BACK TO THE CONSTITUTION

Congressman Martin B. Madden of Chicago Opens the Republican Presidential Campaign in Fulton County at Constitution Day Rally at the Court House Last Friday Evening.

All seats were filled and a number were accommodated with chairs brought in, at the Constitution Day and Republican Rally held under the auspices of the Wauseon Republican Club at the Court House last Friday evening. An orchestra composed of the Misses Florence Gingrich, Florence Bennett and Hazel Johnson with Horton Blair as violinist gave a number of orchestral selections that were much appreciated. The speaker of the evening, Hon. Martin B. Madden of Chicago, by some mistake detained at Archbold from train No. 16 and had to continue his journey to Wauseon by a Toledo & Indiana car.

This delayed the meeting to some extent but the music banished any feeling of restlessness on the part of the audience who waited patiently during the delay.

Judge Allen M. Barber acted as chairman of the meeting and in a short preliminary address called attention to the fact that the Republican campaign in the 88 counties of Ohio as well as in many other counties in many other states was being formerly opened on 133rd anniversary of the signing of the Constitution of the United States.

Judge Barber referred to the making of this, the greatest political instrument ever produced by man and of the relation which the Republican party has ever maintained toward it. He then introduced the speaker of the evening, Congressman Martin B. Madden who gave a B. S. address making clear the financial and commercial conditions that confront the government of the United States, showing how these conditions have been brought about by the present administration and giving reasons why the administration should be thrown into the hands of a Republican President and a Republican Congress that government by the Constitution and laws of the country may be restored and dictatorship banished. Mr. Madden has served in Congress for 19 years and his address demonstrated that he was in close touch with the conditions now existing and the needs of governmental affairs. In commenting upon the Wilson League of Nations Mr. Madden said in part: "The League of Nations would commit America's national honor to a body of men whose customs, language, standards of conduct and political habits are not in keeping with our own."

"America would have but one vote in the Council of the League and

RECALLING A FORMER WASHINGTON VISIT

Incredible as it may seem, it is nevertheless true that Governor Cox was an active participant in the deception by which the Democratic party won the 1916 election, and yet has the affrontery to ask the people of the United States to believe campaign representations now. On July 28, 1916, Cox was in Washington and was interviewed at his hotel by a reporter of the Washington Post, who quoted him as follows: "Ohio is not the only state where the people are shouting the praises of the President for having preserved peace in the United States. I have been in other states and everywhere I have found the same sentiment, that the country had been kept at peace with the whole world while our nations were engaged in the most terrible war in history and our honor has remained unscathed."

"The slogan, 'Keep us out of war' will be the most effective argument the Democrats can use in the campaign. I cannot see where the Republicans can get an issue. With peace, prosperity and preparation comprehending all the issues, wherein can the Republicans hope to do but vote men and money when ever so directed to do by the Council of the League."

"The ratification of the League without amendment would give the people of Europe power over the people of the United States and this power would be used for the promotion of European interests, regardless of its effect or its cost in blood and treasure to the American people."

"We have responsibilities of our own at home they should receive our first consideration. We have many problems of great moment demanding our attention, they should be our first care. We should not place upon the shoulders of the American people the calamities and burdens of the earth. The ratifications of the League of Nations without amendment would force us to do that."

"We live in the greatest land under the sun. We have enjoyed the blessings of liberty handed down to us by our forefathers and our people have shown their courage in defending that liberty on every battle field where the honor of the Nation was at stake. We should, under no circumstances, jeopardize the freedom of the United States and the 600,000,000 and yet Mr. Cox deliberately declared in 1916 that 'the prosperity that abounds everywhere is obvious refutation of every boasted protection.'"

The other statement by Mr. Cox that 'Americanism has been preempted by the President' was also a deception, for it was soon disclosed that internationalism and not Americanism was what Mr. Wilson and his party had preempted. Instead of standing for the interests of America first, President Wilson and his party urged that America make Governor Cox in his own campaign.

ANDREW J. O'BOYLE

The following clipping from a St. Louis Michigan paper will be of interest to those residents of Fulton County who remember Andrew J. O'Boyle who as a boy and young man lived at Tedrow, or Spring Hill as the place was known in earlier years. Andrew J. O'Boyle was born in Adrian, Mich., July 4th, 1852. At the age of 12 he went with his parents to live in Ohio, where he grew to young manhood, forming life habits of thrift and industry that have remained with him all his life. At the age of 24 he came to this community where he has since lived. In 1878 he was united in marriage with Miss Jennie Galliger, who has been his faithful companion through the years. Genial of personality, successful in business, square in his dealings with his fellow men he has made many friends who will greatly miss him.

For many years Brother O'Boyle has been a faithful member of the Methodist church whose every interest he sought to promote. He was a firm believer in experimental religion and often spoke of his own good positive testimonies that always personal salvation through faith. For a long time our church will miss his stimulating faith, and his pleasing personality that was always found on the side of right. Sad indeed is the thought that we must live and work without him, but the recollections of his good life bring comfort and his faithful following of our Lord inspires within us a hope that is an anchor of the soul. On the morning of the resurrection we will meet again and rejoice together over the perfect plan of salvation.

BASE BALL

Although the day was cold, about one hundred fans accompanied the Ball Team to Bryan Sunday, a special car was run over the T. & I. The game started off in good shape with Bohn and Edison as the batter for Wauseon and Clark and Brown for Bryan, neither side was able to score until the fourth inning when Bohn hit a short fly in the infield and was safe at first, he went to third on an over throw. Burgeon the next man up hit a single over short, Bohn scoring. The game stood 1 to 0 until the sixth inning when coupled with three hits and assisted by their umpire Bryan put over three runs. In the seventh with some more umpire help they scored one more run. Wauseon's chances were killed in the eighth inning by two men being called out at second by Bryan's umpire that were safe and again in the ninth after Philod hit to deep left the ball striking more than fifty feet inside the line Bryan's umpire never looked to see where the ball struck but simply said foul ball.

It can be said that the Wauseon Team were a real bunch of sports and their umpire was square on both sides. To lose a game when the umpire steals it is not really considered being beaten.

DID YOU SEE THE PONY?

Of course we mean the pony that is to be given to the boy or girl securing the most votes in the Richmond Pony Contest that is being put on by merchants of Wauseon and which closes October 2nd.

Well that pony was around to see us last Saturday all triggered out with a brand new saddle and bridle and just as cute as a pony can be, gentle as a kitten, 2 1/2 years old and just waiting to belong to some nice boy or girl. We just wished we could have that pony, but we can't and some boy or girl who lives in Wauseon or the country round about CAN. We told you all about how to get that pony in last week's Tribune and this week we want to urge you boys and girls to get busy. Here at the Tribune office we are just anxious to give out the votes that will help some boy or girl to get that pony. Remember, we give 3000 votes for every year's subscription of $1.50 that is paid in to us whether for back subscription or in advance or new subscription, and its at the same rate whatever the amount paid in on subscription, for instance $1.00 would entitle the payer to 2000 votes, 75 cents to 1500 votes and so on. At the stores mentioned in last week's Tribune they are just as anxious to give away those votes as we are. Look them up, urge your folks and your friends to trade with them and to subscribe for the Tribune.

HAPPY FAMILY REUNION

Last Sunday was a red letter day in the calendar for Mr. and Mrs. Oliver McLain. On the old home place where Mr. McLain settled forty years ago, children and grandchildren and relatives of both Mr. and Mrs. McLain to the number of seventy gathered to enjoy the day together. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Jacob McLain of Los Angeles, California, a son that has been away from the home folks for thirteen years, also Mr. Turnberg of Fremont, Ohio. That it was a happy day goes without saying.

TODAYS GEOGRAPHY

A feature which we believe will prove of live interest and great value as a source of authentic information has been added to the contents of the inside pages of the Tribune and appears in this week's issue for the first time. It consists of a series of articles under the general title "Today's Geography" or "Little Journeys to Places Figuring in World Events," prepared by the National Geographic Society of Washington D. C. for the Department of the Interior Bureau of Education.

The society named started the "Geographic News Bulletin" (for schools) in the fall of 1919. The U. S. Bureau of Education aware of the death of fresh material about transformed Europe, Asia and Africa and perceiving the opportunity of tying up the present adventures of peoples and places with their geographic story and history, but having no government funds available for printing arranged with the National Geographic Society to distribute without charge a weekly edition of this bulletin to teachers, 70,000 teachers were receiving the Bulletin before the close of the last school year and it is estimated that at least 100,000 teachers will be receiving and using the Bulletin this school year. An arrangement was made with the Western Newspaper Union whereby the contents of these Bulletins might be made available to pupils, parents and others through the newspapers. The Tribune has secured this feature and will be the one paper in Wauseon that will contain these articles. We commend them to every boy and girl as something that will add much to the pleasure and interest of their study of geography as well as add materially to their fund of information regarding the world and the people who live in it. Adults will also find these stories charmingly-written and of real value as sources of information.

This week's installment contains the following stories:

"Batum: Center of Crude Oil and Classic Story."

"What's In Some Geographic Names."

"Vera Cruz: Traversing a Continent in 75 Miles."

"Quecks: Ancient and Modern."

"Saghalien: A Long Time Political Perplexity."

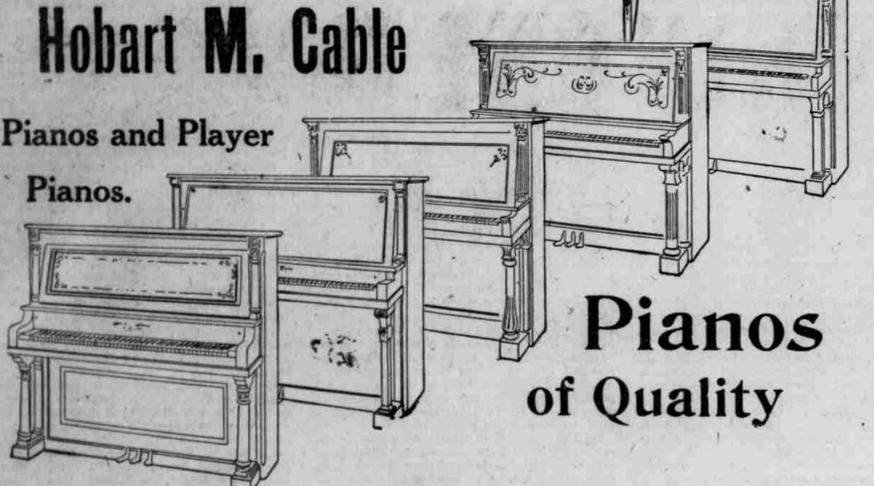

Turn the Tribune "inside out" this week and read these stories, we are quite sure you will continue to do so every week hereafter.
