THE SHORT BALLOT

Will Crown Governor with Power of an Emperor.

The state auditor of Ohio is a Democrat, but he is fighting Gov. Cox, as other democratic state officials are, on the short ballot proposition. A few days ago he declared that if the voters should adopt the short ballot proposal at the November election the Governor of Ohio would control the appointment of 8,156 persons whose salaries would aggregate more than $3,250,000. This looks like an exaggerated statement, but it is not far out of the way, and one thing is certain which no man can deny, the short ballot would increase the governor's appointing power enormously and strengthen the political machine in every bailiwick of the state.

VISITS THE FATHERLAND

William Guthrie of Perrysburg recently returned from a visit to Germany, his native land, and says he is pleased to get back to America. The fear of being held by German officers for service in the army was dispelled by reason of his naturalization papers which he carried with him. He writes of his trip as follows:

I went over the water to visit my brother whom I had not seen for 32 years, who is living in the city of Mainz, one of the best cities in Germany which sent 10,000 marks to the flood sufferers relief committee in this country last April.

I enjoyed a one hour ride from Mainz to Frankfurt-on-the-Main, and while there saw the big Zeppelin airship making regular trips every day, the fare being 100 marks or $25 for one hour ride which is regarded as a cheap ride for the wealthy class who remain up in the clouds for two or three hours.

These old cities are wonders. I stopped at a hotel directly across the street from Goethe's birthplace, which is visited by tourists from all parts of the world.

I spent two days in Hamburg and while there visited the largest vegetable market in the world, also the greatest ocean harbor.

From here I embarked on the President Lincoln for my return trip homeward. We made good time although we passed through a severe storm, and when on the 12th day we sighted land, the first glimpse of Staten island made everybody happy.

Many of my friends fear the ocean trip, but to me it is a great pleasure as I was not troubled with seasickness and would gladly go again.

SNODGRASS HILL

Interesting History Concerning 21st Ohio Reg't at that Important Point.

There is some very interesting history written upon the monuments and tablets concerning the Twenty-first Ohio regiment, upon Snodgrass Hill, where the last stand of Gen. Thomas was made at the battle of Chickamauga. One little stone has this written upon it: "The Twenty-first Ohio of Sewell's brigade, Negley's division, was the first infantry to occupy this position and held the extreme right of Brannan's line from 12 o'clock till 3 p. m. and afterwards fought on the left of Whitker's line till dark." Another tablet says: "They were assigned this position by Gen. Thomas and arrived at 12 noon on the double quick and fought desperately till 3 p. m., when they were retired to procure more ammunition and were then immediately sent to the extreme left, and two Ohio regiments and two brigades of Granger's corps took their place, and then this position which the Twenty-first had defended for three hours was now considered safe." Other history says the Twenty-first Ohio was the only organized regiment present and they defeated the first attack of Johnson's and Law's men and with their repeating rifles held their ground till Steedman came. Down near the extreme left a tablet tells us: "Negley attempted to extend his line, but was met by a stream of fugitives retiring and, for fear of losing his artillery, retired with them, leaving Stanley's brigade and the Twenty-first Ohio to defend the line. Six separate assaults were made upon Snodgrass Hill by Longstreet's men in all of which the Twenty-first Ohio participated. At sunset the army retired to Rossville under orders from Gen. Thomas, but the order to retreat was not given to the Twenty-first and Eighty-ninth Ohio and the Twenty-second Michigan regiments, who fired the last shots and detained Forest's cavalry until Thomas' and Steedman's whole army got away safely."

A tablet at the extreme left of the line down among the bushes tells the rest of the story: "At this place a brigade of Forrest's cavalry dismounted, 1,050 strong, and captured the Twenty-first Ohio regiment at 7:15 p. m."

Near the left of the line on Snodgrass hill is a $5,000 monument to an Illinois regiment, giving the names of the officers and the names of the killed and mortally wounded. They fought where the Twenty-first Ohio protected them from being outflanked.

There is no monument to commemorate the wonderful success of the Twenty-first Ohio in saving the remnants of Rosecrans' army, either in Ohio or at the battlefield, although they were the only regiment in the world's history that ever successfully defended both flanks of a defeated army against repeated attacks of a larger and a victorious army.

A MEMBER OF THE REGIMENT.

MOREO-SIMON WEDDING.

On Tuesday morning, Oct. 7, 1913, at 9 o'clock the marriage of Mr. John Moreo of Delphos, O., and Miss Louise Simon of Roachton, O., was solemnized at St. Rose de Lima church in Perrysburg, by Rev. Fr. Redding, of St. Patrick's church of Maumee.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Simon. The bride has many friends here who will extend best wishes for a happy future. They will commence housekeeping at 1103 Eleventh street, Delphos, O., to which city they will go on Saturday.

APPROACHING HOLIDAYS

Suggest Work to be Done by the Santa Claus Club.

With the first ten days of October cut off the calendar, the time for consideration of holiday events is drawing near and in this connection the Journal desires to call attention to the work of the Santa Claus club in Perrysburg last season, and to suggest that it is time the preliminary steps be taken toward organized and effective work.

Last year many children were made happy by the gifts that were sent to them on Christmas Eve, and those who engaged in the work were well repaid for the time and expense thus given.

The Journal is very anxious for a big Santa Claus Club to be formed and will use every possible effort to boost the work.

It should be understood, however, that the club is undenominational, that it is in no manner under the direction or in connection with any church or secret society, but is to be an organization of people who are willing to lay aside personalities and who will endeavor to without expecting any return or reward save that which comes from a consciousness of having done a good act in a worthy cause.

The Journal will be pleased to receive the names of all people who are willing to help and at the proper time will call a meeting of those who send in their names, for the purpose of organization and effective work.

If your heart is in the right place and you are willing to help, please send your name to The Journal so that we may prepare a list and be ready for work as soon as possible.

Everybody invited. There's plenty of room and plenty of places where Santa Claus work is needed.

$500,000 STATE MONEY

Handled Without Record by State Auditor or Treasurer.

State Treasurer John P. Brennan and State Auditor A. V. Donahey have put out their initiative bill for a law, requiring all business of state departments to be transacted through the state treasury.

If enough signers are obtained the bill will go to the legislature next winter. In a public statement Messrs. Brennan and Donahey allege that "over $500,000 of state funds are deposited annually in banks and checked out by certain state boards and officials without record by the state auditor or state treasurer." They argue that the proposed law would secure to the state the interest on those funds and enable the auditor to open a classification ledger and make his annual report comprehensive and really valuable to the Governor, the Legislature and the taxpayers.

This is the bill which the State Auditor prepared for the Legislature last spring, was passed by the Senate but was "lost" in a mysterious way in the House. It was undoubtedly stolen. This bill would have covered the special increased tax on automobiles, two-thirds of the receipts from which—under Gov. Cox's orders—go into the general revenue fund instead of being spent for good roads, as desired by those who pay the tax.

The funeral services were held on Wednesday.

SOME OBSERVATIONS

Concerning Things We See and Hear about the Town.

One of readers has asked—"Does it pay to be ever ready to drop one's own business or work to accommodate or do a service for another? Is such service or courtesy generally appreciated?" In reply we must remark that not having the wisdom of a Solomon, we hardly feel able to give an answer that will entirely cover the case, but we have recently had occasion to notice that he who gives his time to his own affairs exclusively and permits the other fellow to do the "courtesy" or "accommodation" act, is usually the most prosperous. So, draw your own conclusion, gentle reader.

Appropo of the discussion of fashions now indulged by many reformers, a friend whose specialty is making of loose leaf record books, tells this story of fashions in the first family:

On a bright spring morning Adam and Eve were taking a stroll through the shady bowers of the garden of Eden.

"My dear," said Adam, continuing the discussion of the fashions likely to be in vogue for the following fall season, "what system of dress making do you favor?"

"Well," replied Eve thoughtfully, "they all have their merits, but the loose leaf system is good enough for me."

The opening of the Hillbrand addition to Perrysburg places 34 very desirable building lots on the market in a charming portion of the village. Here is a fine opportunity for city people and others to come in and build homes that will be up to the minute in style and appointment.

There are very few desirable places in Perrysburg on the market now, and the man who wishes to get in on the good things must come quickly or else pay much more money later on. Perrysburg property is much sought these days and it is the wise man who buys now.

Mary ordered a little lamb,
But when she learned the price,
She sent the waiter back again
And took a bowl of rice.

By reading the reports of auto accidents one is induced to believe that what some men know about motoring would fill a book; what they don't know fills cemeteries.

EMBARKS IN BUSINESS.

A Spokane, Wash., paper contains the following complimentary notice of a former Perrysburg citizen, born and raised here and a graduate of the Perrysburg High School:

"R. B. Hoover, a well-known resident of Spokane, who has been engaged in designing high-class artistic advertising, has embarked in business for himself, and has opened offices at 444 Peyton building.

"Mr. Hoover for the last year and a quarter has been manager of the booklet shop of the Shaw-Borden company. He will continue to make a specialty of booklets, pamphlets and for letters. He will have a thoroughly equipped plant.

"He has been secretary of the Spokane Ad club for many years."

The Journal is always pleased to give reports of the success of any Perrysburg person who has made a hard fight for success in new fields and won out, and we extend best wishes to Roy for future success.
