty. Chance has Johnny Kane and Joe Stanley ready for accident, and Hoffman is there if it becomes necessary to use him on the infield in any emergency. The strength of the Cubs in last year's race was their reserve power which did not compel the use of a weak lineup, despite an unprecedented run of accidents. This year, aside from Chance's loss, the Cubs have been more free from injuries than during 1908.

LITTLE ROCK TEAM IS PLAYING GOOD BALL.

Little Rock, May 29.—It looks like old times to see Nashville and Little Rock at the head of the Southern League. We are 34 points behind our rivals and an even 100 points ahead of the Pelicans, the next in line.

We broke even with Nashville, rain preventing the last game. It also interfered somewhat with the Montgomery series, but we got in all three games by playing a double-leader yesterday and won two of three. Atlanta comes tomorrow for three games and two is the least we expect. We then leave on our Eastern trip and trust we will do as well as we did on the last one, seven out of 12.

Our accidents have started. Cocash was hit on the hand which put him out of the game, and Al Bouchard was more seriously hurt in the same game when Britton ran into him at second. He finished the game on his nerve, but will be out for probably a week or more.

Cocash was called on to fill in at short, but his hand was too sore, so he went out to left field and Joey Collins came into the infield and his work has been fine. It is said he has ambitions in that line, and I guess the only reason he hasn't had a chance to go is because he is such a great outfielder.

Harry Sentz has been putting up a swell game lately and hitting the ball nicely and is making our opponents appreciate the fact that he has a good arm too. He got three assists yesterday.

WILL PROSECUTE SUNDAY PLAYERS IN INDIANAPOLIS.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.—An affidavit was filed in the criminal court by Frank F. Accrea, an insurance man, against Charles C. Carr, manager of the Indianapolis club, charging that he was engaged in his usual vocation that of a professional baseball player on last Sunday; that his work was not for charity nor necessary, and that it was against the peace and dignity of the state of Indiana. A committee of attorneys is supposed to be back of the proceedings. A capias was issued to the sheriff. This action is the beginning of a test of the constitutionality of the recent legislature's act permitting Sunday baseball in Indiana. The bill was fought bitterly. Carr, hearing that a deputy sheriff was in search of him, went to the sheriff's office accompanied by his attorney, was placed formally under arrest, and gave $200 cash bond. The Rev. Joshua Stansfield, a leader of the opposition to the Sunday act in the course of the last legislature, was in the sheriff's office at the time Carr appeared. Stansfield said he knew the names of some of the men behind the present movement against Sunday ball, but was not privileged to reveal them. The Indianapolis Ministerial Association, he said, was taking no active part. It is asserted that John H. Holliday, president of the Union Trust Company, is one of the prosecutors of Carr.

WHITE SOX HAVE AT LAST STRUCK THEIR STRIDE.

Chicago, May 29.—Special correspondence.—The White Sox went through a rather remarkable batting slump last week, but the games of yesterday and today indicate they are convalescing rapidly. Comiskey's men dropped four straight games to the Athletics and three of them they were shut out, two of the whitewash games being won by Mack's men 7 to 0, in extra innings.

The first game of that remarkable series, Philadelphia won, 3 to 2. Last Sunday the score was 1 to 0 in 13 innings. On the following day it was 1 to 0 in 12 innings, and the final game was 5 to 0 in nine innings. In each of the overtime battles, Comiskey's men had numerous chances to score, but failed every time. Following those three straight shut outs, the Sox did not score a run in the first four innings of the opening Boston game, making a straight run of 38 innings without sending a Sox runner across the plate.

Broke Even With Red Sox.
In the Boston series, however, Comiskey's men got out of their rut and astonished the natives by winning the second game 12 to 3, scoring eight runs in a single inning. They would up with an even break in the Red Sox engagement, and came through with a victory over the New York Highlanders in their first game here this afternoon. Naturally, the gloom which pervaded Comiskey's countenance in the middle of last week has disappeared to a great extent. Naturally, too, the Philadelphia Athletics look like the best of the Eastern teams to Chicago fans, on the form displayed in this city.

Mack's men would not have looked so well, of course, if the luck of the game had not favored them by enabling them to start off the many runs the Sox threatened to make here this could get one themselves in the thirteenth inning one day and in the twelfth the next. But what the Athletics have been doing to the champions over in Detroit since they left here indicates that it took some right good pitching by the Sox slabmen to hold Mack's men down to the low scores with which they were able to win here.

CLIQUE IN RANKS OF THE CHAMPION TIGERS.

Detroit, Mich., May 29.—There are evidences, aside from the frequency with which games have been dropped in the last ten days, that the old discussions which made Detroit a sixth place team in 1906 and almost lost it a pennant in the latter days of the race of 1908 have broken out afresh. It is rumored that some of the old hands are sore at the way Jennings is putting recruits to the front. McIntyre is the subject of much talk in this respect, not on his own account but on that of his chum, Ed Killian. Waivers have been asked and received on Killian because in speaking left hand pitcher, Speer pitched against the Athletics Saturday and certain Tigers apparently made no effort to play ball. McIntyre was conspicuous in this respect. Schaefer and O'Leary seemed to handle the ball carelessly. Stange is the cause of more dissension, it is believed. He has supplanted Schmidt as a regular Tiger catcher. Schmidt's friends are said to be sore, taking it for an act of retribution for the Coal Hill boy's holdout. But the real reason is that Stange has caught better ball than Schmidt ever did.

WAIVERS ASKED ON ROSSMAN.
Detroit, Mich., May 29.—President Navin of the Detroit Baseball Club admitted that Detroit have been asked on Claud Rossman, the Tiger's first baseman. Inability to throw accurately, and slowness on the bases are the causes. An outfielder who is a right-handed hitter is wanted in exchange. When Moriarty's arm renews he will go back to third and Crawford will be assigned to first base. Jones will probably go to center field.

AMUSEMENTS

Big Attraction at Airdome.

The Airdome for the coming week will have, without a doubt, the best attraction since its establishment in this city. The "Great Arisa," one of the highest priced acts ever to show in any of the big cities of the south, has been billed. As an impersonator Arisa is probably the best on the vaudeville stage. Notwithstanding the fact that the management has gone to great expense to secure this attraction for the entire week, the prices will remain the same, thus giving all patrons an opportunity of seeing the impersonator. Of him the New Orleans paper of recent date contained the following:

It is as an impersonator of the world's famous bandmasters and composers that the Great Arisa, playing at the Majestic this week, has attained the high step on the vaudeville ladder, which places his act as the highest salaried single act in vaudeville. When asked where he learned all the little tricks with which he embellishes his appearance before the footlights, the dapper little Frenchman replied: "On the other side. I was born in Paris. My father was the proprietor of a big circus. That is how I learned so many different things. I have been all over the world with my dog, a thoroughbred French poodle, and we are going back to Paris in July."

"You liked my picture of the Abbe Liszt? I am glad of that, for I met the old priest-musician personally, in Budapest, where he was giving a concert. He was very old and my impersonation is the direct impression I have retained of him. While I was playing at the Alhambra in New York Victor Herbert came behind the stage and complimented me on my conception of Liszt and the execution of the 2nd Rhapsody of the orchestra in connection with the impersonation. It is to the strains of Victor Herbert's waltz from "Mlle. Modiste" that I do these little tricks which are the prelude to my act. I formerly played the French inn-keeper in the original production of "His Honor the Mayor" with Blanche Ring and Harry Kelly. The Arisa act can be seen any afternoon at 2:30 and any evening at 8:30 at the Majestic theater.

In addition to the Great Arisa the Airdome has three other star acts billed for the week in Roy Mapes, a comedian, who comes highly recommended; the Kennard Sisters, singers and dancers who will please Pensacola theatregoers without a doubt, and Miss Alice Robinson, a high-class vocalist.

At the Orpheum.
The week's engagement of the Dunhams and Willie Farine at the Orpheum closed last night and notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather throughout last week the box office receipts on the night shows for the week established a new Orpheum record.

For the entertainment of his patrons at each matinee and two evening performances during the present week, Manager Vuovich has booked one of the strongest bills ever brought to the Orpheum, the big feature of which will be the great Ringling Brothers' big sensational European act, the Upsidedown Zeraldas, a duo of equilibrists whose extraordinary feats of balancing gymnastics have proven one of the greatest sensations of the amusement world. Indeed, with all of the excellent attractions that Manager Vuovich has presented to patrons of the Orpheum, none of them, except the Dunhams, are in the same class of excellence as the Upsidedown Zeraldas, and this week's attendance at the Orpheum will doubtless prove sensationally large.

In addition to the Upsidedown Zeraldas, the bill will include Paul Bawens, "The Show Me Boy," a black face comedian who will introduce a bunch of entirely new songs, new dance steps and new jokes; also Burton & DeAlmo, who will appear in a musical sketch that is guaranteed to prove the greatest mirth-compelling act ever seen at the Orpheum. These clever musical comedians will feature the consantino, one of the sweetest toned of all instruments when properly played.

Professor Jones will, as usual, be heard in illustrated melodies; and of course there will be an entirely new set of life motion pictures with musical effects by the Orpheum orchestra. There will be no raise in prices, notwithstanding the unusual excellence of the bill—matinees 10 cents to everybody; evening shows 10 and 20 cents.

The Union Depot for a Day. Attention, members of the cast: Rehearsals hereafter will be held every evening in the Chamber of Commerce, Brent building. There will be no rehearsal Monday evening on
