

PROSPECTUS
FOR THE SECOND VOLUME OF THE
SOUTHERN CULTIVATOR,
(In a new Form.)
COMMENCE THE 1ST OF JANUARY, 1840.

The Publisher, encouraged with the success has so far attended his labors in behalf of the Civil and Mechanical interests of the South, presents the public with the prospectus of the second volume of this work, with the hope they will aid the cause of General Improvement in our country so far at least as to assist in securing it additional patronage. That heretofore extended to it during the first year of its career, which is now drawing to a close, has greatly exceeded all expectation. But whilst so much has been done, he is not content, either as to the success of the enterprise or its usefulness to the reading public, for whose especial good it was conducted. Persuaded that the Southern Cultivator has acquired amongst the agriculturists of our country a character as a work designed to aid them in their vocation, he feels desirous of presenting on the 1st of January next in a form and style it will be more acceptable to them, and more worthy the patronage that has been and which he hopes will still be extended to it. With the completed change in its form and improvement in its execution, the publisher also brings to its aid talents that he trusts will place it once among the most valuable agricultural publications of the day.

We live in a country abounding in wealth, high springs almost entirely from its agricultural resources—many of these yet remain hidden, which if fairly developed, would add greatly to the wealth and prosperity of all classes, and socially to that of the farming. Hence the immense and incalculable benefits derived from the prosecution of a work of this nature, and the wealthiest of the country are the most neglected. Justice will never be done unless themselves assert their rights and enforce the most rigid rules, which in the end will be found alike salutary to the public and beneficial to themselves.

TO THE PUBLIC.
The rights of editors and publishers of papers have been too long neglected. Justice will never be done unless themselves assert their rights and
eficial to themselves.

and of learning have long since alike been closed.
Men have not time now-a-days to dream away their lives in wreathing around their ponderous and bedusted folios, the subtleties of the scholastic securities. Practical utility is the watch-cry of the day. The literature of the age is miscellaneous and republican, and demands condensation, force, nerve and point, to accomplish its legitimate object. It demands vigorous, fearless, profound thought, draped in a style of expression distinguished rather for classic serenity and conciseness, than for ornate elaborateness and grace.

We will of course contribute to the columns of the News-Letter whatever we can consistently with our other engagements, but we could not fulfill our design to make it every way worthy of extensive patronage without engaging the services of an editor. Mr. E. Flagg, who takes charge of it, is perhaps not known to most of our readers.
He is a most accomplished and beautiful writer, the author of various tales, essays and sketches of western scenery, which, though published only in a fugitive form, have been extensively copied and read, and have received the highest admiration. He is at this time superintending in New York, the publication of his tour through the West, for which, having read some of the manuscript, we predict a brilliant success. We shall commence the publication of the News-Letter as soon as a sufficient number of subscribers shall be obtained.

The "Western Literary News-Letter" is designed to be issued weekly upon a sheet in quarto form, executed in a style and on type and material not inferior to other periodicals of a similar character.

TERMS.—Three dollars in advance; three dollars and fifty cents at the expiration of six months and four dollars at the end of the year.

PRENTICE & WEISSINGER.
The rights of editors and publishers of papers

eficial to themselves.

PROSPECTUS OF THE NATION-AL MAGAZINE AND REPUBLICAN REVIEW.

H. J. BRENT, Esq., Editor.—The National Magazine and Republican Review will be published in the City of Washington, D. C. on the 1st of January next, and delivered monthly in all parts of the U. States, devoted exclusively to the advancement of the great principles of the Whig party and the encouragement of Literature and Science.

The experience of the past year has confirmed in the minds of the more reflecting and sagacious of the Whig party that a vacuum exists in the republican press of the country, in which should be combined the productions of a similar nature on the literary and scientific subjects, and those of the eminent literary geniuses of which the U. S. can boast so ample a share, on the various subjects that present themselves to a sound and vigorous intellect.

It cannot be doubted that the present crisis demands the publication of a work calculated to infuse and circulate true and honest political information, and to counteract the direful influence exerted by a monthly periodical of a similar nature published in the city, under the auspices, and bearing the name of the self-styled Democracy of the present day, advocating measures which if successful, are destined to moulder to ruin the fabric of our noble Constitution, by placing constructions on it to suit the caprice and advance the reaching of a corrupt ambition.

The union of such principles with a general literature as have insulted the common sense and honesty of the country, by proclaiming the "Martyrdom of Calley," rendered in a manner more detestable than any inhuman way in which they are combined, tends directly to the disorganization of all that, as Americans, should be held most sacred. This combination is calculated to secure them a circulation in quarters to which they might not otherwise penetrate, as well as from a certain deceptive air of high-toned philanthropy and expansive liberality of views, with which they are artfully able to invest themselves, for the purpose of stealing their way into the hearts through the unsuspecting hearts of that class on which depends the destiny and hopes of the nation—its young men. Whilst the more experienced sagacity of older heads can never hesitate a moment in recognising the real naked deformity of these principles of Modern Radica-lism, under all the fair seeming disguises they may assume, yet to the young they are replete with a subtle danger of the most pernicious character.

The National Magazine and Republican Review is designed, and will be conducted with these and other high important considerations in view, calculated to correct misconstructions and to inculcate the correct political principles on which are based the views and practice of the great Republican Whig party, as well as for the encouragement and maintenance of genuine philanthropic literature. The publishers will neither spare expense in the mechanical department of the work, nor their utmost efforts to render the Review useful to the public in a literary point of view, and honorable to the country and cause which it is destined to espouse as a National work.

The period is fast arriving when the country will emerge from the dominion of a party which has come into power under the corrupt influence of a misled popular prejudice, and which has advocated and sailed under the broad and corrupt motto of office-seekers, "To the victor belong the spoils of the vanquished," being alike anti-republican, unconstitutional, and a foul stain upon the free institutions of the country, that can only be eradicated by the triumph of the principles which govern the Republican Whig party of the present day.

The advocates of the principles alluded to, who have stood foremost in defence of the Constitution and Laws when they were as diminutive as a party could be, exerting the strength of a Leon-idas battling with the host of Xerxes, and have nearly succeeded in rescuing the Government from the grasp of corruption, will deem it their imperative duty to continue their efforts, and it cannot better be done than by supporting a periodical of high standing for sound political principles and literary worth; and such alone will be found in the National Magazine and Republican Review.

The success of the Magazine will therefore depend, in a great measure, on the great body of the opponents of the present Administration, whose interest it will be to aid in its permanent establishment. And it will be equally binding on the talented and patriotic band of leading Whigs to spare neither time nor labor to the explanation and advocacy of the true and only principles on which the Government can prosper, and on the success of which depends the great experiment of Republican Government.

Having made a few remarks on the political cast of the publication, we feel confident that its utility will be readily perceived by the public, and fully appreciated. In addition to the political features, the following will be the principal subjects on which the Review will treat, from the pens of most celebrated writers of the present day.
Reviews and Critical Notices will occupy a portion of its pages, thereby giving praise to genius and censure to such productions only as are richly deserving of it.

A sketch of the proceedings of Congress will be given at the close of each session, in which will be explained the cause and effect of all prominent acts and measures, compiled by a gentleman of acknowledged ability and opportunity to arrange and collect such matters as will prove both interesting and instructive.

Election Returns will be given in a tabular form, embracing all elections of importance in the various States, as early as practicable after the reception of official returns.

Essays and Tales will also form an important part of the work, and all original articles of the character will receive prompt attention. The object of the publishers, next to enhancing the good cause in which they have embarked, will be to furnish the reader with such matters as will both instruct and amuse; such as:
Sketches and Reminiscences of events too minute for history.

Biographical and Historical Sketches of distinguished personages, &c. Original Poetry will be well sprinkled through its pages.

Engravings of Distinguished Statesmen. If the work should receive the same encouragement as is usually extended to periodicals of a literary and scientific character, the subscribers to the Review will not only find their numbers embellished with these desirable plates, but also with many other valuable improvements.

TERMS.—The National Magazine and Republican Review will be published in monthly numbers of eighty octavo pages each on fine paper with new and handsome type; and in the most approved mechanical and typographical appearance, at the moderate price of Five Dollars a year, payable in all cases in advance, or on the delivery of the third number, without respect to persons.
Any person forwarding ten respectable subscribers and becoming responsible for the amount of their subscriptions for the first year; shall receive a copy gratis, as long as they may continue subscribers.

The publishers will be responsible for all monies forwarded by mail, in case of miscarriage, provided the certificate of the Postmaster shall be secured, and copies forwarded accordingly.

If a subscriber shall not order his subscription to be discontinued at the expiration of the year, he shall be considered as wishing the Review continued, which shall be forwarded, and the subscription money expected on the receipt of the third number as in the first instance.

No subscription taken for a less term than 1 year.
All communications, post paid, addressed to the publishers at their residence, Georgetown, D. C. will receive prompt attention.

Publishers of newspapers who will copy the foregoing prospectus will receive a copy of the work in exchange, and also confer a lasting benefit upon the proprietors. FULTON & SMITH.

The Empire State—Enlarged.

JANUARY 1, 1840.

PROSPECTUS.

Determined to make adequate returns for the liberal and increasing encouragement given to this paper, which bears aloft the Name and defends the Honor and interests of the EMPIRE STATE—the publishers propose, on the commencement of the year 1840, to issue this paper in the folio form, on an enlarged sheet of the Mammoth Size, to exceed in size and style of execution, any weekly newspaper published in this city or country. The most ample arrangements are making to give the paper all those attractions, as a well conducted Political, Literary and Miscellaneous Journal, which the intelligence and good taste of the present age require. In its arrangement and execution, and the amount of reading matter it will contain, as well as in its early and faithful record of News, foreign and domestic, local and general, the EMPIRE STATE will be unequaled. It will remain staunch, as it ever has been, in support of sound Democratic Whig Principles—an advocate of Public and Private Economy, Public and Private Virtue, Equal Rights and Equal Laws. And in catering for the general reader, we shall spare no pains or expense to render the paper attractive, valuable and useful. The choicest selections will be regularly made from the current Literature of the day, together with ample original contributions from the pens of able and practiced writers.

TERMS OF THE EMPIRE STATE.

Enlarged Series.
The paper will be published on a Mammoth folio sheet, on paper of superior quality and beautiful type.

The price will be $2.50 per annum—in all cases in advance. No paper sent until the money is received; and no subscriptions received for a less term than six months.

Those who are now subscribers, or wish to avail themselves of the privilege of the present terms, may do so by enclosing $2 at any time prior to the 1st of January 1840, and the paper will be sent for one year.— After that date, the terms will invariably be $2.50 per annum in advance.

Business letters should be addressed to 162 Nassau street, N. Y.

OF THE REGISTER.

F. A. Tyler, Editor and Publisher.

At the earnest solicitation of many citizens of Yalobusha county, the publication of this journal will be commenced in the town of Grenada, Miss. at an early period, if sufficient encouragement is afforded.
It will be devoted, as a prominent object, to the dissemination of political information; while news, literature, science, and miscellaneous matters of interest, will receive a full share of attention. It shall be useful to men of all avocations—an entertaining and instructive fire-side companion. In politics, it will be a faithful sentinel, a candid inquirer, a just satirist, a foe to aristocracy, tyranny and tyrants, a resolute and fearless combatant by fair reason, an independent people's press. The light of truth shall be reflected from the mirror of sound reason, rather than proclaimed with mere invective. Abuses which are believed to exist, and corrupt practices which may obtain in the federal administration will be ferreted out with vigilance and exposed with candor and fairness. It shall never be prostituted to undeserved abuse, slander, or falsehood; but a free press, conducted as a free press should be.

Political friends shall have no occasion to doubt that its steel is true; nor political opponents, whenever it is applied, to deny that they have deserved it. Bad rulers shall be exposed first and lashed afterwards, to the delight of just men of all parties. Political opponents shall be reasoned with, rather than called by hard names; but corrupt rulers are at the mercy of their sovereigns. A foe to federal encroachments, it will be a friend to States Rights; an advocate of a sound currency, it will be at war mainly with the causes which make "shinplasters" abundant as the leaves of autumn; and professing the Whig creed, it will aim at enforcing the salutary principles of that creed. In a word, it will be an old fashioned Democratic christened Whig. Its motto shall be "One Country, one Constitution, one Destiny," and it is hoped it will do something to break down those barriers of opinion which distract the energies of freemen in the discharge of the great duties of a free people. By men of the same sentiments with our own, defeat for the present, will not be regarded as discouragement for the future. New questions will arise, and while the public intelligence is combined with public virtue, correct decisions will be made upon them. If, indeed, the election of Martin Van Buren to-day would render certain the succession of any other individual of his followers to-morrow, it would be an overwhelming Executive influence which would leave no redress but in revolution; the sword and the bayonet must usurp the province of the ballot-box.

To such a desperate extremity we can never be driven while the Republican virtues are promoted, and the patriotic of all parties only seek a good administration of affairs, by agents worthy of their confidence. It comes, then, their duty unflinchingly and sedulously to guard against the evils which must always endanger a free government by superadding to it the incultation of sound morality through the pulpit and the schools, the correct political information which can be diffused through the press; and it is these views which have prompted the publication of this journal.

In its columns, while religion and temperance will be supported, intolerance in the one or legislation in the other will find no advocacy. The attention given by the Editor to the tastes and gratification of all classes of readers will be such as to make this paper valuable to all. It will be printed on paper of imperial size, or larger, and issued weekly at five dollars per annum, in advance.
