Marietta Will Entertain the Editors.

A meeting of the committee appointed to look after the entertainment of the West Virginia Editorial Association Thursday, was held last night, and most of the details of the afternoon and evening programs were arranged.

As the matter now stands the brethren will be met at Waverly and brought down to Marietta on the Barnsdall, with Arnold's orchestra aboard to help enliven the occasion. Arriving at Marietta at 2:30 o'clock, the editors, numbering about 200, will be taken in carriages and shown the various points of interest about the city.

After seeing the sights—historical, educational, industrial and commercial—the visitors will witness a practice run of our fire department, down to the foot of Front street. Later they will be supped at the Bellevue and St. Cloud. In the evening a reception will be tendered the guests at the Auditorium, at which Arnold's orchestra will be present. His Honor, the Mayor, and others will make addresses. Not the least entertainment will be a bicycle lantern parade, presided over by the Lobdell boys, but in which all cyclists are asked to participate. Lanterns will be furnished. Messrs. Burris, Alderman and Lansley are the Club committee to look after the parade.

The Association will disband at Marietta. Let's receive them graciously, and treat them royally.

Don'ts For Bicycle Girls.

- Chicago Times-Herald: Don't lend your wheel. Don't borrow a wheel. Don't imagine you are a racer. Don't ride too far at first. Don't forget your matches. Don't lean too far forward. Don't forget your pump. Don't forget your repair outfit. Don't ride on flat tires. Don't "hump" up your back. Don't think a bicycle is a dandy. Don't forget to turn to the right. Don't keep in the middle of the road. Don't ride on the railroad tracks. Don't ride too high a gear. Don't use bicycle slang. Don't ride a tandem with a "soldier." Don't let a puncture go unrepaired. Don't forget the number of your wheel. Don't try to ride like a man—if you're a woman. Don't leave your wheel unlocked in the street. Don't go out after dark without a lantern. Don't get tires that cannot be easily repaired. Don't turn too short in a wet road. Don't ride "hands down" where the sprinkling wagon has just been. Don't fail to oil your wheel every Saturday night. Don't ride too close to your riding partner. Don't take your wheel apart unless you are sure you can put it together again. Don't wear a long, peaked jockey cap if you have to wear skirts. Don't talk bicycle to people who don't want to listen. Don't think you lighten your load by taking the tools out of the tool-bag and carrying them in your pocket. Don't attempt bicycle tricks before you can sit in the saddle. Don't think diamond frame wheels were designed for women. Don't think bloomers give a woman license to act like a man. Don't join a cycling club unless you want to, but it's a good scheme. Don't "ride down to business" unless you are properly dressed for it. Don't think you "won't be in it" if you don't have the latest make of wheel. Don't learn to ride on a new wheel. Rent an old one. Don't take off your back step to reduce an ounce of weight. Don't pull your belt too tight. Don't ride too soon after eating. Don't drink too much water on long rides. Don't attempt a century before you can ride around a block. Don't ride with your saddle so low that your knees pump up in front of your chin with every turn of the pedals. Don't claim that your wheel is the only good one on the market. There are others. Don't forget that wet tires puncture easier than dry ones. Don't think that the "pedal" mount is the only correct one. The "back step" mount is more graceful and does not rack the wheel as much. Don't buy all the things the dealer offers just because they are new. Make them prove their value. Don't ride on the pommel of your saddle. You won't get there any sooner. Don't try to run down pedestrians. Don't have too much confidence in the ability of the clouds to hide the moon. Don't expect to ride a bicycle and not have your nose sunburned. Don't think sweaters and bicycle suits were made to save laundry bills. Don't drink beer while on long rides. It makes the rides much longer. Don't ride so far from home that you can't get back. Don't sell your last year's wheel before you know where you can get a new one. Don't wear too blooming bloomers. Don't chew gum. It looks bad and doesn't make your wheel go any faster. The best is none too good. Use "Superior" sugar corn.

JAMES E. CAMPBELL

Ohio's democratic favorite son for the presidency was born in Middletown, O., July 7, 1848. His father was Dr. Andrew Campbell, whose parents were pioneers of revolutionary stock, mainly of Scotch ancestry and education beyond the usual attainments of their day. When approaching his majority, young Campbell began reading law and for a short time taught school. In 1863 he entered the United States naval service, became a master's mate, and took part in several engagements. In 1875 he was elected prosecuting attorney of Butler county, O., and held the office four years. From 1877 to 1879 he was a United States commissioner. In 1884 he was elected to congress as a democrat. In 1889 he defeated J. B. Foraker for governor of Ohio, but was defeated in 1891 by William McKinley, and in 1895 by Asa Bushnell. Ex-Gov. Campbell is one of the most popular men in Ohio, both in a political and social sense.
