WHAT FIVE $1 BILLS

Accomplished and Doctors Failed to Do.
This money was invested one dollar at a time in five bottles of Dr. David Kennedy's favorite Remedy. "I suffered for nearly ten years with Constipation, Jaundice and Biliousness, writes Mr. D. P. Brown of New Hampton, N. Y., and the best medical treatment I could procure did me no good. A friend of mine spoke about Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy which I bought, and when I had taken three bottles I was what most people would say a well man, for my bowels were regular, the fullness in my stomach gone, and I was growing hardy and strong, and when I had used two bottles more I was entirely cured. What the doctors cost me hundreds of dollars in trying to do Dr. Ken-nedey's Favorite Remedy did for five dollars.
Reader, if you are inclined to constipation don't neglect yourself, but secure this valuable remedy at once, for it was truly said by a great medical authority that "Constipation was the parent of all evil." Take Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy now, and save yourself a lot of sickness.

Grammar School.

Owing to the extraordinary attendance in the Grammar school, the Board found it necessary to employ an assistant for Miss Kate Wetzel, the Grammar principal. Miss Alta Witzler was employed, and hears all the recitations of the seventh grade, in a recitation room, although all of the seventh and eighth grades are seated in one room. There are nearly 80 pupils in the Grammar grades. The new arrangement works to perfection, and there will be a chance for very fine work in these grades. They never should have been put together, as they have been for many years, and now they are in their proper condition.

Points For Pension Purgers.
[New York Advertiser.]
Referring to the attitude of the people of the Southern States on the pension purging question, the point is frequently made that they direct all their hostile criticism against the Union war veterans and in so doing dwell with great persistence upon two propositions, viz.: that although the war closed in the spring of 1865, the number of pensioners borne upon the roll is greater than ever before, and secondly that they (the Southern people) are taxed to pay pensions to Union veterans who all live in the North, and that therefore the North has the benefit of the money so paid out and the South has not. And an examination of these propositions and the testimony bearing upon this case brings out some striking facts.

As, for instance, that it is not true that all the Union pensioners live outside the late Confederacy. On the contrary some $12,000,000 is paid to pensioners living in the Southern States, and as only about $6,000,000 of internal revenue taxes is collected in the South the sum thus paid is equal to twice the amount collected from our Southern friends as taxes into the National treasury. The amount of money paid as customs duties in the South is comparatively light; the poor people—those who are loyally referred to by the press and statesmen of that "section" as the "common people" or "middle classes"— pay almost nothing, since there are no duties to speak of on the common necessaries of life. The wealthy people of the South pay customs duties which foot up only a trifling sum on foreign luxuries.

The people of the South do not ask that the rolls upon which are borne the names of Mexican War pensioners shall be purged. The great majority of these pensioners lives in the Southern States, and these are today upward of 22,000 of such names on those rolls, notwithstanding the fact that the Mexican war closed about 48 years ago, and notwithstanding the further fact that our total force engaged in that war never exceeded 20,000 men. The army commanded by General Scott comprised 12,000 men at its best; that of General Taylor never went above 9,500, while Harney's was only 1,000 strong.

Our Southern friends do not complain because of the fact that, after nearly half a century has elapsed, the number of Mexican war pensioners exceeds the total number of soldiers engaged in that war, but they profess to see in the fact that there are nearly 1,000,000 of Union war pensioners evidence of gross dishonesty, by means of which "dead beats and bummers" are borne upon the rolls, notwithstanding the fact that nearly 3,000,000 of men were enlisted in the Union army, from first to last, during the war of the Rebellion.

And careful inquiry has brought to light another fact of great significance in this connection. Many of the late seceded States pay pensions in one shape or another to ex-Confederate soldiers whose health or circumstances make it necessary that they should have such relief, and the number of persons borne on what may be termed the Confederate pension rolls exceeds, according to Confederate figures, the total number of soldiers enrolled from first to last in the Confederate Army.

It would be more manly, in view of these facts, if the people of the South should cease all false pretenses in the premises and boldly avow the truth, namely, that they attack the Union pensioners because they hate them for having put down the slaveholders' rebellion.

A little boy of Mrs. McDonald's living near here, fell against a red hot stove and was fearfully burned. The pain was terrible and it was thought the burn was so severe as to cost the child for life.
I sold the lady a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm which after growing the sore she applied. It soon removed all the fire and eased the pain and in ten days the boy was well, no trace of the scar remaining. J. C. McLaren, Keyport,

The most practical lesson in favor of protection to American manufactures is found in the present commercial and financial condition of the country. It speaks most convincingly and abundantly in favor of protection to American manufactures.

The fear of tariff tinkering is one of the immediate causes of our troubles.
If the tariff is let alone all will be well, though no great profits can accrue at present rates.
The Central Iron and Steel Company of Brazil, Indiana, say: We do not think that the silver question has much to do with the present situation. We do not look for any material improvement until the party in power changes its views on the tariff.

While Neal was speaking at Newark, Ohio, a few days ago, the workmen of that city were busy circulating a petition to Congress asking that the McKinley law be left alone, not amended in any respect, or repealed under any circumstances. They said in this petition that they opposed and would vote against a tariff for revenue only or free trade. This petition was circulated among the Democratic officials of Licking County and prominent visitors at the meeting and residents in Newark, and signed by about 200 Democratic voters. A more glaring example of political inconsistency was never known.

The most practical lesson in favor of pro-
vincingly and abundantly in favor of pro-
