PROMINENT BUSINESS MEN

A. C. FULLER.

The readers of the JOURNAL are familiar with the above name and know that its possessor is one of Perryburg's most progressive and successful business men.

Mr. Fuller started in the dry goods business when very young and has made himself familiar with its every detail.

For the past thirty years he has been identified with the dry goods business in Perryburg as clerk and proprietor of his own store. Coming here when but a youth he became acquainted with the people of the community who early learned to respect him. He went to Toledo and held a responsible position in the Lion store for several years after which he came back to this place and purchased an interest in the dry goods store with A. Williams. This partnership continued until the death of Mr. Williams when Mr. Fuller became sole proprietor of the business.

Always an active worker his new duties as the head of a large business were taken up with care and an intention of making the dry goods business of Perryburg meet the wants of the large and prosperous community tributary to the village, and how well he has succeeded in gauging the needs of the people and how thoroughly his efforts are appreciated is evidenced by the fact that his clerks are always busy and his store is always enjoying a good trade.

It may be truly said of him that he is a self made man if commencing when young to carve out his own fortune, and rising by his own endeavor to a position of respect and influence in his own community is to be considered.

Mr. Fuller is a believer in the efficacy of printer's ink, and talks to the people in every issue of the JOURNAL, telling them what he has on his shelves for their benefit and use, and what he says in his advertisements he is always ready to make good when the customers come to buy. What he says about his stock is always proven true upon inspection. He is here to stay and he wants his trade to stay with him, therefore it is a well known fact that "if you see it in his ad. it's true."

In all that pertains to the advancement and best interests of the village, Mr. Fuller is ready to take a part, and has always been interested in the progress of the village.

Socially he is a member of several of the secret orders, and has been honored by being called to fill the highest offices in the gift of the Masonic and Odd Fellows Orders. He takes a deep interest in all clean athletic sports, and in musical circles he is a leader.

He has been called to fill several offices in the village, and at the last election he was elected a Member of the Board of Public Service.

Mr. Fuller has a charming family and his home life is ideal.

In every respect Mr. Fuller is certainly entitled to be classed as among the foremost of Perryburg's Prominent Business Men.

Senator Carbot Lodge who has been one of the hide-bound believers in no tinkering with the tariff is now converted to favor free hides.

If the inhabitants of the farm home are only as kindly affectionate as is all nature about them, there will be no need of asking how to keep the boys and girls on the farm.
