SHOT IN KNEE

Bert Blair of Maumee Receives Painful Injury.

Last Friday while out in a boat on the river on a hunting expedition with a party of friends, Bert Blair of Maumee, received injuries which will cripple him for life.

One of the party attempted to move a gun which was lying in the boat, and in some manner the hammer caught in the seat and the weapon was discharged. Nearly the whole charge of shot struck Blair in the knee, badly shattering the bones.

He was taken to the Rheinfrank hospital at this place, and an examination of his injuries made. It was at first thought that amputation would be necessary, but it was afterward decided to try and save the limb, and under the treatment of that institution the unfortunate man is progressing as well as possible and if no complications arise it is believed that he will recover, although the injured knee will be stiff and as a consequence Mr. Blair will be a cripple for life.

Frightful Fate Averted.

"I would have been a cripple for life, from a terrible cut on my knee cap," writes Frank Disberry, Kellher, Minn., "without Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which soon cured me." Infallible for wounds, cuts and bruises, it soon cures Burns, Scalds, Old Sores, Bolls, Skin Eruptions, World's best for Piles. 25c at C. P. Champney, Perrysburg.

GOOD ROADS

National Congress of Good Roads Builders at Columbus.

Columbus, O., Oct. 19.—All railroads within Central Passenger and Trunk Line associations will grant a rate of a fare and a third, plus 25 cents, to the big joint meeting in Columbus, October 26 to 29, of the National Road Makers' association, the Ohio Good Roads' Federation and the County Commissioners' association of Ohio. Word received from all sections of the county indicates that the meetings will be the largest and most representative good roads meeting ever held in the country, and the exhibits will undoubtedly bring together the largest display of road making material ever seen in any one city.

The demonstration of road making will be one of the star attractions of the meeting, judging from the number of inquiries which are being received concerning it. County Surveyor Walter Braun on Thursday broke ground on East Eleventh avenue and on Fleet street, to prepare the streets for the road makers when they come. The Robeson Process Co. will start immediately on a part of Fleet street, as it wishes to have a stretch of finished road ready for inspection when the delegates arrive. It will continue the street after the convention opens.

The Columbus committee on arrangements has received word from the east of the sudden death of Mrs. Powers, wife of E. L. Powers, secretary of the Road Makers' association. The hundreds of delegates and visitors to the National Good Roads Congress to be held in Columbus October 26-29 will not have a dull moment night or day, for the committee on arrangements has completed every little detail for the entertainment of the visitors.

NOT A CANDIDATE

Governor Harmon Fears the People Will Not Return Him.

When politics steps in business departs.

The last state fair develops that that institution is to be made a political adjunct to Governor Harmon's Democratic machine rather than an annual educational exhibit of interest and benefit to both city and country farmers.

For many years the Ohio State Fair has been conceded to be the leading institution of this kind in the country and from every state in the union the highest praise has been bestowed upon the commendable enterprise.

But now, sad to relate, Democratic politicians have acquired control of the enterprise and the result is that the last fair turns out to have been a practical failure from many points of view.

It is true that Secretary Sandles of the State Board of Agriculture, claims that the fair nets a profit of $20,000, which statement is denied by other officials.

And if there is a profit of $20,000 or any part thereof, Governor Harmon and his Democratic managers of the state fair should have the finger of shame pointed at them for resorting to practices that added a few dollars to the fair treasury.

In the past state fairs have been clean, educational and progressive.

It has always been safe and proper to permit any member of the family to visit every exhibit on the grounds—but this year shows were running full blast which should forever condemn their sponsors.

Commenting on the fair the Urbana Times-Citizen says:

"For the State Fair Board to allow a show of downright indecency is an insult to Ohio people."

In addition to features that made the State Fair midway akin to that of the Chicago World's Fair a nice little prize fight was pulled off in the cattle ring about one o'clock one night.

Arrangements for caring for the crowd that attended the fair were wholly unsatisfactory. Columbus papers have been severe in their criticism.

Every day's developments in Ohio politics gives Republicans more encouragement. There was a time not long ago when Republicans who kept in touch with state affairs felt that a Republican nomination for governor next year was not worth seeking. Governor Harmon looked like a sure-enough winner—and consequently Democrats were joyous and jubilant.

But 'tis different now. Governor Harmon is not the invincible and unassailable quantity that he was touted—and touted truthfully.

He will be easy picking if he is a candidate for re-election. And the "if" is a big one. Right now the governor has made up his mind not to run again. He is a presidential aspirant. He does not want to go into another campaign and run the risk of getting bumped—for he appreciates that he has no cinch on the job. The governor figures—and correctly—that he is likely to get licked and he knows that a defeat will not help him in his candidacy for the democratic presidential nomination.

Governor Harmon's extravagant ideas of administering state affairs is the one big thing that is bringing him to his political ruin. He thinks the state ought to be run as railroads are—that is, to spend every cent of revenue and mortgage the future. Bonds and debts and extravagance are supposed to be a legitimate part of railroad operation—and it matters not if stockholders do not get a cent. As a matter of fact many railroad stockholders com-

HOW THEY DO

When the Bowling Green Elks Want a Good Time.

On Thursday evening, Oct. 21, the Bowling Green lodge B. P. O. E. No. 818, had what proved to be one of their most enjoyable social events. The invitations to members and the program of events is shown by the following menu:

Official Notice.

Time—6:00 o'clock, Thursday evening, October 21st, 1909.

Place—Lodge room, B. P. O. E. 818.

Object—The relief of hungry and thirsty Elks.

Manner—1st. Not by reading the pure food law, nor by singing that good old song, "Sparkling Water," nor by displaying a hand-painting of an old-fashioned picnic with chicken, cake, pie and nick-nacks in the foreground, but by feeding 'em on good, well cooked pig.

How was the pig obtained?—The committee stole our goat and traded it to Bill Lehmann for two Clydesdale or Plymouth Rock shoats, averaging 68 pounds each.

How and by whom dressed?—We gave Frank Kabig 32 cents and the leaf lard for dressing and preparing them for the cook. After they were thus prepared there were exactly 28 pounds turned over to the cook. They were very fat pigs, so Frank says. The committee never saw the pigs alive, but we have no reason to doubt their fatness, as on close inquiry we find that Kabig cleared $15.44, lard being worth 14 cents. The 32 cents was paid out of the treasury on order of Major Carlisle. They must have been damphat.

Brother Jim Lehman, of foot ball fame, will carve what is left of the pigs.

Menu.

As Follows.

Fruit Cocktail and Lady Fingers.
Roast Pig with Oyster Dressing.
The same Pig with Plain Dressing. (Same price.)

ONLY TWO DAYS

Judge Baldwin Gives Light Sentence to Maumee Boys.

On Friday morning last, Judge Baldwin opened court at 8:30 a. m. in order to sentence Howard Henderson and Alva Creager, the two boys who were accused of the holdup on the river bridge when John Hampton was reported as having been assaulted and robbed.

The trial of these boys was held the week previous and although the Grand Jury had found an indictment for robbery, the jury after laboring with the case over an hour found a verdict as follows:

"We, the jury, x x x find the defendants, Howard Henderson and Alva Creager, not guilty of robbery, but find them guilty of assault and battery."

Judge Baldwin, before passing sentence took occasion to briefly review the testimony and from his remarks it was very plain to be seen that the Judge did not believe that the boys were guilty. He referred to the confession of the boy who furnished the evidence against the defendants and severely censured magistrates for participating in or encouraging such confessions or promising immunity to those who "turned States evidence." The Judge said the more he saw of such proceedings, the more thoroughly convinced was he in the old proverb "that the man who turned States evidence, was the greatest rogue of all."

The Court said he had carefully scrutinized the testimony and did not see how it would be possible for the jury to find the boys guilty of the charge of robbery, and if not guilty of robbery could not see how they could be guilty of assault and battery, but the jury having returned such a verdict made it necessary for the Court to pass sentence, but in so doing Judge Baldwin told the boys that they should not think or understand that anything he might say or any sentence he might give them was because he believed them guilty of any crime or attempted crime. He then gave them the mildest sentence possible—two days in the county jail.

During the speech of the Judge the large audience in the Court room gave most careful and silent attention and members of the jury, and several members of the bar expressed their approval of the wisdom and justice shown by the Court's action.

GIBBS-EDWARDS WEDDING.

On Saturday evening, October 16, Mr. J. Albert Gibbs, formerly of St. Louis, Mich., and Miss Estelle Edwards of Alma, Mich., were united in marriage.

Miss Edwards arrived in Perrysburg on Saturday afternoon and immediately went to the home of E. L. Blue and wife, where they were greeted by friends. At 5:30 the wedding party assembled in the parlors and Rev. E. J. Webster, pastor of the M. E. church of this place, in a very impressive manner, conducted the service which made them husband and wife.

Shortly after the service and the bridal party had received the congratulations of their friends the guests were seated in the dining room where dinner was served.

After the dinner the evening was made pleasant with music until the bride and groom departed for Toledo, and they were given the customary shower of rice for good luck.

Mr. Gibbs has occupied the position of foreman of the Journal for the past year and Mrs. Gibbs has taken the place formerly held by Mrs. Arthur Dubbs, and made vacant by her recent marriage and departure for Denver, Colo., with her husband and mother.

The wedding party was given as a reception for the bride and groom to Perrysburg, and a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Dubbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs expect to make Perrysburg their future home. The wedding was a complete surprise to Mr. Gibbs' many friends, and when they became acquainted with the facts, J. Albert found it necessary to produce the cigars.
