KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS ENTERTAINMENT

Under the auspices of the Wauseon Lodge Knights of Pythias and for the benefit of the new Knights of Pythias Band, May Stewart and Company will give a strictly first class theatrical entertainment at the Princess Theatre on the evening of Wednesday October 25th. May Stewart is a first rate actress and is supported by a company of actors and actresses from New York who rank high in their profession. A double bill will be presented which includes "The Sculptor's Dream" a comedy by W. S. Gilbert the author of the world famous "Pinafore" and "Mikado," and four scenes from the Shakespearean play "Macbeth." This company comes to Wauseon under a strong guarantee and members of the local committee witness the performance at Jonesville, Michigan, Wednesday evening and found that it is first class in every particular.

The following press notices will indicate how this entertainment has been received in other places:

"May Stewart and Company in 'The Sculptor's Dream' pleased a large audience here. Best we have had and we have had the famous Ben Greet Players." Committee of Elks Lodge, Michigan.

"The silent attention of the audience during the pathetic scenes (from Macbeth) was decidedly complimentary to Miss Stewart and assured a capacity house on her next visit." Wichita, (Kans.) Daily Eagle.

"Miss Stewart came heralded with an Eastern reputation which she fully sustained by her excellent work." New Orleans Times Democrat.

JUDGE BERNARD BROUGH

It rarely happens that the presiding officer of a nominating convention is required to accept the candidacy that the convention is called upon to make by the delegates from the way that Judge Brough came to be elevated to the Common Pleas Bench.

The story is interesting because it shows the unexpected manner in which a career may be inaugurated. In the fall of 1906, Judge Brough, who is a candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals at the coming election, was judge of the Police Court in Toledo.

A vacancy on the Common Pleas Bench was to be filled, the nomination to be made by the delegates from the several counties (Lucas, Ottawa, Erie and Sandusky) which made up the District.

On the day of the convention, and just before it convened, the Judge was asked by the Committee to be the Chairman of the convention.

This he did not agree with his plans for the day, but feeling that he could not decline such an honor, he cancelled his other arrangements and proceeded to Toledo at Memorial Hall Annex.

As he walked over he considered the brief remark he should make in accepting the chairmanship, and decided that he should not be at all backward in advising the convention to the importance and responsibility of its task.

So he talked frankly and vigorously to the effect that he spoke of the high standing and ability of the men selected at previous conventions and showed the convention that thus the fight was half won in former years, before the conventions had adjourned.

In fact, he adjured the convention to well, to do as they should do, and who should command public confidence and who, when elected, would reflect credit upon the delegates who had nominated him.

When the balloting began a deadlock immediately resulted and the hours wore on until late in the afternoon without any signs of a break in force to either of the leading candidates.

Occasionally votes were cast for Judge Brough himself, but as several members of the Bar had been similarly complimented he did not take the matter seriously.

However, votes for Brough began to grow more frequently as the hour grew later, and as a nomination by that convention did not at all coincide with his plans for the future he decided that if a nomination seemed imminent he would address the convention and in a neat little speech withdraw his name.

Well, the time came; and the Judge, stepping to the front of the platform, said: "Gentlemen, before we proceed any further with this ballot I have a few words to say to the convention. Up to this time I have treated the votes which have been cast for me as purely complimentary and I have not desired—, but he has permitted to proceed no further. The convention yielded for five minutes, and Judge Brough finally threw up his hands and went and sat down.

He had done as to the judgment evinced by the nominating convention, for Judge Brough was elected—in 1912—so he is still serving on his second term. Adv.

Bradley KNIT WEAR

A Weather Beater and Stylish Too

-a Bradley

WHEN the North Wind comes sweeping down and covers everything with ice and snow, it's great to slip into a Bradley sweater and defy the elements.

That's when the warmth of the Bradley counts, and that's why you see Bradleys on so many rosy-cheeked men, women and children, at the hockey games, on the toboggan, on the street and everywhere.

Bradley Knitwear is more than warm and protective; it is distinctly in vogue, with that active, alert style swing that places it far above the common sweater. Bradley Knitwear shows every phase of fashion for all occasions; for work and play; knitted goods of silk, fibre silk and worsted for fashionable wear; light and heavy wool coats, sturdy jerseys for sport wear, plain coats for ordinary usage, both indoors and out. Then there are Bradley hoods, brushed sets, scarfs in endless array.

All Bradley Knitwear is strong on service. It stands the siege of severe wear with never a weakness. The more you wear a Bradley the better you like it.
