We could run a tailor shop and make all our goods here at home but we cannot do sufficient business to enable us to buy from first hands—THE MILLS

We have no labor market here from which to secure up-to-date cutters and tailors—

And we would always have on hand a lot of old styles, remnants from the previous season.

For the above and many other good reasons too numerous to mention, we take the measures and let Ed. V. Price & Co., The Chicago Merchant Tailors, do the rest.

Their facilities do not consist of a sewing machine bought on the installment plan, but a modern up-to-date plant equipped with every improved labor saving device for practical economy for the benefit of our customers—a thousand tailor shops in one.

Stylish up-to-date garments made expressly for you from reliable cloths—$20 to $35 per suit.

It will pay you to investigate.

Call and see fabrics Nos. 5220, 5262, 5280, 5297.

MAKING THINGS DO.

Willing Sacrifices People Will Make in Time of War.

Not the only heroes of war were those who bore the musket and sword. The women and children who stayed at home and kept up heart in spite of the privations of siege are to be numbered among the valiant. A glimpse of some of the southern domestic economies during the civil war is given by Miss M. J. Walsh in her personal recollections printed by the Mississippi Historical society:

Among the glorious achievements of that time the makeshifts at home deserve recognition, for they represent ingenuity and willing sacrifice. As various articles gave out substitutes were found. If no substitute could be invented for an article we simply did without.

Coffee, the southerners' daily beverage, was manufactured from parched corn, burnt corn bread, even burnt molasses. Sweet potatoes cut into small squares, dried, parched and ground were also used. The stimulating effect was lacking, but it was all the better for our nerves. For tea, young raspberry leaves dried were used.

Sugar was a serious problem, and molasses was as precious as sugar. "What shall we do when the present supply of Louisiana molasses gives out?" was a burning question, and the only answer was, "Do without."

Grits were eaten for rice. When we wanted soda we swept the fireplace clean and burned corn-cobs.

Mustard and pepper were made of home grown products. Salt was costly. Every bit was shaken off dry pork and used. All brine was boiled down and dried. Still the supply grew lower and lower. Some one discovered that the dirt floors of the old smoke-houses were salt mines, so to speak. The dirt was put in hoppers and run down, the brine boiled and dried.

All new cloth had to be manufactured at home from raw material. The dyestuffs were made from roots, bark, walnuts and indigo.

Shoes were rough affairs made from the hides of beavers, cured by the negroes. Buttons were made of coarse thread or persimmon seeds. Caps were cut out of cloth and hats plaited from palmetto.

Letters were written on the blank leaves of books, the wrong side of wall scraps or old envelopes turned and pasted together.
