IT IS OVER.

The Miners' Strike at Leadville, Col., About Ended.

The Men Decide to Return to Work at the Old Schedule Prices

Provided Mine Owners Would Agree to Give Them Their Old Places—Outside of One or Two Mines the Old Men Will Be Taken Back.

LEADVILLE, Col., Sept. 28.—The great miners' strike which has kept Leadville in a turmoil for nearly two months and which resulted in the killing of five men last Monday morning and the subsequent placing of the city under martial law, is ended. A meeting of the strikers was held Saturday night under the supervision of the militia, and after a stormy session it was finally decided that the men return to work at the old schedule prices, providing the mine owners would agree to give them their old places. A committee of five was appointed to confer with the mine owners, and as it is generally believed that outside of the one or two mines that have started up with non-union men, the old men will be taken back, no further trouble is expected.

The strike was the outcome of the organization of the miners by the Western Federation of Miners, and almost every mine worker was in the union when their demands were made and refused.

The miners asked $3 a day for all classes of workmen, including surface and underground men. This the owners declared they would not pay, and nearly all of them closed down, several even allowing the pumps to stop. The employers remained willing to continue paying the wages which had prevailed up to that time. Under that scale surface workers were paid only $2.50. Practically the only change the union demanded was the advance of the wages of this class of men to $3.

LEADVILLE, Col., Sept. 28.—Lieut. Verdeckberg telephoned from the Bonn Air mine at 9:40 that four shots were fired at a picket, who returned the fire and called for the corporal of the guard. When the corporal ran out two shots were fired at him, and they were returned, after which a squad started in pursuit of the assailants.

THE HEAD FOUND.

A Clue to the Mysterious Murder Near Elizabeth, Pa.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 28.—On September 19, the vicinity of Wylie station, near Elizabeth, Pa., was thrown into great excitement by the finding in the Monongahela river of the headless body of a man who had evidently been murdered. A reward offered by the county commissioners stimulated research and many parties have been scouring the country to find the dead man's head or clothing. Sunday afternoon the bloody garments were found among some weeds and bushes near the river and a small mound proved to be the burial place of the head, which is well preserved and is that of a man 45 or 50 years old, well formed, with gray eyes, dark hair and sandy chin whiskers, slightly mixed with gray. No one has been able to identify the victim of the crime, but it is thought a Pittsburgh tailor's label on his coat will lead to a clue.

THE KHEDIVE

Scheming for the Independence of Egypt—England Uneasy.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—The Times Monday publishes a dispatch from Cairo, saying it is currently stated in native circles that the khedive, who recently started on a tour of Europe, where he traveled incognito, took with him a draft of a scheme for the independence of Egypt. The draft was drawn at the khedive's own direction by native officials. It is added that the khedive, while in Paris, had an interview with M. Hanotaux, the French minister of foreign affairs.

The Times, in commenting on the dispatch, declares that there is foundation for the statements contained therein and that it causes disquiet. It adds that evidence exists of underhand attempts being made to thwart the British reform in Egypt and that these attempts will cause trouble unless they are checked.

The khedive sailed from Trieste for Egypt on Friday last.
