

PROG. ATT. LOWERY was in New Lexington Wednesday of this week on legal business.

We publish elsewhere the proceedings of council Tuesday. An adjourned meeting will be held to-night.

The largest pension paid through the Columbus agency is that paid to the widow of ex-President Garfield, the amount being $5,000.00 per year.

MR. MELOY, of the New Lexington Herald, was in town on Thursday but did not find time to call on us. All right John, come to town often as you please, our gates are open.

GENERAL LOGAN should write an additional chapter to his "Great Conspiracy."—Republican Gazette.

What Great Conspiracy? The one in existence in Illinois during the early part of 1861? Or has John been implicated in some other.

THE meeting of Democratic Central Committee on Saturday last, was attended by a full delegation. The meeting being held with closed doors we are unable to speak with certainty as to the personal expression of any member. In another column we present a report of the result of the deliberations. The utmost harmony prevailed throughout the meeting, and delegates were chosen to represent the party in each of the conventions designated in the call, all of which delegations are unopposed for any candidate.

SOME one entered our cellar on Saturday night and stole our beef steak. The thief who would steal a beef steak from a printer will go to hell before he is laid out. We had indulged in many great expectations over the prospects of having beef steak once more, not having had any since we feasted on the famous John Att beef—Somerset Press.

We wondered what had made the noble Magruder mad this week. The Press editorial columns fairly bristle with wrath and groan with venom, and above can be found the cause. Magruder is hungry and like most of us when in that condition loses his faith in the chances of the ultimate salvation of some men. Learn from your past experience, to either beg your steak on Sunday morning or sleep with it under your head.

GROVER CLEVELAND has already secured an immortality of fame(?) by exercising the veto power a greater number of times than all his predecessors put together, and exercising it, too, mainly so far in crushing the hopes of scarred, seared and disabled veterans, who, with one foot in the grave, ask from the country which they saved a small pittance to keep their lives from ending in utter misery.—Journal.

Yes Grover Cleveland has rendered his name immortal by exercising the veto power, and in every instance this power has been interposed to save the finances of the Government intact for their legitimate uses, and not in crushing the hopes of SCARRED SEARED AND DISABLED veterans. They, brother Journal, are not the kind that fly to Congress and ask for the passage of an individual pension bill. Such as you enumerate have long ago sought and obtained relief through the ordinary channels that are now, and have been ever since the war, open to deserving soldiers and if the authorities erred the errors have been committed by the party that have always professed an undying love for the soldier.

THE following Executive order was issued by the President:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, July 14, '86. TO THE HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS IN THE SERVICE OF THE GENERAL GOVERNMENT: I deem this a proper time to especially warn all subordinates in the several departments and all office-holders under the General Government against the use of their official positions in attempts to control political movements in their localities. Office-holders are the agents of the people, not their masters. Not only is their time and labor due to the Government, but they should scrupulously avoid in their political action, as well as in the discharge of their official duty, offending, by a display of obtrusive partisanship, their neighbors who have relations with them as public officials. They should also constantly remember that their party friends from whom they have received preferment have not invested them with the power of arbitrarily managing their party associates or to throttle freedom of action within party lines by methods and practices which pervert every useful and justifiable purpose of party organization. The influence of Federal office-holders should not be felt in the manipulation of political primary meetings and nominating conventions. The use by these officials of their positions to compass their selection as delegates to political conventions is indecent and unfair, and proper regard for the proprieties and requirements of official place will also prevent their assuming the active conduct of political campaigns.

Individual interest and activity in political affairs are by no means condemned. Office holders are neither disfranchised nor forbidden the exercise of political privileges; but their privileges are not enlarged nor is their duty to party increased to pernicious activity by office-holding. A just discrimination in this regard between the things a citizen may properly do and the purpose for which a public office should not be used, is easy, in the light of a correct appreciation of the relation between the people and those intrusted with official place, and a consideration of the necessity under our form of Government, of political action free from official coercion.

You are requested to communicate the substance of these views to those for whose guidance they are intended.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

THE O. P. MANAGEMENT

Not all Oily Smoothness in the Transactions of the Foraker Board.

We this week publish the result of the action of the Board of Managers of the Ohio Penitentiary in which one of their number, Rownd, is greatly censured for impudent intermeddling with the affairs of the institution and exceeding the duties of his official position as one of the Board of Managers.

We also publish a communication from the Columbus Times in which a Republican sets out the true inwardness of the new management, and compares the doings of the Foraker gang, with the management under Democratic rule, in a way that does not cover the new board with glory.

The hungry class of Republicans sought position under the wings of the new Governor, without anything to recommend them except their desire for place and the accompanying salary. Now the effect of the hasty action of Gov. Foraker in making appointments begins to be visible, in the distrust manifested, by his appointees, toward each other, a distrust and dislike that cannot help but work ill to the institution of the State.

We who have been continually taught that Democrats were wholly incompetent to manage the affairs of State, look with wild wonder at the doings of the self constituted political saints of the G. O. P.

THE STORM OF TUESDAY NIGHT.

Brief Mention of Destruction, Death and Devastation in all Parts of the Country.

Hendricks county, Indiana, reports three large barns blown to fragments, five cows and eight horses killed. Many other buildings were unroofed, and corn crop almost totally destroyed by wind and hail.

Crawfordsville, Ind., reports great damage to buildings, growing crops and fruit.

In Licking county, this State, chimneys were blown down, shade and fruit trees uprooted, the corn and other crops almost ruined.

Shelby, O., reports the total destruction of two large barns, and contents including one valuable horse, and in the town it is said the lightning struck in ten places within twenty minutes, the R. R. depot being set on fire.

At Barnsville, O., two barns were blown down, two cattle killed, several houses damaged, grain and hay stacks blown to pieces and growing crops badly damaged.

Wayne, Seneca, Adams and other portions of the State report the most terrific thunder storm ever known and great damage by wind and lightning.

Reports show that the storm extended over northern and central Indiana, Ohio, central and northern Kentucky, West Virginia and the greater portion of Pennsylvania, extending into New York. At Corry, Pa., one woman was killed, and a man severely stunned by lightning.

A Republican's Opinion of Mr. Rownd.

Editor Columbus Times: The resolution unanimously adopted by the Board of Managers of the Ohio Penitentiary as reported in the newspapers yesterday, is a very effective vindication of the Board, and any one at all acquainted with the workings of the institution or interested in the welfare of the State, must be glad to see the Board of Managers appointed by Governor Foraker's choice of a successor to the institution by the legislature undoubtedly hampered the managers in their objects, yet they left office with such integrity to their successors, enlarged and improved works and buildings, which must all favorably on the financial condition of the institution. When manager Peters retired, Governor Foraker's choice of a successor to the institution, and who has the unenviable credit of having, from the day the Governor first hinted at his name, some seeds of discord among managers and officers, showing in every way his carping and pettifoggery disposition. It is not to be wondered at that the Board of Managers, in their resignation, have stated that they have ever since filed their resignation, and that they have ever since filed their resignation, and that they have ever since filed their resignation.
