CRUDE COAL OIL

Recommended as Fuel on Small Craft in the Navy.

Cylindrical Boilers Being Generally Replaced on War Vessels.

Argument in Favor of Building United States Ships in Classes—The Government Will Lose Nothing on Account of $200,000 in Bogus Warrants.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The gradual replacement on war vessels of the familiar cylindrical boiler by various forms of the water tube boiler constitutes the most important fact in marine engineering at this time, according to Engineer-in-Chief George W. Melville, who has just published his annual report to the secretary of the navy. For torpedo boats, he says the advantage of these boilers were so evident that they quickly displaced the old types and have now been used for several years exclusively for this kind of craft.

Touching liquid fuel with which many nations are experimenting as a substitute for coal the report gives an interesting history of those made in this country. Included in this list is the test made by the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. about ten years ago, which, while proving the practicability of using crude coal oil for fuel for boilers, demonstrated that the Pennsylvania railroad itself would consume more than one-third of the entire output of coal oil at that time if it were used for fuel instead of coal.

Nevertheless the balances of advantage are so greatly in favor of the liquid fuel for small craft that the bureau expresses the intention of making use of oil on its torpedo boats.

Commodore Melville makes a strong argument in favor of building our ships in future in classes, so as to secure the great advantages that follow the training of men for whole classes of ships instead of for one vessel, and also the ability to use duplicate parts of machinery. It is recommended that the machinery of ships laid up in reserve with skeleton crews be subjected every six months to a dock trial with full steam pressure to make sure they are ready for use at short notice.

The bureau has been making some inquiries as to the possibility of procuring large merchant ships in an emergency to serve as machine shops for fleets, and having secured a list of some suitable vessels, now submits an estimate of $25,000 for machine tools to be laid aside for fitting one of them out when needed.

The engineer-in-chief has a good deal to say in his report on the subject of personnel, and he insists that he is warranted in urging, after many years of careful observation and study, two things as necessary to the highest efficiency of the engineer corps: First, an increase of numbers of the corps from 195 officers of all grades to about 300, so divided as to the various grades as to give fair promotion. Second, the conferring of actual rank and titles (with the names of the corps attached), as is the case for the staff officers of the army.

Government officials are at a loss to know on whom will fall the loss by the $90,000 of bogus warrants on account of the Creek Indian payment which are now out. The government will not lose anything, but the money on all these warrants has been paid out in an intermediary way. Whether the Creek nation, which is said to have paid some of the money on the warrants, or outside parties, who are known to have cashed at least a part of them on a premium as brokers, or others will be the ones to stand the loss is not known. Secretary Bliss stated Tuesday that while there was about $90,000 of bogus warrants out for the Creek payment they had not been paid. Who holds the warrants can not be learned, he said, but the government would not lose a cent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Minister Woodford has cabled the state department the substance of Spain's reply to the last note of Secretary Sherman. The dispatch in cipher arrived early Wednesday morning. It is now being translated.

The reply, it is stated, is not at all satisfactory, being very indefinite. Spain declines to set any time for the ending of the Cuban troubles, and intimates that if American support of the patriots shall be withdrawn, she hopes, by the granting of autonomy and other reforms, to soon pacify the island.

Secretary Sherman called upon the president at 10:30 o'clock with so much of the cablegram as had been translated, but remained only a few minutes, returning to the state department. The president ordered him to draft an answer, in which, it is said, Spain will get it straight from the shoulder. This government will resent Spain's imputations of double dealing in not taking proper precautions to intercept filibustering expeditions to Cuba.
