The Romping Kiddies, and Especially Little Miss Girl, Will Hold Sway at Our Store Monday.

We've always been the best kind of chums with the little people, don't you know, and we've determined to give these very popular little customers of ours a day devoted entirely to their needs, which will be tomorrow.

We've determined to conduct a "Children's Day" of our very own; in fact, devoted to the display of a "hundred and one" various little fixings which will interest the kidlets and their mammas, too.

See if we're not thoroughly prepared, and be sure you bring the children shopping after school tomorrow, too, because little girls, especially, almost always know "ezactly" just what's what and why. (This talk following is for little people only.)

Children's Jap Spangled Parasols 25c

Away over in Japan, children, some of the cunningest beady-eyed Japs have been busy making Parasols for us, and for you. They've arrived, these Parasols, and they're in white and colors, all spangled and tasseled and fine. Tell your mamma that they are only 25c, too. Think of them only 25c.

Little Socks For Children, Too.

We've the prettiest little socks, too, children--some all white, some black with white tops, and a lot with the colored and plaid tops. They're the very thing for this Easter weather. The price don't count. It's only 25c.

And the Little New Dresses.

We declare, we most forgot the new dresses to be made this spring by mamma and the dressmaker. You know all about the lovely white dresses you'll need, of Dimities, Paris Muslins, French Lawns, Persian Lawns, Etc. They're only from 15 to 75c per yard. We've lovely Embroideries, too, for trimming these dresses.

For "Last Day" and for "Parties."

Sh! We're going to tell you a secret. Miss Yellow-Curls Little-Bit told us confidentially yesterday that our new Persian Lawn Dresses, already trimmed with the prettiest laces and insertions and sashes you ever saw, with Dutch necks and things, were the very dresses that SHE wanted for the "last day at school," and for any number of birthday parties. What do you think? They're up to $9 From 6 to 14 years.

Ties and Hair Bows, Too.

Any really STYLISH little girl knows about Windsor Ties to wear with the sailor collars. You just ought to see ours--the larger at 25 and 50c, the Midget Windsor, the narrow kind, at 25c. The beautiful Hair Ribbons, too, and the Sash Bows are things that you'll want to see.

Oh, Yes, Silk Stockings!

It really isn't honestly truly necessary for the big girls to have ALL the new fixings; no, indeed. So if you're a nice little girl, we feel very sure that your mamma will bring you down town tomorrow for at least one Easter pair of the silk stockings we have for you. In sizes they're from 2 to 14 years. 50c in price.

For Aprons and Dresses.

If your mamma has a practical bee in her bonnet on Monday; she'll want to buy up some material for dresses meant for sure-enough wear. Taking this into consideration, you'd better see that she finds our 25c Flaxons, our 15c Red Seal Gingham, and our 25c imported Gingham. It's a practical price range, tell her, from 15 to 25c.

Now, you can go back to your Easter Biddies, Little Miss Pretty Girl, but be sure we see you to-morrow--Monday. Be sure!

THE WEDDINGS.
 This will be a week of weddings in Pensacola.
 The brides and the grooms are all so exceptionally well known, and so much has already been said of them not only by the home papers but by the down-state and out-of-state press as well, that there are few indeed who do not anticipate one of these unusually gay weeks socially which sometimes transform Pensacola into a gay medley of interesting events not soon to be forgotten.
 These particular Easter brides have married so soon after the Lenten period, that the general round of showers and bridal teas have been necessarily done away with, for there has, forsooth, been no time in which to plan to give them, so recently has the quiet of the Lenten tide prohibited all such unseemly pleasure.
 The wedding receptions, however, are all to bear an added elegance and interest to pay for it all, and there are to be a half dozen brides at least who will figure in the lovely events to come during the next few days.

 First will be Miss Cora Brent, whose marriage to Mr. Alba Warren will be solemnized at the home of her father, Mr. F. C. Brent on LaRue street tomorrow evening, the reception to be at 7:30 o'clock.

This will be among the most elaborate of all the weddings, and preparations are being made to entertain three hundred guests at the house.
 Miss Brent, who is a beautifully regal young woman, has quenched it so long in Pensacola society that she is very well known throughout the southern cities, and the news of her approaching marriage has been received with a world of flattering press comment elsewhere.

She was one of the loveliest of the carnival queens.
 Mr. Warren, who comes from an old Massachusetts family, is also very widely and very favorably known in the business and in the social world in Pensacola.

A Tuesday bride Miss Regina Durant has chosen to be, and on the evening of the 18th, she will become the bride of Lieutenant John Ralph Henley, U. S. M. C. at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Albert Heyer, at Virginia Lodge.

Miss Durant will be attended by Miss Josie Knowles and Miss Mercedes Saltmarsh. Lieutenant Henley will have as his best man, Paymaster M. W. Grant at present aboard the cruiser Des Moines, and Lieutenant Stokes, stationed at the Charleston, S. C., navy yard, will be groomsmen. The marriage will be attended by only relatives and intimate friends but a large number of invitations have

¶ The Head of Every Family is Morally Responsible for the Result of the Food Furnished Those Dependent Upon Them

Here Are a Few Extracts from a Letter from Harvey W. Wiley, M. D., Chief of Bureau of Chemistry, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.:

"There is perhaps no one subject which the retail grocer should more carefully consider than the character of the foods he offers for sale. The health and welfare of the vast majority of the people depend upon the purity and wholesomeness of the daily diet.

"Articles should be as fresh as possible, should be free from bacterial contamination, should be unadulterated and true to nature. The distributor of food products has a great responsibility resting upon him. Not only is he to conduct his business so as to make a reasonable profit, for otherwise he could not continue in it; but he is under an obligation to the public of a peculiarly binding character. I need not go into any particulars to show what I mean by a pure and wholesome diet. I may say, however, that I think food products should be free of added chemicals of any kind except the condimental substances which are so well known and are so necessary to digestion. They should not be old and stale; they should not be deteriorated by over-keeping in any way, whether frozen or not; they should represent the very best that the skill of the farmer and the manufacturer can produce. The education of the public and the education of the trade go hand in hand. To me it is a self-evident proposition that what is best in the end for the CONSUMER must in the end be best for the producer and the MERCHANT.

The SENTIMENTS of Dr. Wiley today are what (thirteen years ago) the Founders of the House of the Incorporated in IT AS ITS FOUNDATION THEN and for all time to come.

There is no responsibility upon you when your Food comes from us; we are morally and financially responsible for its compliance with, not only pure food laws, but HONEST construction of such laws. BUT DO NOT EXPECT US TO FURNISH SUCH GOODS AT COST; AND DO NOT CLASSIFY US WITH THE HOUSES THAT OFFER TO DO IT.

Remember that every business to furnish employment and success must receive a fair profit for their labor and investment. To convince yourself that a business house operated along such lines is not only the most reliable, but the cheapest in the end to do business with, give us a trial.

Lieutenant Henley and his bride will go direct to the Boston naval station where the young officer is on duty.

On the same evening, at the home of Mrs. Anson, at Bayou Grande, Miss Sybil Wheat and Mr. Herbert D'Alemberte will be married, the cards which are out, setting the hour at 7:30 o'clock.

Miss Wheat is a delightful little blonde girl, petite and pretty, much admired and extremely sweet.
 Mr. D'Alemberte is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. D'Alemberte, and holds an enviable position in the esteem and confidence of everyone.

The Fisher-Blount wedding will attract society on Wednesday night, when, at 7 o'clock, at the bride's beautiful home, the marriage of Miss Roberta Fisher and Mr. F. M. Blount will occur.

Cards are out for a large reception which is to be held at the home at 7:30 o'clock. Both Miss Fisher and Mr. Blount are also well known in local society circles, and their wedding will be among the very interesting events of the week.

A lovely home wedding will be that of Miss Elsie Hoer and Mr. Jno. B. Guttman, Jr., to take place at the family residence of the bride on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

A large number of cards have been sent, and a very brilliant and delightful affair is being planned.

Miss Hoer is a most charming girl, and Mr. Guttman is a young man well up in the affairs about town, and a fine young business man.

There will probably be other weddings during this very special week for such happy occurrences, cards, however, to the foregoing events having been out for the past two weeks.

THE CLUBS TO RESUME AFTER THEIR LENTEN REST.

After 40 days of absolute goodness and self denial, the card clubs will blossom out again this week, with a perfect after-Easter revelry of good plays and delightful afternoons.

The East Hill club will meet on Monday afternoon with Mrs. S. J. Bennett on the Hill; the Social Card club will play on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Wm. Berch; the Monday Euchre club is to be entertained at the home of Mrs. Lewis Willis; the Tuesday Bridge with Mrs. J. W. Higgins; the Pastime club will meet again on Wednesday night for a pleasant game of euchre with Mrs. E. Rady; and the Thursday club is to be entertained on Thursday evening by Mrs. J. A. Jones.
