The eyes of Ohio are just now and for this week will be turned toward Chillicothe, which city is celebrating its centennial. Postmaster General Wilson is to be the principal orator of the occasion.

We trust the centennial of the "Ancient Metropolis" may be a huge success and that the little city may continue to forge ahead as she has in the past decade.

It seems like old times to find the name of the Hon. Adoniram Judson Warner, of Ohio, signed at the bottom of a silver circular. He was crying for silver with an exceeding bitter cry when the Hon. Silver Bill was still uneasy in his first coat with tails, and had a secret passion for licorice and corn cake.

THE POLITICIAN.

It is openly stated in Washington that the Populists demand the promise of two places in the cabinet and other patronage as the price of the support of Bryan and Sewall by the Populist convention which will be held at St. Louis next week.

Although Mr. Cleveland is strongly opposed to the Populist ticket and platform of the Chicago convention, if he has his way there will be a good Democratic ticket put in the field, which is the very thing that the supporters of Bryan and Sewall are hoping for.

Mr. J. H. Turner, secretary of the Populist National Committee seems disposed to "rub it in" on the gold Democrats, if one may judge by the language he uses in a statement issued this week, urging Populists to endorse the Chicago ticket and platform.

with the Populists of his State. It cannot be successfully denied that the principles advocated by the Populist party have captured the Democratic party.

Secretary Herbert was the first member of the administration to authorize the statement that he would bolt the Chicago ticket and platform, although Assistant Secretary Hamlin, of the Treasury, who is known to have had a consultation with Mr. Cleveland since the Chicago convention met, gave out a statement one day ahead of Mr. Hobart, which was thought to have been prepared by Mr. Cleveland, and which says: "No political issue is involved in the coming election."

Mr. C. B. McDougal, a Kansas Democrat, at present in Washington, says: "There will undoubtedly be fusion between the Democrats and Populists in Kansas, but even with a combine Bryan has no sure thing; the odds, I think, are against him."

Representative Ansley, of Mass., who is vice chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign committee, returned this week from a visit to Gov. McKinley, in receipt of the most cheering intelligence every hour of the day, and from the volume and character of his advice is well satisfied as to what verdict the people will return in November.

The most accomplished of linguists was Mezzofanti. At the time of his death, he is said to have been familiar with 114 languages.

Auld Lang Syne. It singeth low in every heart. We hear it each and all—A song of those who answer not, However we may call.

'Tis hard to take the burden up, When these have laid it down; They brightened all the joy of life, They softened every frown.

More homelike seems the vast unknown, Since they have entered there; To follow them were not so hard, Wherever they may fare.

SPREAD OF SUPERSTITION.

Wedd Beliefs Are Rapidly Gaining Ground in Wales. Some say in Wales that if a mare's shoe is nailed to the lintel of the door, no witch can ever enter the house, and that if one of them happens to go into a neighbor's house a broom placed across the threshold by a member of the family will prevent her leaving.

The belief in these things is rapidly gaining ground nowadays, according to the author of Reminiscences in Cymru. It has already crossed the new bridge at Cilgwyn Mill, and has crept up from Carn Ingil, past Morfa, along the seashore as far as Llechydrydd.

HOW TO SETTLE IT.

Only One Way Out of the Silver Question, Says Congressman Warner. Ex-Congressman John De Witt Warner opposes ex-Congressman Richard P. Island in a discussion of the money question in the New York Journal of July 1.

"This proposed law to make people accept silver is not asked for by anybody who wants silver. It is just because people do not want silver and will not take it unless compelled to do so that our free silver friends want a law to make them take it."

"The most serious feature of the present situation is not so much the predicament in which we find ourselves as the apparent disposition in both parties not to take the only way out, which, if I may suggest it, is to accept the situation that the commerce of the world has created for itself."

"Personally I believe gold to be far superior to any other standard that is even remotely practicable, but if our commerce preferred silver I should consider it measureless impertinence on the part of congress to interfere with that preference."

POLICE MAN

He Carried Her Away from the Street Car.

The Boston Herald tells of a brave policeman, who is especially attentive to the wants of little women who want to cross the street.

The pleasant weather had brought out a crowd of shoppers and among them was a pretty little woman, who seemed to be in terror of moving across the street.

She stood on the corner and gazed at the passing throng, unmindful of the many admiring glances cast at her.

The second car was coming along under right of way, when the officer raised his hand and seized the little woman by the arm.

"There you're all right," he said, as she stepped up on the sidewalk and turned her face to him.

"Yes, I'm all right; but I ran out to take that first car. I didn't want to come over here. Now, will you please escort me across!"

Original Marriage Ceremony. A most original marriage ceremony took place in Harwich, England, a few days ago. The curate of the church received a visit from the bridegroom, who apologized for asking him to perform the ceremony instead of the vicar of the parish.

Gold for Teeth Fillings. It is not generally understood that there are scientific reasons for the employment of gold in filling teeth.

RANKS AND TITLES.

The oldest sons of the younger sons of peers take precedence over the oldest sons of baronets.

The eldest sons of dukes, marquises and earls are usually called by the second title of the father.

The lord high chancellor, if of the order of barons, takes rank immediately after the archbishop of Canterbury.

Marquises come next after the oldest sons of dukes, and are succeeded by the oldest sons of dukes not of the blood royal.

The comptroller of her majesty's household ranks next after the treasurer, and is succeeded by the master of the horse.

After the great court functionaries rank dukes of the blood royal; and after dukes the oldest sons of dukes of the blood royal.

The Order of Baronets was established by James I. in 1611. This title is found in no country of the continent, existing only in the British dominions.

The speaker of the house of commons, in state ceremonies, stands next to the barons, and is immediately followed by the commissioner of the great seal.

ODDITIES.

In London there are 40 restaurants in which only vegetable food is served.

At Greenwood Garden, Peak's Island, Me., there is a huge rattlesnake which has just completed an unbroken fast that lasted for a full year.

A 17-year-old boy in Lisbon, Me., named William Blackford, has already attained a height of 6 feet 8 1/2 inches, and is still growing.

The fact that White Sulphur Springs, Mont., is a splendid antidote for the tobacco habit, is attracting the attention of slaves of the weed.

The great-grandfather, grandfather and father and son, all working together digging a cellar, was a rather unusual family gathering in Eastport, Me., recently.

A monstrosity in the shape of a calf that had the head, tail and skin of a dog and the feet and teeth of its own kind has been stuffed and is now on exhibition in Invercargill, Australia.

A malicious man in Newkirk, O., poured kerosene on the tail of a neighbor's cat and set fire to it, thinking that the animal would rush madly to its home and cause a conflagration in the house of the disliked neighbor.

EATERS WITH A RECORD.

A Connecticut school boy ate 36 mince pies on a wager.

Anius Verus, a Roman noble, gave a supper one night to a dozen of his cronies that made a hole of $250,000 in his bank account.

Vitelius, the Roman emperor, once gave a dinner that cost over $200,000. Scutinous states that the guest had the choice of 2,000 dishes of fish and 7,000 of game and fowl.

Mr. Thomas Frazier, of Yonkers, once gave a dinner at the Hoffman house, New York, to 13 guests, the bill for which was $1,000, or at the rate of $77 per cover. Wines worth $20 a bottle were served on this occasion.

Caligula, the emperor, whose wickedness shocked the most brutal of his associates, built a bridge of boats three miles long, in the center of which he caused a banquet hall to be constructed.

Grimod de la Reyniere, who came of a banking family, was deprived in childhood of both hands, but that did not prevent him becoming an epicure and gourmet. At the age of 20 he was caught by his own father sitting down to seven roasted turkeys.

FOREIGN PERSONALS.

Stanley is regarded as a dismal parliamentary failure.

Bismarck is failing rapidly, though his mental faculties are unimpaired.

The late John Stetson recently remarked: "There are more men who are fools in Boston than there are men."

Prince Eugene, the youngest son of King Oscar II. of Sweden and Norway, is traveling under the name of Count Rosendal.

Taine's only daughter has married M. Dubois, son of the late director of the Beaux Arts. Though brought up as a Protestant, Mlle. Taine was married in a Roman Catholic church.

Kaiser Wilhelm stopped at Frankfurt for a few hours for the celebration of the anniversary of the treaty of peace, and within three days there were 40 arrests for lese majesty in the town.
