VOTE ON MINE QUIZ

INVESTIGATION OF COLORADO AND MICHIGAN STRIKES IS AGREED UPON IN HOUSE.

FOIL DYNAMITE ATTEMPT

Authorities Discover Infernal Machine in Suitcase Near Power Plant of Calumet District Shaft—Troops Charge Mob.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Congressional investigation of the strikes in the Colorado coal mine and the Michigan copper mine fields was agreed upon by a vote of 149 to 17 Thursday.

Representative Keating of Colorado, who with Representative McDonald of Michigan led the fight for the inquiry, said after the caucus that progress at Denver and Pueblo, and possibly Trinidad, within a fortnight. The resolution to authorize the investigation will be urged for action in the house at the earliest possible moment.

The inquiry is proposed to ascertain whether there has been peonage, any obstruction to postal, immigration, naturalization and judiciary machinery, illegal agreements of combination for controlling the production, sale and transportation of products, whether arms and ammunition have been shipped into the strike territories and the causes of all these conditions.

Trinidad, Colo., Jan. 24.—State cavalrymen with drawn sabers charged a crowd of strikers defeating an attempt to march to San Rafael hospital, where "Mother" Mary Jones is under military arrest.

One of the strikers was cut by a saber, while one of the troopers suffered a broken rib when his horse fell. The troopers charged several times before the crowd, whose members threw bottles, stones and other things at them, was dispersed. Adjutant General Chase was in personal charge of the troops during the riot.

Nineteen persons, seven of whom were arrested, but four of the women were released later.

The riot followed a parade of wives and children of striking coal miners, which had been carefully planned by the union leaders. Permission to carry the parade through the streets was granted by General Chase with the understanding that no effort would be made to march to the hospital. Bernardo Verna is under arrest charged with being the leader of a crowd of strikers which attempted to break through a line of cavalry stationed near the postoffice.

A code message telephoned to the Ludlow tent colony was intercepted, the message asking the men to come to Trinidad last night for further continuation of the demonstration of the afternoon. Promptly the men were prevented from boarding the train at Ludlow station and they were ordered back to the colony.

Houghton, Jan. 24.—A suitcase found by Undersecretary Harris in a clump of underbrush near the power plant of the Ahmeek mine in Keweenaw county contained an infernal machine, according to reports received here. Attached to one end of a small board, according to the report, was a can partly filled with dynamite. On the other end was fastened an alarm clock and dry battery connected by wires with the can.

FIVE VACANT SEATS AS SOLONS GATHER

Death Has Taken Two Members of Lower Assembly.

TWO OTHERS HAVE RESIGNED

Final Vacancy in Senate, Greenlund Having Been Chosen Lieutenant Governor When Nichols Was Elected to High Court.

Special Columbus Correspondent.

Columbus, Ohio. THERE were five petanically vacant seats in the 80th general assembly being its special session Monday morning.

Another probably will be vacant within a few days. All were occupied only a year ago. Since the regular session began last January death has stalked among members of the house. In consequence the names of Lawrence F. Conway of Toledo and Peter J. Collins of Canton were unannounced when the roll of the house was called.

Conway died before the regular session last spring. Collins died just before the last election. It would require a special election to fill either place, but it was decided by the governor to leave the places unfilled until the election next fall, when new assemblies will be chosen.

Two Representatives Resign. Two other vacancies in the house are the results of resignations. A. Ross Read of Summit county was chosen postmaster of Akron a few months ago. He could not hold both public positions and he chose the more remunerative. Adam Frick of Scioto county was elected mayor of Portsmouth at the late election.

That's a mere legislative job to be taken up by Mr. Frick, who is presiding over the destinies of an Ohio city and his chair in the house will be vacant until the next election.

Then there is the case of Louis Capelle, the only Republican in the Hamilton county delegation, and the man who started the fair sex last winter with his bill to regulate feminine attire. Mr. Capelle has been appointed assistant prosecutor of Hamilton county. But he isn't the representative for the interests of all the people of Ohio merely because he happens to be an assistant prosecutor. He's going to serve both the people of Ohio and the people of Hamilton county, in fact, for he hasn't the slightest disposition to quit either public position.

Lawyers generally insist that he will have to, but by himself a lawyer, Mr. Capelle insists that his colleagues are all wrong. And his manner of getting out of a legal tangle is unique.

He will hold both jobs for one month he will give preference to one—the legislative one. During that time he will refuse to accept any salary as assistant prosecutor of his home county. In other words, during the time of the special session, he will sort of drop out of the political arena and resume it when the session shall be over. But the other lawyers point out that the tangle won't be thus easily unraveled. They say that a legislator is on duty just like a fireman and that he can't do anything else anything doing or not, and that if he won't do the Cincinnati man a bit of good legally to forsake the assistant prosecutorship during the special session. They insist he will be just as good as resigning after the special session as before.

If Capelle is forced to quit the legislature, the special session will see five instead of four vacant chairs in the house. The final vacancy is seen in the Hamilton county delegation, which was chosen by the voters. Hugh L. Neuman was elected to the supreme court. Greenlund was a senator last session. His place is unfilled and the senate has only 32 members against 33 a year since. Of course the legislature is restricted in the house and senate won't be affected by the vacancies. It will require 62 votes to pass a measure in the house just as if the legal number of 123 members were present, and in the senate no bill can pass without the consent of 17 senators.

Bills Assigned to Members. Following a conference of the Democratic house leaders and members with Gov. Cox, it was announced that the governor's bills had been assigned to the members of the house and senate members as follows: School reorganization bills, Representative Lowry of Henry county; anti-coal screen bill, Senator Green of Coshocton; revise 1914 appropriation bill, Representative Cowan of Putnam; initiative and referendum bill, Senator Weygant of Portage; bill amending bank laws, Representative Guthery of Marion; flood prevention bill, Representative Vonderheide of Montgomery; automobile license bill, Representative Warnes of Holmes; bill requiring payment of all department receipts into the state treasury, Senator Mooney of Anguize; bond exemption bill, Representative Mills of Cuyahoga county.

Senators Friedolin and Hopple of Cuyahoga will introduce, respectively, amendments necessary to correct errors in the Greenlund judiciary and juvenile laws enacted last winter. For Efficiency and Economy. The Ohio Institute for Public Efficiency, to have headquarters at Columbus has been organized by business and professional men of Columbus, Cleveland, Canton, Akron and Elyria. Rufus E. Miles, director of the Cincinnati municipal research bureau, will be the head of the institute. He will be known as the executive officer. The new organization is to be in the service of the state and cities in making surveys of departments of government with the idea of recommending efficiency and economy.

Decision Would Aid State. Between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 will find their way into the coffers of the state if the supreme court holds that companies which lease their railroad property to holding companies are liable for the Willis law tax of three-twentieths of 1 per cent of their capital stock. The court is asked to pass upon this question in an appeal filed by the state from a decision of the Cuyahoga county court of appeals holding that the state cannot collect Willis law taxes amounting to $85,000 from the Cleveland & Fitts road, whose property is under lease by the Pennsylvania company. The decision will determine the scope of the act. If the state wins large sums will be collected from other railroads. The tax is due annually.

Author of Auto Law Talks. But one word should be changed in amending the Warnes automobile license law, the status of which is now the subject of controversy in the courts, according to Representative Warnes of Holmes county, its author. It now provides that one-third of its receipts shall go into the road fund. Warnes would strike out "one-third" and insert "all," thus turning over all of the income of the statute to the cause of good roads. It is hard to understand how this one change would cure the alleged defect which the Franklin county court held made the law unconstitutional, which was that the law without power to impose a graduated tax on automobiles. Warnes said the amendment would be offered soon after the session opened.

Foraker's Attitude Worries. Republican organization leaders here are perceptibly worried over the uncertainty that is characterizing the former United States senator. They say they feel certain he will vie with Senator Theodore E. Burton for the senatorial nomination this year, and still he is settling them by withholding any definite announcement of his intentions. Meantime, the Foraker adherents insist that there is a real life issue in the making. To the observer at the capital it looks as if the Foraker matter is being sent over the state in his behalf, and some of his friends are authority for the statement that he will soon have an organized campaign bureau running full blast. Intimates of the Foraker political household say that the former senator is keenly hopeful of the situation and believes he can defeat Senator Burton at the primary. At the present moment it looks like a fight between these two for the Republican senatorial nomination. Word from Foraker's home city, Cincinnati, is that if he does enter the fight in earnest, he will make a whirlwind campaign from one end of the state to the other. Friends of Senator Burton insist that he will have the support of the Republican organizations in the primary fight, if there is to be any. He was promised this support, in fact, during his meeting here with the state central committee, it is reported. When the Republicans gather here for their annual banquet and caucus on Wednesday, Jan. 26, Senator Burton is almost certain to be on hand. It is doubtful, on the other hand, if former Senator Foraker will be one of the guests for he has been rather satirical about the amalgamation efforts of the party of Republican leaders and does not look kindly upon the peace negotiations.

Say Agitating Hurts. There's more than one way in which a rejected applicant for a saloon license can get even. He can stir up in temperance campaigns is one of the ways. Agitating is the other. Agitating hurts, from the wet standpoint, just for the simple reason that the liberal interests want the wet. The dry situation to remain quiet until the license system shall have been given a test. Being naturally plucked, the rejected saloon man agitates. One of his favored methods is to begin circulating petitions to make the territory wet. Usually the drys blame the wets, and unending trouble ensues.

Safety Rules for Miners. A joint committee of 12, representing the operators and miners, will aid J. M. Roan, state mining safety commissioner, in preparing safety rules for regulation of Ohio mines. The operators and miners will have equal representation. What they recommend will be submitted after having been approved by those whom they represent. The object of these rules will be to reduce to the minimum danger of loss of life and property in the mines.

Gov. Cox Gets Medals. Let the ice cream be pure and genuine," is the slogan of a food department of the state agricultural commission, and the officers of the Ohio Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers have promised to fall into line. There is going to be rigid enforcement of pure food regulations against unscrupulous ice cream makers. The state food inspectors have found conditions in many ice cream factories, from the sanitary viewpoint, appalling.

Life Need Not Be Narrow. Our life is just as narrow as we let it be. If we live in a lonely country place miles from a railway, we can study the plants and animals about us until we come to understand something of the secrets of the universe. If our lot is in a great city, we have opportunities of studying human nature—seeing with our own eyes the development of characters as strange as ever novelist put into his books. Multitudes of men walked the same streets with Dickens without seeing a hundredth part of what he saw. It is not to be seen, that we lack, and this power may be, to a certain extent, cultivated by practice.—Exchange.

Daily Reminder. If you are a graduate from the School of Experience, take a post-graduate course if the chance offers.

Daily Thought. No great deed is done by flattery who ask for certainty.—George Elliot.

CASHER ARRESTED, SHORTAGE IN BANK

Former Employe With Poison in Pockets Is Held.

TALKS FREELY OF MOVEMENTS

Prisoner Says That His Trouble Was Caused by Signing Notes Jointly With Friends, According to Steuthe.

Cleveland.—With his pockets filled with bottled bearing poison labels Edward Morgan, sixty-two years old, former cashier of the First National bank at Jamestown, N. Y., was arrested here. Federal bank examiners claimed to have found a shortage of $14,500 in the bank cash reserve fund. Morgan is being held on a charge of being a fugitive from justice. Detectives found a loaded revolver and many more bottles, all marked as if containing poison, in the man's room at the Tabor hotel, E. 12th-st., when they searched it just before his arrest. Morgan was recognized by Detective Shibley, who saw him on the street. Shibley followed him to the hotel. Not feeling certain of the identification, Shibley telephoned police headquarters for assistance.

While the detective was telephoning Morgan left the hotel. He was followed by a friend of Shibley, who had been deputized to keep watch. Detectives Shibley and Wingle were waiting at the entrance of the hotel when Morgan returned.

"You are Mr. Morgan of Jamestown, are you not?" Shibley inquired. "Yes, I am, but just a moment," the man answered, reaching toward his overcoat pocket.

The two detectives each seized one of his arms. They searched Morgan's pockets and then found a half dozen or more bottles, each bearing the label of a poison. At police headquarters the detectives said Morgan talked freely of his movements since Dec. 18, when he left Jamestown. He came to Cleveland immediately after leaving that city. A telephone message to a brother-in-law at Warren, Pa., gave police a clue that he was here, but he could not be located.

After being seen on the street and recognized by a Jamestown man, Morgan, according to detectives, fled to Allegheny, leaving here Jan. 2. He allegedly met men who knew him and came back to Cleveland. He arrived here Jan. 17, and was arrested at the Tabor hotel which he asked for a room into which street lights shone, explaining he didn't like to be alone in the dark.

Morgan told the detectives, they said, that his trouble was caused by signing notes jointly with friends. He said he had been an employe of the bank 44 years, of which 30 years was spent as cashier.

"I am glad it is over," the detectives claim Morgan said after his arrest. "The strain has been awful. The continual dodging and the feeling that every man who looked at me was a police officer has worn out my nerves."

Returns 85 True Bills. Akron.—Eighty-five indictments against seventy-four persons were returned by the Summit county grand jury, when it reported after a two week session. Among those indicted were Arthur L. Yackee, Berberton constable, and George Burgarsky, Akron man, charged with blackmailing W. Sara A. Cross, charged with perjury committed while obtaining a marriage license; John Benisch, charged with shooting his wife with intent to kill, and Harry Freese, alleged to have been thrice married.

Two-sevens secret indictments were included in the report. Prosecutor Castle stated the grand jury did not hear any testimony relating to gambling, selling liquor without a license or the operation of bucket shops.

Woman Brutally Slain. Dayton.—Mrs. Nellie Bailey, 27 years of age, was the victim of one of the most brutal murders of recent years when her head was crushed almost to a pulp by a blunt instrument in a vacant lot within 150 feet of her home.

Wesley Jenkins, 32, colored, was arrested within two hours of the murder and the police have woven about him a chain of circumstantial evidence. The instrument with which the deed was committed has not been found.

Ohio Wheat Crop Booms. Columbus.—Though wheat is booming, corn prospects in Ohio are far below normal, the state agricultural commission announced in its December report. Figures show wheat is 101 per cent of normal, while corn in the crib is only 88 per cent of normal, in stock 83 per cent, and feeding corn 86 per cent.

Get Together 700 Men. Youngstown.—That 700 men attended in the Hotel Ohio here the "get together" banquet of Republicans and Progressives and heard addresses on the movement looking toward amalgamation of the parties by Senator Theodore E. Burton, Representative Frank Williams of Ada, and W. A. Prendergast, controller of New York, the man Theodore Roosevelt selected to place his name in nomination for the presidency at the Progressive national convention in Chicago in 1912.

Italians Stab Ticket Agent. East Liverpool.—Alfred Priest, Pennsylvania ticket agent at Wellsville, was stabbed upon by six Italians and stabbed twice in the back. His condition is serious.

Indicted on Mother's Word. Cincinnati.—Charles See, aged 18, was indicted on the charge of forgery by the grand jury in common pleas court. The youth's mother, Mrs. S. M. See, a dressmaker, is the prosecuting witness. Mrs. See alleges that her son-cashed checks mailed to her.

Millitamen Are Jailed. Youngstown.—On charges of having appropriated company property and irregular conduct at the Youngstown army, three members of Company H, Fifth regiment, U. S. G., are in the county jail. Quartermaster Sergeant William Franklin is facing the appropriation charge. He was brought to the city recently from Rochester, Pa., with two other militamen, John J. Smith and Joseph Rakoczy. The last two named are held on account of conduct at the army.

Who Is Your Master?

By REV. J. H. RALSTON

Secretary of Correspondence Department Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—No man can serve two masters.

Experience proves that every man who attempts to serve two masters, he can serve only one. Our thought must not be confined to choice between two masters only when there may be several. The point being that a man serves only one.

Man, as a rule, thinks he is his own master. He says: "I am the captain of my soul." He recalls without hesitation the words of the poet: "Man, know thyself, presume not God to scan, and he interprets these words to mean that a knowledge of God is not his first duty. In many cases he utterly ignores God and sees in himself possibilities of a perfect man, and strives to develop them by himself. A party of travelers in the Alps were starting out one morning to scale one of the highest peaks, and invited a young man to go with them, and on his declining, asked him if he did not intend to make the ascent. He replied: "Yes, I will make it, but I will make it by myself. I have a guide book, and have my own head." The party made the ascent and returned in safety. The next day the papers reported the finding of a dead body of a young man at the foot of a precipice with a guide book tightly clutched in his hand. Thus many imagine that they can go on without God.

Satan as Master. The teaching of the word of God is very clear that there is an intelligent, powerful, malicious personality in the universe opposed to God, and he is called Satan, or the devil. He is the god of this age, and he is given great power, and seems to be lifted above mankind to a position from which he exercises his power. His power is seen in individual lives, and in masses of men. The diabolism that is found in certain companies of human beings is almost beyond belief. The plot against the Jews of Russia charged with the ritual murder of the boy Yushinsky, which, according to George Kennan involved the Russian government itself, can only be accounted for on the proposition that some satanic mind planned it all. Demonic power was clearly taught in the scriptures, and in modern times has been clearly proven in China and other parts of the world by most conservative and discriminating students. Of some men it can be truly said, they are devils incarnate. It does not always operate in the most debased and fiendish manner, or men would resist him and fly from him. Many whose lives are fairly admirable are yet in the mastery of the evil one, but do not know it. Did not that certain men were the children of the devil? In the individual, the mastery of the devil is seen in his inability to control his appetite, his temper, and his actions.

God as Master. But may not God be master? Jesus Christ, who was God, claimed to be master, saying: "One is your master, even Christ." While there are few, comparatively, who acknowledge God as master, there are those who may claim to be masters of the world, but do not bow the knee of Baal. The disciple Thomas freely called Jesus Master, and the Holy spirit coupled the idea of the saving power of Jesus Christ with his mastery in the use of the term Lord Jesus. The mastery of God involves several things. First, definite, positive and purposeful surrender to God. When Saul of Tarsus by the gate of Damascus asked: "What shall I do, but do not know it." He did not realize that certain men were the children of the devil? In the individual, the mastery of the devil is seen in his inability to control his appetite, his temper, and his actions.

Yielding the mastery to God, secures supreme happiness. One of the master tricks of the devil is to make man believe that to serve himself is to secure happiness. The only fear of the master is the fear of God. The only God will be master. "There is a divinity that shapes our ends rough how we may."

How beautiful is candor. All faults may be forgiven of him who has perfect candor.—Walt Whitman.

There is an ideal abroad among moral people that they must make their neighbors good. One person I have to make good—myself. But my duty to my neighbor is much more nearly expressed by the saying—I have to make him happy—if I may.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

The perfect model makes the
