

MYRON T. HERRICK

Governor Herrick in Fulton County— Serious Questions That Demand The Careful Consideration of American Citizens Presented by a Typical American.

At the invitation of the Fulton County Herrick Voters League, Ex-Governor Myron T. Herrick met Monday of this week in Fulton county meeting the citizens and speaking to groups of the people at Fayette, Archbold, Pettisville, Leidesdorf and Swanton and closing a strenuous day with an address at the court house in Wauseon Monday evening.

One thing that Mr. Herrick had very little to say about, was his own candidacy for nomination as candidate for U. S. Senator on the Republican ticket. Members of the Herrick Voters League had expected that Mr. Herrick's main purpose in coming into the county would be to present his claims upon the consideration of the voters, but Mr. Herrick left that for others to do, if they felt so disposed and devoted his time to presenting the various phases of some of the many serious questions now before the American people for solution.

Mr. Herrick noted through from Toledo Monday morning accompanied by his son, Mr. Parmalee Herrick and a secretary, Mr. Koppes. Escorted by members of the Herrick Voters League Mr. Herrick drove to Fayette, Archbold, Pettisville, Delta and Swanton speaking to groups that gathered in the various places, except in Archbold and Pettisville where he spent his time in meeting and conversing with as many as possible but did not attempt any speech making. Every where people seemed to be intensely interested in the subject of the war and unwilling to leave him stop talking. At Wauseon the Wauseon Band played several selections preceding the meeting at the court house. The court room was comfortably well filled with people when Mr. Herrick began speaking at about 8:30. His address was worthy of publication in full but unfortunately we are unable to do that in this issue, however we give herewith extracts from his address in the county Monday that seem to be of special importance at this time and in another column we print in full Mr. Herrick's remarks in regard to American Neutrality.

Of the many issues that press upon the minds and hearts of Americans today that of first importance is the determination of the attitude of the United States toward the rest of the world under the new conditions disclosed by the war in Europe. Shall we make our army and navy adequate to the protection of American interests, strong enough to uphold our country in that place of international power which circumstances are forcing upon us?

I have seen something of the terrible waste and destruction that war has brought in Europe and I would be loath indeed to see this nation at war. Yet in the last two years we have seen forces that we had thought were only guardians of internal order, navies which we had pictured as mere policemen of the world's highways and armies that we had imagined were only sentinels of the border, are now engaged in the greatest war of all time. However much we desire peace, yet in the midst of a world at war we cannot close our eyes to the fact that war may be forced upon us. We ought not to invite attack by being unready.

In domestic affairs as well as in foreign policy we have our serious problems. Every man who knows anything about the internal affairs of this country realizes that our present prosperity is based on the war in Europe, and that it has come not because of but in spite of the Underwood tariff law. That law, in the nine months it was in force before the war began, had started us on the sure road to industrial breakdown and financial disaster. But the war in Europe has made our chief competitors into our best customers for a time. We are selling war products to them at the rate of $300,000,000 a month, and the imports that normally come from Europe have been checked more effectively than any tariff could check them. The war is the explanation, and the only explanation, for such prosperity as we have.

The ending of the war will put our industrial capacity to a new test. When Lloyd George, the great English leader, was in France in the early months of the war, I learned from him that England and France, realizing that old processes of manufacture would not meet the demands of this war, had inaugurated a new policy for the increase of production, which he designated the "dilution process."

ACTIVE NEUTRALITY

The Real Meaning of Neutrality Not To Profit From the Loss and Suffering of Nations, But To Act The Part Of The Good Samaritan Toward The Sick, Wounded and Needy.

By Myron T. Herrick.

It is not only the soldiers at the front, fighting and dying for country, on whom the hardships of war bear with cruel weight. It is a glorious and conspicuous thing to die for one's country; it is more difficult to live for one's country as the women, the old men, and even the children of Europe are doing. They endure in silence the privations, the shortage of food and clothing, the hard labor in factory and field, sometimes even the loss of homes which are the inevitable accompaniment of the struggle. They suffer all that supreme horror of war, the loss of loved ones killed in battle. There is scarcely a home in Europe that is not bereft of its loved ones. It is a village without its crippled men to be constant reminders of the human sacrifice of these terrible years; not a person who will not bear through life the unseen scars that grief has marked on mind and heart during the Great War.

There is a little enough that we of America can do. We cannot heal the broken hearts nor fill the empty homes. But so far as gifts in money or supplies are concerned, we are in a position to do more than we have done. We are in a position to do more than we have done. We are in a position to do more than we have done. We are in a position to do more than we have done.

NOVEL CAMPAIGNING.

Stephen A. Stillwell of Warren County, who is a candidate for Republican nomination as Auditor of State, has adopted a novel way of bringing his appeal directly to the voters of the State.

He has a letter Ford with a top on which is lettered the announcement of his candidacy and on the inside a "Chester" music instrument said to be equal to a $20 piece of music. Mr. Stillwell struck Wauseon just before noon on Tuesday of this week and he will cover the hills through which he passes in the interests of his candidacy.

FROM CALIFORNIA

Sentiment of Californians Regarding Woodrow Wilson and His Administration, As Gathered by An Ohio Man—Recent History of Mexican Situation.

By C. J. Thompson, of Defiance, O.

I have spent four months in California getting acquainted with its climate, its people; their mode of business and lines of thought of late frequent letters have reached me from Ohio asking me to portray the sentiment of the State, as near as I can gauge it regarding Woodrow Wilson and his Mexican policies.

Californians are loyal to the American Republic. They, as well as Ohioans regard it the duty of every American to support the President in dealing with foreign nations, but they find it exceedingly difficult to stand by a man who, like Mr. Wilson, does not stand by himself; who "switchfully waits" on Monday and bluffs on Tuesday and backs down on Wednesday.

AT CAMP WILLIS

Fulton County Boys In The Ohio State Mobilization Camp Near Columbus—Glad To Hear From Home—Tired of Doing Nothing, But Well and Happy.

Letters from Sergeant Walter Figg of the First Ambulance Company to E. C. Campbell and to the Tribune bring the news that our Fulton County boys, members of the First Ambulance are well and happy, with certain qualifications. The members of the Wauseon Lodge Knights of Pythias had clubbed together and sent the boys a box of candy which was gratefully received and proved a delightful surprise to the boys who were, by their gift assured that they were not forgotten by their friends "back home."

Another gift that brought forth the sincere thanks was the "Good Old Fulton County Tribune" as Sergeant Figg stated. The boys speak in terms of highest praise in regard to the Army Y. M. C. A. at Camp Willis. Sergeant Figg writes, "The Y. M. C. A. is certainly doing a fine work here; some folks say that it is a fake, but I know better. The government wouldn't even fund them their light, they furnish their own power and light for their picture show."

"Lying around doing nothing" does not suit our boys they are "anxious to be up and doing." Since Col. Howard and one of his lieutenants were "turned down" by the physical examination last Wednesday the boys have been somewhat worried over the result of their own examinations. One misconception in regard to the First Ambulance Company which the boys would like to have corrected is that this company is attached to the Sixth Regiment; the fact is that the First Ambulance Company is unattached and is in no way connected with the Sixth Regiment.

Following is the list of Fulton County boys who are members of the First Ambulance Co.: Captain L. C. Cosgrove; First Sergeant, Fred Dimko; Sergeant Walter C. Figg; Sergeant G. H. Somers; Privates, 1st Class, Glen Spade, Paul Gibbons, Mike Figg, Geo. Thomas, Privates, Roscoe Marks, Paul Theobald, Otis Johnson, Carl Geringer, Ralph Goll and Paul Dennis.

Her Left Side Hurt. Mrs. Laura Beall, Plattsburg, Miss., writes: "Last April I got in bad. I had left my back aching and had symptoms of Bright's disease. I took Foley's Kidney Pills and feel all right now." They quickly relieve backache, rheumatism, aches and pains. Bladder troubles, too, are corrected by this remedy. Fink & Haumesser's.

Traveling Man's Experience. "In the summer of 1888 I have a very severe attack of cholera morbus. Two physicians worked over me from four a. m. to six p. m. without giving me any relief and then told me they did not expect me to live; that I had best telegraph for my family. Instead of doing so, I took a hotel porter fifty cents and told him to buy me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and take no substitutes. I took a double dose according to the directions and went to sleep after the second dose. At five o'clock the next morning I was called by my order and took a train for my next stopping point, well man but feeling rather shaky from the severity of the attack," writes H. W. Sentiment of Californians Regarding Woodrow Wilson and His Administration, As Gathered by An Ohio Man—Recent History of Mexican Situation.

By C. J. Thompson, of Defiance, O.

I have spent four months in California getting acquainted with its climate, its people; their mode of business and lines of thought of late frequent letters have reached me from Ohio asking me to portray the sentiment of the State, as near as I can gauge it regarding Woodrow Wilson and his Mexican policies.

Californians are loyal to the American Republic. They, as well as Ohioans regard it the duty of every American to support the President in dealing with foreign nations, but they find it exceedingly difficult to stand by a man who, like Mr. Wilson, does not stand by himself; who "switchfully waits" on Monday and bluffs on Tuesday and backs down on Wednesday.

The history of our dealings with Mexico during the last three years has been a record of blunder and backing up on the part of the national administration. The violation of international law by refusing to recognize Huerta, the unauthorized capture of Vera Cruz at loss of twenty of our brave boys, the withdrawal from Vera Cruz without obtaining what was demanded from Mexico, the refusal to protect the lives and property of Americans in Mexico, the direction to American citizens in Mexico to abandon their property and leave the country, the demand for a salute of twenty-one guns to our flag as an apology for arrest and incarceration of a party of our sailors, the shameful acquiescence in Mexico's refusal to either apologize or salute the belated recognition of Carranza as President de facto, the supplying of Villa with arms and munitions, the permission to Carranza to send his troops through our territory, the failure to demand adequate reparation for the massacre of Americans at the Los Mochis, the practical submission to invasion of our territory and the looting and arson and murder at Columbus, all make a record of shameful submission following loud-voiced bragadoes. When Bonaster Feraso nailed his foot coverings to a tree with the inscription: "Whoever these boots displace I will shoot," he tried to make good his threat. When Wilson refused, at the insolent demand of Carranza, to withdraw from Mexico the troops which had with the consent of Carranza, marched into Mexico to pursue the bandits and murderers who had invaded the United States, and followed this by calling upon the States for 100,000 troops to protect our border the country took heart of hope that at last we should have what we ought to have had years ago—adequate armed intervention in an armed occupation of the northern states of Mexico. Such intervention would not have been to acquire territory, but to protect American life and property and restore order. It would have been a benevolent intervention that would have been of benefit to all of the people of Mexico except the bandits. It might have been resulted to remain there but a few months and it might have taken years. Whether for a short or a long period, our occupation would have resulted in the restoration of the fields of Sonora and Chihuahua to cultivation, their industrial plants to production, their mines and railroads to activity and their people to prosperity.

When President Wilson announced that Carranza that he would not comply with the demand of the latter to withdraw our troops, but would, on the contrary, send more troops to join those already there, the people of the United States, without distinction of party, commended his action. And now comes the news that there is a

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE.

Last Saturday the resignation of Levi Hoy as U. S. Mail Carrier on Route No. 3 Wauseon, Ohio, took effect and the long term of service in this capacity of the oldest Rural Carrier in points of age and continuous service in the State of Ohio and possibly the oldest in the United States, same to an end. Mr. Hoy was one of the three first rural carriers in Ohio the other two resigned some years ago leaving Mr. Hoy the oldest carrier in point of continuous service, in the State. Mr. Hoy would have completed twenty years of continuous service had he remained in the government employ until next October. People who know what conditions of roads and weather have been here in Fulton county during the past twenty years and those who are acquainted with the daily duties, hindrances and perplexities of the rural mail carrier will agree that Mr. Hoy in the faithful performance of these duties through all the years has rendered to his county and to his fellow citizens a "distinguished service" and is entitled to the honor and appreciation accorded to those who render such service. Mr. Hoy will be 81 years of age at his next birthday and his long service in the Post Office Department is the more remarkable on account of his advanced years.

He has also a record of four years of service under arms in the Union Army during the Civil War and yet in spite of his years and the toil and hard service he has seen, he seems hale and hearty and good for ten or fifteen years more. Long may he live to enjoy in peace the fruits of his labors and the pleasant associations of family friends and comrades. Mr. John King will take the place made vacant by Mr. Hoy's resignation.
