A Real Dramatic Treat.

Those whose judgment prompted them to see "The Christian" last night were indeed wise in so doing, for the play is one of most intense interest, originally well conceived and told by the author, and worked out with beautiful finish by the playwright.

Not only has the playwright proved that he can be justly classed with great novelists, but the ladies and gentlemen composing the company here last night are people who do honor to both of them. Not only are the principal characters, "John Storm" and "Glory Quayle" ably taken by J. M. Colville and Miss Effie Ellsler, but the many other strong characters in the play fare just as well at the hands of those who carry them through. The company through and through, is a strong one and well balanced.

The scenery for the play was well in keeping with the story, there being four elaborate settings, each forming an appropriate background for its necessary contribution to the story.

The audience, which was a large one was enthusiastic from beginning to end and the principals were demanded to appear several times. It takes a good deal to get a Marietta audience to do more than simply take notice, but last night's performers certainly provoked and commanded an intense interest.

We trust that Manager Luchs realized well on his undertaking, so that he may be justified in bringing such a class of attractions.

Court News.

A case which occupied the attention of the Court for the greater part of the day Wednesday was that of Annie Keeps against John Wehrum. This suit is one of long standing in the courts here and this makes the second or third time it has been tried. The parties have been granted new trials on previous occasions, the defeated party each time feeling that his cause was just.

It grew out of the most trivial matter, the ownership of $4 worth of rails in a line fence and has caused no end of trouble.

The case was tried to a jury, who returned a verdict in favor of the defendant.

Several cases were set for trial during the day.

Five additional names were drawn from the jury wheel to fill up the panel of the petit jury. They were as follows: A. K. Ballard, Decatur; Adam Lorenz, Fourth Ward; Charles Decher, Salem; J. F. Treach, Warren; Harley D. Woodford, Watertown.

A Car's Strange Position.

An accident of a peculiar nature happened yesterday afternoon on Butler street, just west of Front.

A coach was standing on a C. & M. switch and the air brakes letting go the coach started down the grade. A freight car was standing on the main track, but was so near the switch that the coach struck its corner and gently tipped the wheels on one side of the trucks off the rail, leaving the freight car almost ready to topple over. If the latter had been done, Shaw's stand would have been dangerous quarters. The car was soon set aright by the yard crew.

Others Have Noticed It.

A stranger in the city, who attended the play last evening, said in reply to a question as to what he thought of Marietta's Auditorium, said it was a fine place, much better, in fact than was usually found in cities of this size. He said he didn't like to pick out flaws, but there was one thing that spoiled the effect of the first part of the overture. When the orchestra came in they entered at the side and in order to get into the box, climbed over the railing like a lot of school boys. Why isn't there a gate made in the railing?

Luthringer-Schlegel.

The marriage of Mr. Eugene B. Luthringer and Miss Mary C. Schlegel occurred in Parkersburg yesterday afternoon. The wedding festivities continued during the afternoon and evening, ending with a dance at Germania hall.

The groom was born and raised in this city and the bride is one of the most popular young German ladies of Parkersburg.

$1,000,000
Damages Claimed By a Parkersburg Inventor.

What suit ever filed in the United States Court was filed today in the U. S. Court for the northern district of Ohio at Toledo by Col. J. D. Wolverton and others of this city.

The suit is against the Whitman-Barnes Company, of Akron, O., and is brought by Perry D. Dye, of this city, and Will Holmes, of Huntington, W. Va., for a million dollars damages, claimed to have been sustained by an alleged infringement of a patent on a pipe and nut wrench owned by them.

Perry D. Dye is a blacksmith in Phillips Court alley, and a few years ago he obtained a patent on a wrench, an interest in which was afterward secured by Will Holmes, of Huntington. According to the bill of complaint Dye took his patent to the Whitman-Barnes Co. and tried to sell it to them. They kept the model for a few weeks and returned it to him, but did not purchase the patent. Recently, it is alleged, Dye discovered that the defendant company was making the wrenches and selling them all over the country.

An investigation was made which resulted in the suit and counsel for Mr. claim that it will not be difficult to prove that he has been damaged fully a million dollars.

The Whitman-Barnes Co. is a large machine making concern with factories at Akron and branches at Chicago, New York, San Francisco and St. Louis, also in Canada, London and Paris. It is alleged in the bill that the wrench they are selling is an infringement of the Dye patent and that while there is stamped on their tools the date of a patent, the records of the patent office show that no patent for a wrench of any kind was granted on that date. The bill alleges, therefore, that they have no patent and that their wrench is an infringement.

Col. Wolverton, who is chief counsel for Dye and Holmes, spent several weeks in the west recently looking up evidence in the case, and other attorneys who are associated with him in the case, are now away looking up more evidence.—Sentinel.

Ohio Boy's Advancement.

The following extract from the Mansfield Daily Shield concerning Francis Rea McMillen, will be of interest owing to the fact that the McMillen family were formerly residents of Marietta:

Otto Floersheim, the celebrated Berlin musical critic and correspondent of the New York Musical Courier, during the past week were Mrs. McMillen and her talented young son, Francis Rea McMillen, who is to be taken away from Mr. Markees and to be handed over for future education in violin playing to that master technician Caesar Thomson in Brussels.

The Independent Telephone Company.

J. H. Heed, of the Marietta Telephone Company, went to Byer, O., to superintend the shipment of a large number of poles. These poles should have been here ten days ago, and work on the lines has been delayed that much. Mr. Zahn, who is in charge of the work here, stated yesterday that they expected to have the system in this city in operation by July 1.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address P. J.
