

'Do they Miss Me?'

Do they miss me at home? Do they miss me
"Would be an assurance most dear,
To know at this moment some loved one
Was saying 'I wish he were here!'"
To feel that the group at the fireside
When thinking of me as I roam!
Oh yes! 'twould be joy beyond measure,
To know that they missed me at home.

When twilight approaches the season
That was ever sacred to song,
Does some one repeat my name o'er,
And sigh that I tarry so long!
And is there a chord in the music,
That's missed when my voice is away?
And a chord in each heart that makes Regret at my wearisome stay?

Do they place me a chair at the table,
When evening's home pleasures are nigh,
And lamps are lit in the parlor,
And stars in the calm azure sky,
And when the 'Good Nights' are repeated,
And each lay him down to sleep,
Do they think of the absent and wait me?
A whispered 'Good Night' o'er the deep?

Do they miss me at home? Do they miss me,
At morning, at noon, and at night?
And lingers one gloomy shade round them,
That only my presence can light?
Are joys less invitingly welcomed,
Am pleasure less boistered than before,
Because one is missed from the circle?
Because I am with them no more?

Oh yes! they do miss me! Kind voices
Are calling me back as I roam,
And eyes are grown weary with weeping,
And watch but to welcome me home.
Kind friends, ye shall wait no longer;
I'll hurry me back o'er the seas,
For how can I tarry, when followed By watchings and prayers such as these.

WIT AND SENTIMENT.
How few people see things just as they are, instead of seeing them merely as they look to other people! Lowell says:

"None dares confess he cannot see
What great Placidote spies;
And like potatoes, fools are bled
From one another's eyes."

"Ven do you tink de world will come to an end?" asked a German.
"Q probably in about three months," answered the joker.
"He, vell; I no care for dat," exclaimed
Hans with a smile of satisfaction;
"I be going to Puffalo dis spring."

To be vain of what you have learned is the same as to plume yourself on a piece of game you have received from a hunter.—Marcus Terentius Varro.

"I understand your father is dead?"
said a man to a little boy, as he entered the house. "You're right now, old hoss," said he, "he's laid out in t'other room as cold as a wedge!"

It is certain that either wise bearing or ignorant carriage, is caught as men take diseases, one of another; therefore let men take heed of their company.—
Shakespeare.

A Yankee editor out west says,—
"The march of civilization is onward —onward, like the slow but intrepid steps of a jackass to a peck of oats."—
Vel, that's a bright illustration.

A good action performed in this world receives its recompense in the other, just as waters poured at the root of a tree appears again above in fruit and flowers.—Buddhist Doctrine.

An editor in Missouri announces that the publication of his paper will be suspended for six weeks, in order that he may visit St. Louis with a load of bear-skins, hoop-poles, oak-bark, pickled catfish, &c., which he has taken for subscription. He is bound to raise the cash on them.

Thoughts come maimed and plucked of plumage from the lips, which, from the pen, in the silence of your own leisure and study, would be born with far more beauty.—Lady Blessington.

A lawyer once approached a pretty Quakeress and said she looked so charming he couldn't help giving her a kiss.
"Friend," said she, "thee must not do it!"
"Oh, by heavens I will!" replied the barrier.

"Well, friend," as thou hast sworn,
the may do it, but thee must not make a practice of it."

Fine sense and exalted sense are not half as useful as common sense. There are forty men of wit for one man of sense. And he that will carry nothing about him but gold, will be every day at a loss for readier change.—Pope.

A Quakeress, being jealous of her husband, watched his movements, and one morning actually discovered the truant hugging and kissing a pretty servant girl. Broadbrim was not long in discovering the face of his wife, as she peeped through the half-open door, and rising with all the coolness of a General thus addressed her:

"Betsy, thee had better quit peeping, or thee will cause a disturbance in the family."

"Mornin' Julius—got dem two shillins' you owe me?" Julius—"I don't owe you no two shillins'."
Sam—"Yes, you does; you borried
'em of me todder day." Julius—"Dat's nuffin. I'm busted up; made a sinnerment."
Sam—"Wha—wha—wha's dat?"
Julius—"Why, it's de way de white folks do. Get all you kin, bust, and den pay fifty cents on de dollar to get off clear."

Sam—"Don't you send back all your customer's butes?" Julius—"Sartinly not; dem's in de inventory of effects." Sam—"Den how you pay dem customers fifty cents on de dollar? What you get de money?"
Julius—"I didn't want any money.
I sent 'em one boot apiece!—N. York
Pieguyne."
