

CRISP DEAD.

The Ex-Speaker Passes Away in a Private Sanitarium.

His Ailment Took its Origin in the Excitement Arising

Out of His Joint Debate With Secretary Hoke Smith Last Summer—Mr. Crisp Was One of the Best Liked Men in Congress, by Friend or Foe.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 23.—Charles F. Crisp, ex-speaker of the house of representatives, died here Friday at 2 p. m. from heart disease. He probably would have been the next United States senator from this state had he lived.

EX-SPEAKER CRISP.

Ex-Speaker Charles F. Crisp had been at a private sanitarium here for 60 days.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The serious illness of ex-Speaker Crisp and the probability of its terminating fatally have been known to his intimate friends here for some time, but have only been spoken of confidentially. His ailment took its origin in the excitement arising out of his joint debate with Secretary Hoke Smith last summer when he was forced to withdraw from that debate for physical reasons, his friends persuaded him to enter a sanitarium for treatment. He was subject to heart disease. Reassuring reports as to recovered health have appeared from time to time, but they have been largely discounted by those fully informed as to facts.

Mr. Crisp was one of the best liked men in congress. He commanded the respect of friends and opponents by his abilities and his generally unflinching judicial fairness, which was broken up only once or twice during the bitter controversy with Speaker Reed over the Reed rules.

He was born in Sheffield, Eng., where his parents had gone on a visit in 1845, and this fact took him out of the category of vice presidential possibilities when some years ago his name was suggested for that office. He was brought to the United States before he was a year old, was educated in Savannah and Macon, Ga., served in the confederate army, and was made prisoner, admitted to the bar in 1860, became successively, state solicitor general, judge, congressman and speaker of the house of representatives, in the 53d and 53d congresses. His congressional career in the lower house extended over 14 years and he was the choice of his party for the United States senate when he died.

TERRIBLE PLUNGE.

A Militiaman Falls Headlong From a Flag Staff.

MANASQUAN, N. J., Oct. 23.—Bowditch Pearce lost his life at the state military camp at Sea Girt. In front of headquarters at the camp there is a tall flagstaff with a topmast. The balliards of the big flag had become twisted, and it was gradually whipping itself to shreds in the strong winds. If the flag was to be saved some one had to go up after it, and Pearce, a painter, accustomed to dizzy heights, volunteered.

He made the ascent of the pole without mishap. He was busily engaged in endeavoring to untangle the flag, clinging to the staff meanwhile with one arm, when his hold gave way and he dropped, whirling over and over, to the ground. The pole is more than 100 feet high, and Pearce was instantly killed when he struck the ground. He was one of the members of the common council of the borough of Manasquan.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Henry Forbes, chief clerk to Manager Howe, of the Palmer house, was found dead Friday morning in a room at the LaVita hotel, Chicago and Dearborn avenues. The gas was turned on, and letters to his wife and daughters showed that death was intentional. Despondency and temporary insanity are the causes assigned for the deed.

OUR GRAIN.

Once More Foreign Countries Seem to Be Hungry For It.

A Striking Similarity to What Foreign Trade Was in 1879.

There is a Pressing Demand for Shippers and Every Vessel Reaching Our Ports Finds a Cargo—Many Vessels Chartered for the Winter and Spring.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 23.—The Manufacturers Record of this week in reviewing business conditions says:

The condition of our foreign trade at present is strikingly similar to what it was in the summer and fall of 1879. Prior to that year the average exports of wheat, flour included, for some years had been about 65,000,000 bushels a year, rising in 1878 to 92,000,000 bushels. But about this time the European grain harvests were almost unprecedentedly short and for several years we had a phenomenal foreign demand for wheat and corn. In 1879 the exports of wheat and corn advanced to 147,000,000 bushels; in 1880 to 189,754,000 bushels, and in 1881 to 189,300,000 bushels. Under this enormous European buying prices rose from $1.06, the average export value in 1879, to $1.24 in 1880, $1.11 in 1881, and $1.19 in 1882.

But for this unprecedented European demand, that no one foresaw the enormous wheat crops of those years would inevitably have brought extremely low prices.

Making a comparison by five-year periods the value of the wheat and flour exports for five years ended June 30, 1882, was $806,872,462 against $817,599,000 for the preceding five years, a gain of over $469,000. The increased value of corn exports for the same period was about $200,000,000, making a total gain in grain exports in five years of $669,000,000 over the preceding five years. This enormous increase in foreign exports completely changed all business conditions, burdened our seaports with vessels and resulted in great and unforeseen importations of gold.

Once more the world seems to be hungry for our grain. A short supply in Europe and India has brought about an active demand for wheat and corn. Not many months ago foreign ship owners were unable to find employment for their boats and hundreds of "ocean tramps" were lying in British harbors. Now there is a pressing demand for shippers and every vessel that can reach our ports finds a cargo. Charters have been made for vessels covering the entire winter and some cases late into the spring. At Baltimore alone over one hundred steamers have been chartered in advance of arrival to load grain. This alone represents fully 15,000,000 bushels of grain, for which room has been engaged at this port. At every other port on the Atlantic and gulf coast the same thing is going on and the aggregate engagements already made foot up over 50,000,000 bushels. On the Pacific coast the charters have been proportionately heavy. Offers are being considered for shipment from Atlantic ports to India and one charter is pending, if not already closed, for a steamer to load oats at New York for Calcutta. The immense grain exports of 1879 helped to give us the boom of that year and it may possibly be that the wonderful activity now seen in our exports will mark the beginning of a general revival in trade and a general rise in prices, just as was the case in 1879 and 1880.

When his body was recovered it was burned to a crisp.

ARMENIAN REFUGEES

Seeking an Asylum in the United States—Miss Willard Issues a Statement.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Miss Frances E. Willard has issued a statement regarding the Armenian refugees which have been sent by Lady Somerset from Marseilles to New York, some of whom have been refused admission to the United States by the immigration officers.

In response to a cable dispatch sent to the United States Friday Miss Willard was informed that it was necessary that the refugees have a specific sum of money as a prerequisite to their admission into the country, and that security against emigrants becoming public charges was accepted in special cases.

Miss Willard therefore cabled to members of the Women's Christian Temperance union living adjacent to New York, asking them to provide homes for from 25 to 30 Armenians until they found work. She received replies promising places for 120. She therefore believed that the Armenians were secure of a safe landing. They specially sought to be sent to America, saying that the missionaries had always told them that it was the Lord's home for the oppressed. Miss Willard concludes by saying that she can not find words to express the anxiety she feels lest the refugees be not admitted to her dear native land.

HON. JOHN G. CARLISLE,

Secretary of the United States Treasury, Mistreated in His Native City.

COVINGTON, Ky., Oct. 23.—The Hon. John G. Carlisle, secretary of the treasury of the United States, addressed the citizens of Covington at Old Fellows' hall on the financial question and was hissed and so frequently interrupted by yells for Bryan that at times it looked like he would have to leave the stage.

Not only was he hissed and called a traitor during his speech, but, as he walked to the front of the platform he was met with a volley of rotten eggs and oaths, which completely blocked the progress of the programme for fully a minute.

The little hall in which he spoke will under no circumstances accommodate more than 800 to 950 people, and was Thursday night crowded to its utmost capacity with apparently respectable people, but there were enough disturbers in the audience to create such noise and disturbance as to almost break up the meeting.

Frank P. Helm, who is entertaining Mr. Carlisle, said to a reporter Friday morning that one of the stale eggs thrown barely missed Mayor Rhinock's nose, while the ladies' bonnets on the first row were decorated with the silver and gold splatters.

THE STEAMER LEATHERS,

Loaded With Cotton and Cotton Seeds Sinks in the Mississippi.

NATCHEZ, Miss., Oct. 23.—The steamer T. P. Leathers, loaded with 1,700 bales of cotton, 9,000 sacks of cotton seed and a lot of cotton seed oil, sprung a leak and sank three miles above here. The boat was run against the bank at Palo Alto point and lies in 13 feet of water. Tugs rescued the passengers and brought them to Natchez. The cause of the trouble, according to Capt. Leathers, was that the steamer's decking opened up near the hull and left in the water faster than the pumps could handle it. From present indications the boat will be a total loss but most of the cargo will be saved. The Leathers was valued at $60,000.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE

Will Enjoin the Printing of the Australian Ballot.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23.—Chairman W. W. Durban and Secretary W. A. Taylor, of the democratic state committee, notified B. F. Taylor, the state supervisor of elections, Thursday night that they proposed to enjoin the printing of the Australian ballot as he had certified it to the county boards in every county in the state, and that the probable result of this would be that the ballots could not be printed in time after the courts had passed on the matter and the whole election, both state and national, in Ohio, would be prevented.

The trouble grows out of the refusal of the state supervisor to recall the ballot form and take off the name of W. F. Barr, the sole populist candidate for elector, who resigned from the ticket Thursday. The supervisor holds that the matter has passed beyond his control, and that in many of the counties the ballots have been printed. He also ruled that the ballot could not be recalled to substitute a name for that of W. K. Miller, a cousin of Maj. McKinley, republican candidate for elector, who is dying of paralysis. He holds that the substitution must be made by the use of pasters. There is no provision for removing a name, even by pastor, where no name is to be substituted. Barr refused to withdraw from the ticket, having been nominated before the fusion agreement was reached until his resignation was demanded Thursday by the state committees on both the democratic and populist parties.

COTELL'S CASE.

Argument Heard Before the Ohio Supreme Court.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23.—The motion for leave to file a petition in error in the case of Murderer Romulus Cotell was argued in the supreme court Friday. Attorneys Musser, Wannamaker, Voris, Sadler and C. A. Baird were present. Sadler spoke for the state and Baird for Cotell. Judge Williams interrupted Baird with a statement that the same question was raised in the Kelech case, in which a new trial was granted, and he wanted to know if there were additional points. Baird then presented some minor points and the hearing was brought to a close.

Soon afterward the court sent for the attorneys and heard further statements in private. It was generally thought that the motion would be allowed for a new trial.

BATTLE IN A CAR.

Officers Surround Freight Car Thieves and One is Fatally Shot.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 23.—A pitched battle took place early Friday morning between a squad of railroad detectives and freight car thieves at Collinwood, a suburb. A fusillade of shots were exchanged and Michal Ryan, one of the thieves, was fatally shot. The officers had watched the gang break open a car and enter. They then surrounded the car and demanded that the men inside surrender. This the robbers refused to do and began shooting, which was promptly responded to by a volley from the officers. The robbers, with the exception of Ryan, finally jumped from the car and ran. It is believed several of their number were wounded. Ryan, who was shot through the abdomen, was taken to the general hospital, where it is said he can not recover.
