ODD BITS OF NEWS.

Jackson, Ky.—Arthur Roberts, serving a term in the Frankfort reformatory for man-slaughter, was released on his honor to make a trip here to testify in a case. As soon as he had finished his testimony he returned and was locked up.

Oberlin, O.—Oberlin students have passed a resolution condemning laws that prohibit students over 21 from voting while at college. The resolution was sent to the Governor and the Legislature.

Springfield, Mass.—The grandmothers of this town have formed a club for social service and pleasure. The chief requirement for membership is the status of grandmotherhood.

West Bend, Wis.—Great excitement was caused in church here recently when a mouse's nest was discovered in a woman's hat. The hat had been put away for the summer and the mouse had discovered how nice and soft the material of the headgear was and had settled down for the winter.

Brazil, Ind.—Firemen, wearying of playing of casino and checkers, have constructed a large loom in fire headquarters and are weaving shawls, table-covers and other articles.

Cambridge, Mass.—Although in the hub of the pie universe, several Harvard men have threatened to go on strike unless the amount of apple pie served at Memorial Hall is cut down.

SUFFRAGISTS THANKFUL.
State President calls upon them to show it.

Two states won for equal suffrage two black spots made white on the suffrage map, these are the achievements for which suffragists will give thanks this Thanksgiving Day, 1914. Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, President of the Ohio Association calls upon all believers to make a contribution on Thanksgiving Day in token of their gratitude for the victories of the year. She asks that "any old thing" be sent to her at the State headquarters in Warren, a bit of lace, a book, a piece of bric-a-brac, anything that can be turned into money.

And in counting the victories Mrs. Upton points out that though Ohio did not carry for suffrage it polled more votes in its favor than the combined population of the two states that did carry, taking in all the women and children too. Considering that less than $10,000 was spent by the State Association on its campaign, and that for this expenditure $4,740 affirmative votes were gained over 1912, one vote for every one eighth of a cent expended, the results are no so bad.

THE RURAL CHURCH

THE FARMERS THE CUSTODIANS OF THE NATION'S MORALITY.

Co-operation of Church, School and Press Essential to Community Building.

By Peter Radford Lecturer National Farmers' Union.

The church, the press and the school form a triple alliance of progress that guides the destiny of every community, state and nation. Without them civilization would wither and die and through their life may attain its greatest blessing, power and knowledge. The farmers of this nation are greatly indebted to this social triumvirate for their uplifting influence, and on behalf of the American plowman I want to thank those engaged in these high callings for their able and selfless service, and I shall offer to the press a series of articles on co-operation between these important influences and the farmers in the hope of increasing the efficiency of all by mutual understanding and organized effort. We will take up, first, the rural church.

The Farmers Are Great Church Builders.

The American farmer is the greatest church builder the world has ever known. He is the custodian of the nation's morality; upon his shoulders rests the "ark of the covenant" and he is more responsive to religious influences than any other class of citizenship. The farmers of this nation have built 23,000 churches at a cost of $750,000,000 and the annual contribution of the nation toward all church institutions approximates $200,000,000 per annum. The farmers of the United States build 23 churches per day. There are 29,000,000 rural church communicants of the farm, and 54 per cent of the total membership of all churches reside in the country.

The farm is the power-house of all progress and the birthplace of all that is noble. The Garden of Eden was in the country and the man who would get close to God must first get close to nature.

The Functions of a Rural Church.

If the rural churches today are going to render a service which this age demands, there must be co-operation between the religious, social and economic life of the community. While competition is the life of trade, it is death to the rural church and moral starvation to the community. Petty sectarianism is a scourge that blights the life, and the church preaches and the vitality of many communities. An over-churching community is a crime against religion, a serious handicap to society and a useless tax upon agriculture.

While denominations are essential and church pride commendable, the high teaching of universal Christianity must prevail if the rural church is to fulfill its mission to agriculture.

We frequently have three or four churches in a community which is not able to adequately support one. Small congregations attend services once a month and all fail to perform the religious functions of the community. The division of religious forces and the breaking into fragments of moral efforts is oftentimes little less than a calamity and defeats the very purpose they seek to promote.

The evils of too many churches can be minimized by co-operation. The social and economic life of a rural community are respective units and cannot be successfully divided by denominational lines, and the churches can only occupy this important field by co-operation and co-ordination.

The efficient country church will definitely serve its community by leading in all worthy efforts at community building, in uniting the people in all co-operative endeavors for the general welfare of the community and in arousing a real love for country life and loyalty to the country home and these results can only be successfully accomplished by the united effort of the press, the school, the church and organized farmers.

SIC TRANSIT GLORIA TANGO!

Last winter, in a period of rashness and inconceivable folly, we took a few dancing lessons. We learned the tango, the one-step and the hesitation, with all the dips, drags, grape-vines and lame duck thereunto appertaining and in such case made and provided. We thought we had farsightedly lashed to the rudder a Zeppelin. As we glided about the hall or ricocheted from divan to davenport, just missing the piano lamp in our mad flights through some of the parlor, we used to feel sorry for Mr. and Mrs. Castle. We were the dancing demon of the day. We were. But last night we happened to drop in on some friends, whose victrola, as we entered, was tearing off "By the Sea, By the Beautiful Sea." We shall forever hate that tune, for it is inextricably intermingled with the treat of our fondest conceit. We learned last night that we can't dance. No more than a rabbit, we can't dance. There was a young fellow in that parlor who had brought with him, from the city, a slew of new steps and motions and gestures and poses and by the time we got there he had taught the young ladies such delicately named as "the half and half," "the fox trot," "the silo slip" and "the Ford Flop," or some thing like that. Why, we didn't even know the holds any more. Everything we did was passed or Aimee prezemly. We were Major-general Dub. Last year if you didn't hesitate you needed some ground. The year if you hesitate you are lost and no reward offered.

Little "Curtisies" of Children.

A fashionable hostess recently gave a most delightful party for children. When awarding them prizes for their proficiency in various games she urged the recipients to make a list of "manners" which were common to all of them. It was a little lesson so kindly put that it met with an immediate response. And in these days, when we hear so much about "manners" it must often be felt that it is the disappearance of those "little curtisies," which were once unfailing among country children, that has largely brought about a change in rural as well as town "manners."

Criticized Gladstone.

Even Mr. Gladstone did not escape the criticism of being a demagogue in the wicked sense. On one occasion he confessed (at Oxford) that in his old age he had been driven to be an agitator, in order to counterwork the designs of Disraeli, and he made a confession "with pain and reluctance." Lord Shaftesbury took a very severe view of this demagoguery. "It is a new thing and a very serious thing to see a prime minister on the stump. Surely there is some little due to dignity of position. But to see him running round Greenwhich to Blackheath, to Woolwich, to New Cross, to every place where a barrel can be set up, is more like Punch than the premier." Nowadays we are rather proud of the energy of our great speech-makers, on whatever side they talk.

Sick Headache.

Sick headache is nearly always caused by disorder of the stomach. Correct them and the periodic attacks of sick headache will disappear. Mrs. John Bishop of Roseville, Ohio, writes: "About a year ago I was troubled with indigestion and had sick headache that lasted for two or three days at a time. I doctored and tried a number of remedies but nothing helped me until during one of those sick spells a friend advised me to take Chamberlain's Tablets. This medicine relieved me in a short time." ## TIME TO EXERCISE CAUTION

Strenuous Exertion of Any Kind is Not for Those Who Have Reached Middle Age.

The dancing craze has brought up once more the question of exercise for middle-aged people, and both sides have been taken with fervor. A professional strong man is quoted as saying that golf is too severe for men who come to it late, and recommending a week-end of complete rest rather than exercise for people of years who feel run down. Perhaps that is the safer side to take if one must generalize, but generalizations upon such a question are very difficult. Age is not properly to be measured in years, but in the actual condition of the individual; so great are the effects of heredity, habits, environment, etc., that a man of sixty and one of forty may be contemporaries. But certainly after middle life is reached it is the part of prudence to make sure that there are no weak spots before going in for a more active life. There is something in the saying that a man is as young as he feels, but one is apt at times to feel younger than he is, and in one of these paroxysms of youthfulness, such as the contagion of the tango may bring on, he can easily by indiscretion do himself an injury. No doubt those who stand most in need of caution are those who in youth have been noted for strength, agility and skill, and who have long led a sedentary life. They are apt to be impulsive and energetic; they have a pride in physical accomplishment and a high standard; who seems to them to be mere romp and play. Experience to you is never a predestined breakfast food. It is a nut to crack, and only good mental digestion will get away with it after you get to the meat. Everything that happens to you is a lesson. Its start and finish are the inexorable logic of applied or misapplied principle. That is where you do your figuring. Lightning calculators have been known to figure ahead. That is where the saying of looking before leaping comes from. It is the spiritual parallel of intricate calculus. Some people never were good at figures. Life keeps sweet because there never was anybody who did not like to try.

MAKES PRETTY EVEN MIXTURE

Problem Play and Mental Arithmetic in About Equal Quantities Met With in Life.

Life is an even mixture of problem play and mental arithmetic. The other fellow is a perplexing problem and sometimes a vexing one. It is astonishing that he does no better. He does nothing but make a mess of things. Experience to you is never a predestined breakfast food. It is a nut to crack, and only good mental digestion will get away with it after you get to the meat. Everything that happens to you is a lesson. Its start and finish are the inexorable logic of applied or misapplied principle. That is where you do your figuring. Lightning calculators have been known to figure ahead. ## White Men in Tropics.

The Caribbean tropics are a garden of delights for the rich man, and an El Dorado. In sugar, in cotton, in the produce, the world holds treasures today greater than the treasure shipped by the Spaniard through Panama the golden. The Caribbean tropics are good, indeed, to the man strong enough to be master. They are good, too, to their own poor, for they carry natives with no cold and rarely with famine; but for the poor white man from the north they are a hell. It is not due only to the risks of the crop. It is due to the social conditions that forbid the white man in the tropics from laboring with the natives. No white man can do it in the islands or in Central America, and keep his caste. Only in Panama, where an entirely artificial and unique condition has been made by the creator of the wonder of the isthmus can it be done. Julius Muller, in the Century Magazine.

Worth Knowing.

A wealthy Norwegian named Thorlunn Karlesfrie, with three ships and 60 men, founded a colony somewhere on the American coast in 1007, and here his son Snorro was born, the first white child born in America. Because of the trouble made by the Indians the colony was given up after three years, and little Snorro with the others went back to Europe. Spanish explorers were born in Florida, but the first English child was Virginia Dare, born in 1587, on Roanoke Island, now a part of North Carolina. Two children were born on the Mayflower and named Oceanus and Peregrine.

NO MORE MARRIAGE RISKS

Reformers of Today Certainly Are Throwing All Kinds of Safeguards Around the Ceremony.

Under the microscope of modern criticism marriage seems to be honey-combed with false ideas and tyrannous customs. So wrong is it that we almost doubt if any of our grandfathers could have been happy, and we sigh with relief when we consider that at last modern intellect is about to demolish the old-fashioned methods and build in their place a scheme of common-sense marriage in which no sorrow and regret can cloud the domestic hearth.

What a primitive, careless thing marriage has been hitherto. Just because a man and a woman have been attracted to one another they have rushed blindly into a lifelong partnership without any careful forethought or inquiry. But we see the end of all that nonsense. Already the new marriage—the careful, well-considered mating—has arrived. The first medically examined wedding has been celebrated in this country. Surely this will give a lead to the world.

In future the most careful consideration will be the medical certificate, and after that the certificate of temperament. No man and woman will enter the state of matrimony without the consent of the physician, and the testimony to their suitability to one another.

And then the financial certificate, the considered judgment of economic specialists as to ways and means. However physically sound and temperamental may be the man and woman, it is not until they are satisfied that their income be sufficient to insure a life of comfort according to their normal standards. Our marriage reformers are going to allow us to take no risks.—New York Telegram.

GERMANY GROWS IN WEALTH

Remarkable Showing Made in a Report Recently Ordered From Leading Financial.

Karl Helfferich, director of the Deutsche bank, has completed his report to the Kaiser's cabinet of the German man nation. It will be published a few weeks hence and will be sold for $30.

From the report sheets, says the New York Sun, it appears that Doctor Helfferich estimates the aggregate total wealth of Germany at $75,000,000,000,000, that of France is placed at $60,000,000,000,000, that of England from $57,000,000,000,000 to $65,000,000,000,000 and that of the United States at $124,000,000,000,000. The German per capita wealth is placed at $1,100, that of France, $1,425; England from $1,250 to $1,385, and the United States $1,260.

The annual income of the German people is placed at between $9,000,000,000 and $10,000,000,000, of which about one-sixth is used for public purposes. The amount used for private purposes could not be ascertained definitely, but is estimated approximately at $6,000,000,000.

From the deposits in German commercial and savings banks it is determined that the Germans save $1,000,000,000 a year. Adding the automatic increase in values to the estimates the annual increase in the aggregate wealth is $2,500,000,000.

The government has issued a map in colors which shows where aviators may and where they may not fly. They must not go within 12 to 15 miles of Metz or the surrounding fortresses. A 100-mile zone of no-fly is also declared, applies to all fortified places.

VIVID IMAGINATION.

We are doing a superior line of printing in our job department just now, and our sale bills are the talk of the county. Week before last we got out an order of bills for a farm north of town and they were so attractive and nifty that he couldn't begin to take care of the crowds that flocked to the sale. After getting the top price for every animal, implement and article on the bill, the auctioneer simply couldn't stop. The people just clamored for more. The farmer, in the hope of driving them away, put up his mother-in-law. She brought $100 on the hoof. Then he offered his mortgage for sale. A lifelong friendship between two old neighbors was shattered as each tried to outbid the other. It was finally knocked down to the richer man who was promptly knocked down by the poorer. He sold the weeds along the roadside. He sold a gold brick that he bought in Chicago during the World's Fair. He sold the ruts in the road in front of his place and then offered to sell the secret of where he had the sale bills printed. We cannot give the results as the returns are not in. They are bidding yet. That's the kind of sale bills we print. Give us a call.

A REGULAR SAHARA.

Durham, N. C.—The executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League of this state is preparing to introduce a bill into the next legislature which will make it a crime for any resident of the state to have any sort of liquor in his possession or in his home. It will be necessary to show that the citizen attempted to give away to his friends or to sell the liquor. The very fact that he has it in his possession or in his home will be sufficient to send him to the penitentiary. Therefore the new bill will be the most drastic ever offered for passage. The present prohibition law of North Carolina is extreme in its provision, but there is said to be more bootlegging in the state than in other dry states. It is in the hope of destroying this bootlegging and the keeping of blind tigers the Anti-Saloon will work hard for the passage of the new bill.
