INSPECTION SYSTEM.

President of the Letter Carriers' Association Reads a Paper in Opposition to the Espionage System.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 8.—At the afternoon session of the National Letter Carriers' association, President Quinn read his annual address. One feature of the address related to the "Inspection" system. He said: "While we invite inspection and investigation, the system and the results it brought to its victim by creating a new force of carriers known as helpers, paying them at the rate of 41 cents per two hours' work per day, is one of the evils resulting from the system. The secretary and myself visited the postmaster-general with a carefully prepared statement of our grievances and requesting him to have this obnoxious system abolished. Since then while I am not positive that it has been entirely abolished, it is certain that there have been no more wholesale discharges."

Following the address adjournment was taken till Wednesday.
