DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for every thing, but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Stunning Traveling Gowns.

Since many fashionable wedded couples elect to take their honeymoon tour in an automobile, the traveling costume of the bride now shows radical departures from the simply tailored, soberly shaded suit of a few years ago, when it was the aim of every well-bred pair to attract as little attention as possible. Some of the traveling gowns that are being made up for October brides are of fine broadcloth in the light shades of blue and brown and usually in three pieces, the trained skirt and elaborately trimmed bodice of the princess gown being supposed to represent two pieces, and the long and fancifully shaped dirtoire or empire coat the third section. Not always are these costumes of one material trimmed with satin or silk, for it is the fad of the moment to have the gown of heavy corded ottoman or satin and the coat of cloth or vice versa.

HOW TO CURE A COLD

Be as careful as you can you will occasionally take cold, and when you do, get a medicine of known reliability, one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this most common ailment, and can always be depended upon. It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs; aids expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. During the many years in which it has been in general use we have yet to learn of a single case of cold or attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by all dealers.

PRETTY DESIGNS IN RAPHIA.

Embroidery in Almost Any Shade That Can Be Desired.

Some of the most beautiful embroidery is done now in raphia, which may be had in almost all shades or dyed to suit the needs of any artistic worker. It looks extremely difficult, too, when used to decorate curtains or other household furnishings. A curtain of burlap, for instance, in green may be made artistic and beautiful by an embroidered border of red and brown raphia. The beauty of the raphia is that the work is quite easy and the results are remarkably good, while at the same time the materials for working cost practically nothing.

One may buy a bunch of raphia—what would correspond to a large skein of wool yarn—for ten cents. The raphia may be used on many materials; denim, for instance, fine netting or a coarse cotton material. The needle used should be a darnin' needle, and if the raphia is too thick it may be split to the required size.

SUIT AGAINST THREE NATIONS.

Mme. Cotton Wants 800,000 Cross Crowns Lent to Venice.

A French woman with an English name, a Mme. Cotton, is making a bold bid for fame and fortune by suing in the French courts an empire, a kingdom, a republic and a bank at the same time.

The plaintiff claims to be the authentic representative of a financier who two centuries and a half ago advanced the Zecca bank of Venice a sum of 800,000 gold cross crowns, present value roughly $4,000,000, including interest at the rate of three per cent.

The heir of the original lender was a Frenchman, Jean Thierry. His heirs quarreled over the succession and King Louis XV. claimed it. After the revolution Napoleon, as Gen. Bonaparte, got the cash from the bank.

From that day till now the French state has been the custodian of the Thierry estate. The state has been sued dozens of times, but to no purpose. A bill authorizing a grant to Mme. Cotton as the heiress of Thierry passed the chamber some 20 years ago and was nullified by the exchequer.

The governments of Italy and Austria are summoned because each in turn has owned Venice and has been in turn responsible for the debts. Whether Mme. Cotton's peticity will successfully bring to an issue a case in which the hopes of generations lie buried remains to be seen.

Design for Costumes of Silk and Cloth.

A costume of changeable silk and white linen that will be copied a month hence in Ottoman silk and cloth or velvet and cloth was quite charming and novel. Over an underdress of finely-tucked white linen (the tucks lengthwise) was worn a princess silk overdress, perfectly molding the figure. The armholes were cut to shape a little over the top of the tight-tucked sleeves of the underdress; in front the bodice was cut into a high square and buttoned double breasted for four or five inches; below it was cut out to show a wide girde of black silk buckled with a linen-covered buckle. Below this opening the closing line continued on the skirt, half way to the knees, then it sloped away sharply to the back to show much of the underdress.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

Handkerchief Shawls.

The latest craze in the world of fashion which at the present moment is carrying all before it is the little handkerchief shawl. This is about the size of the tiny shawl of the Breton peasant, being designed of a square of figured crepe de chine, muslin or chiffon folded into two points and fringed all round, and is worn over the dainty white muslin dresses with charming effect, the shawl being folded over the chest, where it is sometimes secured with a large jeweled ornament, while in company with the poke bonnet it provides an ensemble which has all the merits of quaintness and certain originality.—Woman's Life.

Two Tailored Suits.

Every young woman should include in her trousseau at least two tailored suits for knockabout purposes. One of them should be of a dust-shedding English mohair, in black, green, brown or blue, checked with white, and the other should be of serge or chevrot in some dark shade. She will thus always have at hand a neat street costume, as when one suit is being pressed and sponged the other can be in commission. If she does not care to provide several special morning frocks, she may wear the tailored skirts, with pretty muslin blouses, or those of silk or fine soft flannel in simple shirt design.

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

To Fit Skirt Top.
If the top of your dress skirt you are making is too large for the belt, so that you will have to "full" it in too much, wet it for about one inch around the top and press with a hot iron. This will shrink it enough to allow it to go into the belt nicely. Of course this applies only to goods not already shrunk.
