

Written on hearing a friend called "talented for a mere Type-Setter."

"A mere type-setter"—still a man
The world, perchance, may yet reverse;
Unknown, unmoted, one who can
Have taught to hope and taught to fear
Yet, where's the kindly scepter'd hand;
The brow that bears a princely gem—
That wields so well a wide command—
Whose "stick" may match a diadem?

"A mere type-setter"—Let us see,
Who gave the glorious stripes to air
That mark the banners of the free,
And bound the stars that glimmer there?
Who turned the bolt of Heaven aside,
And conquered its ethereal fire?
Who bade the lightning flames glide
Along his magic wand of wire?

"A mere type-setter"—Search the past,
The records of each battle-field;
Who nailed our colors to the mast,
And died because they would not yield?
Who taught our hand to strike the blow,
Through toil, and danger, and distress,
That severed England's chains of woe—
Who, but the masters of the Press?

"A mere type-setter"—Name of fear,
To bid the slave of freedom wake—
That tyranny shall quake to hear,
And old oppression's empire shake?
Is Franklin a forgotten name,
That man no longer may revere?
Has Paine lost his soul of flame,
Or Bennett dropped his pen of fear?

"A mere type-setter"—Honored name,
That ages yet unborn shall bless,
When empires crumble, and their fame
Has sunk in worse than nothingness.
Show me the rustic who leers deride
The "mere type-setter's" humble school,
And I'll show you an ape of pride,
A brainless, or a dandy fool!

A BEAUTIFUL STORY.

Elise de Vaux.

BY FANNY FERN.

"Well, doctor, what do you think of her? She has set her heart upon going to that New Year's ball, and it will never do to disappoint her—poor thing!"

The blunt old doctor bit his lip impatiently, and striking his gold-headed cane in no very gentle manner upon the floor, said:

"Think! I think it would be perfect insanity for her to attempt it. I will not be answerable for the consequences."

"Pshaw! my dear sir, she has had a dozen attacks before quite as bad, and—"

"And that is the very reason she should be more cautious now, madam. Good morning—good morning! Heaven save me from these fashionable mothers," he muttered as he banged the door to behind him. "She'll kill the girl, and then her death will be laid at my door—ugh! it would be a comfort if one could meet a sensible woman occasionally."

Elise was sitting in bed, propped up by pillows, when her mother entered. If youth, grace and beauty, could bribe the Destroyer, or turn aside his unerring aim, then had she been spared. Her cheek was marble pale, and rested wearily on one little hand; the eyes were closed as if sleeping, and from the other hand a few choice flowers had escaped, and lay scattered upon the snowy counterpane.

"Oh! is that you, mamma? I hope you have made that stupid doctor give you something that will set me up. I feel such a deadly sinking—from want of nourishment, I fancy. Do pray see what you can get for me. I hope Dr. Wyman didn't presume to interfere about my going to the ball, because I intend to go dead or alive; and, mamma, while my lunch is getting ready, bring me my dress, and let me see if Jeannet has placed the trimmings where they should be, and have a robe placed around the wrist of my kid gloves; and, mamma, don't forget to send to Auster's for the pearl spray I selected for my hair; and, by the way, just hand that mirror; I'm afraid that I look awfully pale."

"Not now," said the frightened mother, "you are too weary. Wait till you have had some refreshments," and the pale beauty sank back on her pillow, crushing a wreath of dark ringlets, and closed her eyes wearily, in spite of her determination to be well.

A ring at the door! (a bright flush came to her cheek). "That's Vivian, mamma. Tell him—tell him (a sharp pain through her temple caused her to pause) tell him I'm better, and he may call for me at ten to-morrow night; and, mamma, hand him this," and she drew a little, perfumed note from beneath her pillow, with a rose bud crushed in its folds.

"Draw aside the curtain, Jeannet! Oh! we shall have a nice evening for the dance; now hand me my dressing gown. Mamma, that medicine is perfectly miraculous—I never felt better—Heaven knows where I should have been, had you not called in a better counselor than Dr. Wyman. He would like me for a patient a year, I dare say, but I know better than to line his pockets that way," and she skipped gaily across the floor to a large fauteuil, and called Jeannet to arrange her hair.

"Softly—softly, Jeannet! My head isn't quite right yet. There, that will do," said Elise, as the skillful Frenchwoman bound tress after tress in glossy braids, around her well-formed head.

"Now, place that pearl spray a little to the left, just over my ear—pretty, isn't it, mamma?"

"Here, Jeannet!" and she extended the dainty foot for her silken hose and satin slipper.

"Rest awhile now, Elise," said her mother, as she looked apprehensively at the bright crimson spot on her cheek, that grew deeper every moment, and contrasted so strikingly with the marble paleness of her brow. "I'm afraid you're going beyond your strength."

"Mamma, what are you thinking about? Look at me! and see how well I look. Besides, I'd go to this ball to-night, if it cost me my life. Mabel has triumphed over me once; she shall not do it a second time; and, there is really no danger; I feel wild with spirits to-night, and anticipate a most brilliant evening," and she clasped the pearl pendants in her small ears, and the light, fleecy dress, fell in soft folds about her graceful person, and upon her fair arm placed his gift, and taking in her hand the rich bouquet, every flower of which whispered hopes to her young heart, she held up her cheek with a bewitching smile and said: "Now, kiss me, mamma, and say that you are proud of Elise."

And now, Jeannet, with care, draws the rich opera cloak about her shoulders, and with a thousand charges from mamma "to beware of the draughts, partake sparingly of ice, and not weary herself with dancing," the carriage wheels rolled away from the door freighted with their lovely burden.

"Elise de Vaux, here!" said a tall, queenly girl, attired in black velvet; and she curled her pretty lip with ill-concealed vexation. "I thought her dying or near it," and, as Elise glided gracefully past in the dance, every eye following her, and every tongue eloquent in her praise, Mabel's cheek paled with anger.

"How radiant she is! how dazzling! Sick-ness has but enhanced her beauty, and how proudly Vivian bears her through the waltz! Every step she takes is on my heart-strings. This must not, shall not be! Courage, coward heart!" and mastering her feelings with a strong effort, she soon brought the rose to her cheek, her eyes grew wildly brilliant, and—had not Vivian been magnetized beyond recall, his eye would have been caught by the dazzling vision.

All eyes were fixed upon the rival belles, and amid the voluptuous swell of music, the flashing of lights, the overpowering sweetness of myriads of flowers, and the rapid whirling motion of the dance, every brain and heart was dizzy with excitement.

"Heavens! that is not Elise de Vaux," said a nephew of Dr. Wyman's. "What mad folly! My uncle told me if she came, it would be at the price of her life. How surpassingly beautiful she is!"

Still on, and on they whirled—the dancers! till the stars grew pale, and the sweet flowers drooped in the heated atmosphere.

"No sleep till morn, when youth and pleasure meet,
To chase the glowing hours with flying feet!"

"What an unearthly beauty!" said an old gentleman to a young man, upon whose arm he was leaning, as Elise glided past. "Who is she?"

"Elise de Vaux," said the young man, mechanically, his eyes riveted to her figure.

"Do you know what you are saying?" said he, tapping him gently on the arm.

"Yes, Elise de Vaux."

"Well, why do you look at her so wildly? Has cupid aimed a dart at you out of those lovely blue eyes?"

"Good God!" said the young man, leaping forward, as a piercing shriek came upon the air. "Make room! help! throw up the windows!" and Elise was borne past, gasping, senseless, to the cool night air.

Ay, Vivian! kneel at her side, chafe the little jeweled hands, put back the soft hair from the azure-veined temples, press the pulseless wrist, listen for the beating heart in vain—Elise is dead!

And in the arms of him for whom she had thrown away her young life, she was borne to her home. The diamond sparkled mockingly, on the clay-cold fingers, the pearls still lingering amid her soft ringlets, the round symmetrical limbs still fair in their beautiful proportions. The heart she coveted was gained—the dear-bought victory won!

Fever! Fever!!
THE Season for fevers is approaching and every family should be supplied with the "ELECTRIC FEVERIFUGE" or, "Speeds Fever Tonic." This preparation is not only simple, safe, and pleasant in its effects, but will cure any species of Fever in less than one-fourth of the time ordinarily required! None can appreciate its value but those who have used it.

The following from the New Orleans Delta, speaks volumes:
"SEEK AND YE SHALL FIND GOOD TESTIMONY.—We copy the following from the New Medical Dispensary, published at Cincinnati, Ohio:

"The success of this article finally reached the ears of some physician, who prepared from it a nostrum called 'Electrical Febrifuge.' Those who have used the tincture, or the 'Electrical Febrifuge,' among whom are several physicians, speak well of it in all species of Fevers, nervous and bilious headache, colds, pneumonia, hemorrhages, leucorrhoea, chills, ague-cake, and several other diseases though it is in fevers especially in which its efficacy has been most observed. If one-half of the virtues reported to exist in this plant are true, it is certainly deserving the close investigation of all classes of physicians."

From the above, it would seem that a good thing might come out of Nazareth, or be contained in a "nostrum." At any rate, we consider it a heavy endorsement, and sufficient guarantee for Messrs. A. KENDALL & Co., of this City, the proprietors of the Febrifuge. We would give the name of the "plant" referred to, but for fear of deleterious and fatal results, it being the same plant reported here two years ago which people caught at with such avidity, and its administration was attended with fatal consequences in some instances. We have good reason to believe that the experience of the Cincinnati physicians has been wholly with the Febrifuge prepared by A. KENDALL & Co., and not with the plant referred to—knowing, as we do, some eminently successful doctors who have graduated on the merits of the Febrifuge, and nothing else. One of the graduates, writing from the lathmus, says: "My science and the Febrifuge are beating the Regulars hollow! I have treated upwards of two hundred fever patients, and for so far have not lost a case. The only trouble is that it cures too quick! I can't get fee enough out of them." Verbum sat, etc.—N. O. Delta.

Prepared only by A. KENDALL & Co., 72 Magazine street, New Orleans, sole Proprietors.

CAUTION.—Since the Febrifuge has become so popular, other parties have pretended to prepare the same thing. The genuine has a likeness of Dr. Speed, with our fac simile signature on every envelope, with its name blown on the bottle.

Buy no other. All others are not only base counterfeits, but what we have seen and examined, extremely dangerous.

WISTAR'S BALSAM.

OF WILD CHERRY.
The great American Remedy, for Lung complaints, and all affections of the Respiratory Organs.

THE BEST remedy ever known to man, for Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Bleeding of the lungs, Difficulty of Breathing, Liver Affections, Pain or Weakness of the Breast or Side, First stages of consumption, &c.

REMARKABLE CURE.
Of all the cures that have yet been recorded, there are certainly none equal to the one first mentioned, which plainly shows the curability of consumption, even in some of its worst forms.

JEFFERSON COUNTY, Ia., Feb. 27, 1849.
Messrs. Sanford & Park—Gents: This is to certify, that my wife, Nancy Donohy, has been in a declining state of health for the last two years. Her disease baffled the skill of the best medical aid I could procure—her physicians pronounced her disease "Consumption in the last stage," and said that her recovery was past all human hopes.

As a last resort, with very little hope, I procured Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. After using a few bottles, I found, to my agreeable surprise, that her health was improving rapidly. She is now so far recovered, as to be able to attend to her regular household duties, without suffering any inconvenience. Her rapid improvement and present health, warrant me in the belief that she will soon be entirely restored.

RHODES DONOHY.

To THE PUBLIC.—I, Jacob Green, of the county of Jennings, and state of Indiana, do hereby certify, that in the early part of last season, I was taken with a violent cough attended with a pain in the breast, and some times fever, and that I employed a skillful physician for some time, who said he could give me no relief. I then commenced using Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, and felt almost immediate relief; and after taking three bottles, I find myself in as good health as I have enjoyed for a number of years. My restoration, under the blessing of God, I attribute to the use of the medicine above named.

JACOB GREEN
March 1st, 1849.

State of Indiana, Jennings county. I, David T. Skinner, a Justice of the Peace in and for the said county and State, do certify that the above named Jacob Green, subscribed and made oath to the foregoing certificate, before me, this first day of March, 1849.

We would advise those of our readers who are laboring under an affection of the lungs, to make immediate trial of this truly excellent medicine. The most intelligent and respectable families of our city have adopted it as a favorite medicine; and persons predisposed to consumption, who have used it, speak in the highest terms of its efficacy.

Beware of counterfeits and imitations—syrups, and all other preparations of Wild Cherry. Remember, they only imitate in name, not in virtue. Sold wholesale and retail, by

Two large Cancers, effectually Cured, by
S. REYNOLDS,
123, Gravier street, New Orleans.

CERTIFICATE of cure from Captain
Nat. Ostrander:

"Dr. J. Reynolds Sir—Having for many years been afflicted with two large and inveterate Cancers, (one upon my right hand, the other upon my left arm.) I sought in vain for cure at the hands of our most experienced surgeons.

Hearing of your successful treatment of Cancers, I determined to have the benefit of your experience, and for this purpose came to New Orleans, eight months ago, when I speedily received relief, by your mild and effectual mode of taking both Cancers out, without the aid of the knife. The Cancer upon my hand weighed over a quarter of a pound, that on my arm, more than three quarters of a pound, yet the new and healthy flesh took their place so rapidly that I was entirely restored to health in a few weeks.

As a token of gratitude for your able and successful treatment of my Cancers, I voluntarily add this testimony to your numerous credentials, and trust that those effected with Cancers may be directed to you, for a speedy and effectual cure. Respectfully, yours,

NATHANIEL OSTRANDER.

To the Public,
LAST TESTIMONY TO THE MANY CURES.

ASTONISHING CURE OF THREE CANCERS.

This is to certify that my wife has been afflicted with Cancers for the last seven years and has been suffering the most excruciating pain—and often trying all remedies that could be thought of. I came to New Orleans with her for the purpose of procuring relief and shortly after my arrival here I applied to Samuel Reynolds, at 123 Gravier street, who healed her Cancers three in number—one on the lip, one on the temple (very large) and one on the nose just below the eye. I am now happy to say that I believe my wife is entirely cured after three weeks treatment under the hands of Samuel Reynolds, 123 Gravier street, New Orleans.
