TO DIE ALONE

Is a Fate a Bachelor Wishes to Avoid.

Jerry City has a citizen, John Haloran by name, who admits that he is more than fifty years of age and the possessor of wealth to the extent of $30,000 and wants to get married for the sole purpose of having somebody weep when he dies.

"I don't want to be taken to the morgue," said he to a reporter the other day. "I don't want to be among strangers. I want a wife to sit at my bedside when I am sick, weep when I die and look after the funeral arrangements. I have few relatives—one niece and two nephews, but they don't want to be bothered. My sister died years ago. She had money, but died among strangers and I hear that when she was sick she was not treated well. I don't want to die that way."

Halaran has advertised for a wife and recently had 200 applicants to select from.—N. B. Beacon.

PRISONERS SENTENCED

Four Men Receive Their Reward for Being Dishonest.

Four prisoners who were arraigned in common pleas court Saturday morning pleaded guilty to their indictments and were sentenced.

Ed. Young, who pleaded guilty to burglarizing Curt Munn's granary and stealing clover seed, was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

Harvey Hill, his pal, and the man supposed to have some strange influence over Young, have their trial later.

Earl Russell, who also pleaded guilty to stealing brasses, but who tells a piteous tale and who appears to be young in crime, was sent to the Mansfield reformatory for an indeterminate term.

Seymour VanBuskirk, the champion chicken stealer, pleaded guilty to petit larceny, and was sentenced to thirty days in the Toledo work house.

They have all been taken to the places to which they were sentenced.

WOOD COUNTY NEWS

Happenings in and About the Court House.

Aurelius Schlappi, whose wife filed a petition for divorce a few days ago, has filed an answer and cross petition in which he admits some things and denies many more. He says he has the property his wife says he has but that he has about $4000 debts on it. He denies that he was cruel to his wife, or that his relations with other women were anything but proper, but says that his wife was cruel to him, and would not get his meals, and that because he had to do the housework and take care of the farm his health had been broken down; that she called him vile names and made his life miserable generally for him.

The Kokege vs. The National Wheel Co. case was to recover $175 damages for an injured hand. Kokege who was an employe of the company in Perrysburg, where it has a wheel factory, says that on December 20, 1904, while operating a rip saw, his right hand slipped and because the saw was not properly guarded was caught on the saw, and was torn and crushed. He made good with the jury and was given $157.60.

The Rudolph case was a tangle over some property owned by S. V. Carrick. Rudolph held notes and mortgage on the property which had not been paid and The Farmers' Savings Bank of Haskins, held notes from Maude A. Mercer which had been guaranteed by Carrick. The Carricks waived summons and confessed the debt and judgment was given accordingly.

MAUMEE PIONEERS

Lease Old Maumee Court House for Fifteen Years.

At the last meeting of the Maumee Valley Pioneer and Historical Association in Toledo, the old officers were re-elected, J. Kent Hamilton and R. D. Hollington made addresses.

It was announced during the meeting that the village council of Maumee was about to give a 15-year lease to the association of the old Lucas county court house and grounds at Maumee. The lease would in all probability be renewed as often as the association desired and was only conditional upon the repair and proper maintenance of the premises by the association. The association will probably try to so improve the old building as to make it a meeting place and the official home of the association.

The Ft. Meigs matter was discussed at length and seems but little nearer solution than before. It was announced that the owners of Ft. Meigs had reduced the price they hold the site at from $500 to $350 per acre, but as the latter figure is almost prohibitive the association has slight hopes of closing up the deal for the grounds very soon.

The Ionian male quartet furnished the music. About a hundred members were present.

THE HAND OF DEATH

Falls Suddenly Upon Fred Payne of Milton Center.

Fred Payne of Milton Center, was stricken with apoplexy on Monday afternoon and died immediately.

He was loading his household goods into a C., H. & D. car preparatory to moving to Michigan where he had purchased a farm and was about to make his home.

He was 49 years of age and leaves a wife and four children.

W. C. T. U. RECEPTION.

On Friday evening last, the ladies of the W. C. T. U. held a delightful social at the parlors of the M. E. church in this place, the occasion being a banquet served by the "blues" to the "yellows," and the new members in the W. C. T. U. contest in which the "yellows" were successful in securing the largest number of new members. The decorations were in charge of Mrs. Grace Mills and Mrs. Hufford and were very pleasing. A fine supper was served and the guests were given a most charming reception. The favors were white carnations furnished by Mrs. Brandt, mother of Mrs. C. A. Lucas, the president of the Union. A short address by Rev. N. B. C. Love was a very pleasing feature of the reception. The Journal returns thanks for being remembered.

Champion Liniment for Rheumatism.

Chas. Drake, a mail carrier at Chapinville, Conn., says: "Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the champion of all liniments. The past year I was troubled a great deal with rheumatism in my shoulder. After trying several cures the storekeeper here recommended this remedy and it completely cured me." There is no use of anyone suffering from that painful ailment when this liniment can be obtained for a small sum. One application gives prompt relief and its continued use for a short time will produce a permanent cure. For sale by Wm. Comstock & Son.

PEDIGREED CORN

Practical Corn Breeding from a Well Known Authority.

The Ohio Farmer of Feb. 24 contains a very comprehensive article upon the above subject. The author says in part:

The foundation upon which it is proposed that pedigree shall rest is the comparative yield of grain, protein, or fat made by a number of ears of corn in an ear-row test. An ear-row test consists of testing the relative productiveness of a number of ears of corn planted side by side, a row from each ear. Different ears from the same variety are found to differ widely in their ability to produce corn, just as different animals have different powers to beget excellent offspring. What is true of the animal kingdom is also true of the kingdom of plants. It should be remembered that the ear only represents the entire plant and thus the ears for breeding purposes should be selected from the standing corn. Select the ears that show the best results under ordinary circumstances. Medium-sized ears from crowded corn might produce better results than very large ears from isolated stalks.

Two or three months before planting time all ears which might be wanted for the test plot should be given an individual germination test, selecting five or six kernels from different portions of the ear for this purpose. Every ear is discarded from which all of the kernels do not sprout, promptly and vigorously.

Having selected the ears for the test, each ear is numbered, measured and weighed. Specialists also photograph each ear. After the test row is planted from, say two rows of kernels, the remainder of ear is saved for future use. The soil where the test is conducted, and the treatment given the plot must be uniform. Any variation should cross the rows rather than parallel them. There should be two rows from each ear, not side by side, but in two series. Thus if there were ten ears in the test there would be 20 test rows, and ear No. 1 would be in rows No. 1 and 11; No. 2 would be in rows No. 2 and 12, etc. Then as an additional check there should be a row from a single ear every so often—in a ten row test, say every fifth row.

In order to secure a uniform stand plant five kernels per hill, by hand; when the plants are eight to ten inches high thin to an average stand of 150 plants per row of 50 hills. Each row must be harvested separately. The yields are compared with those of the check rows between which it grew. If a certain ear exceeds all other rows and does this in both series, we may conclude that it possesses merit. Now since seed from this row would be mixed with many that were inferior, on account of being fertilized with their pollen, we go back and plant next year's plots from the original ears from which the best rows were planted. The plot should be isolated from other corn. In order to prevent in-breeding one ear remnant should be used as sire, planted every other row throughout the plot, one grain in a hill. All rows used as dams should be detasseled and no seed should be saved from any but detasseled stalks. Or if the farmer does not care to go to the trouble of crossing individual ears, the remnants of the best four ears, say, may be mixed and planted together. This latter class will not be pedigreed corn, strictly speaking, but will be much better than most corn, in that it descended from the best few ears from the ear row plot.

Remedy.

"I can heartily and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for affections of the throat and lungs," says Hon. John Shenick, 220 So. Peoria St., Chicago. "Two years ago during a political campaign, I caught cold after being overheated, which irritated my throat and I was finally compelled to stop, as I could not speak aloud. In my extremity a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found the next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day, kept right on talking through the campaign, and I thank this medicine that I won my seat in the Council." This Remedy is for sale by Wm. Comstock & Son.

THE X RAY USED

To Locate Bullet in Wm. P. Scott's Heel.

William P. Scott who was shot in the foot by one of the gang who shot the village Marshal last December, is now rejoicing over the removal of the bullet.

Mr. Scott submitted to the operation on Thursday morning last.

Drs. Rheinfrank located the bullet by the aid of the X ray and found it so thoroughly imbedded in the joint that it would have been exceedingly difficult to find it by any other method.

The operation was performed by Dr. W. H. Rheinfrank assisted by Dr. J. H. Rheinfrank, and Dr. H. J. Johnston of Haskins.

The bullet was perfectly flat and was removed with much difficulty.

The wound has been giving Mr. Scott much trouble during the past few weeks and he is much pleased to get rid of it.

The bullet was sealed up in a package and is now in possession of Prosecutor Ladd who will use it in the trial of Kirby and McGuire.

CONSCIENCE SMOTE HIM

Young Man Returned Watch Which He Had Found.

Because he had been converted, a young man residing in this county returned to the owner, Mrs. Tom Ordway, of Bowling Green, a gold watch she lost four years ago. He refused to give his name. The young man found the watch in the road near his home where it had been lost by Mrs. Ordway while driving, and after examining it and finding the owner's name engraved in the case, he scratched the name out and kept the timepiece, though he saw the advertisements and offers of a reward for the return of the watch, which was a gift from her husband.

Mrs. Ordway gave up hope of ever seeing the watch, which was not only valuable as a watch but as a present, when no answer came to her advertisement, and great was her surprise when the young man called at the Ordway home and gave her the watch with the request that she get it engraved again and let him pay the cost.

DEATH OF PIONEER LADY.

Mrs. Isaac Sutton, of Dunbridge, aged 66, and one of the pioneer residents of Wood county, died in her home in Dunbridge Friday evening at 11 p. m.

Mrs. Sutton had been a resident of Dunbridge for fifty years and had lived to see that section in the many transformations from a wilderness to its present condition. Like many other pioneer women of the county she had assisted greatly in this advancement. She was an enthusiastic member of the Methodist church.

Mrs. Sutton had been in unusually good health until about two weeks ago when she was stricken with paralysis.

She leaves besides a husband, three daughters, Mrs. Doty and Mrs. Shoemaker of Dunbridge and Mrs. Mitchell of Toledo.—Tribune.
