BIRD OF FREEDOM

OBSERVATIONS.

Occasionally, one of those loud mouthed fellows gets a little part of what he just naturally has coming to him as observed in the recent reception given the Rev. (?) Herbert Bigelow by a few Cincinnati friends. Herbert's mouth worked too much to suit the real patriotic citizens of the Queen City and a special reception committee is reported to have invited him for a ride in an automobile. The party stopped over in Kentucky where neighbors were not frequent. The Rev. was stripped, tied to a tree and then the good right arm of a husky patriotic citizen wielded a splendid specimen of "black snake" and the Reverend now knows how to sympathize with some of those old men, women and children of France and Belgium who have suffered under the lash of the arch fiend of Europe. Unless there is a sudden and great falling off in this pro-German "yawp" that is heard in many sections there may be more of this return to "Ku-Klux" methods in all parts of the country. There is considerable work to be done in our neighboring city of Toledo—work that has long been neglected. The express train of condemnation and rebuke is way behind schedule time and should be speeded up to the very limit of power.

SAVE TO SERVE.

This was the topic Dr. W. H. Pheley preached upon last Sunday. It was a food conservation sermon. He said the gospel teaches us we are saved to serve. In other words our faith in God is proved by our works, our interest in our soldier boys at the front. All Christians believe in this. Now we have the chance to prove it by our works. Our government has called upon us to save in order that we may serve the highest necessities of church and state. It is a small service required, but of supreme importance as follows:
One wheatless day, one meatless day, one sugarless day, each week. We are asked simply to substitute for the above the great plenty of other foods we have at our command. This is a test of our free democracy.

Surely there can be no failure. Otherwise, bread tickets, meat tickets, etc., would follow for our government cannot fail. To this we all agree. The record of every family must be sent to Washington.

IN WONDERFUL NEW MEXICO.

Mrs. E. Ward, who left September 10th for a visit with her son Edwin J. Ward at Santa Fe, New Mexico, has returned to her home after a most enjoyable visit of six weeks in Santa Fe. While at Santa Fe, Mrs. Ward took a number of automobile trips through the country, visiting the Cave Dwelling Ruins of Frijoles Canon and of Tschrege; a number of Indian Pueblos, including San Ildefonso, Santo Domingo, Santa Clara, San Juan, Tesuque, Picuris and San Gerónimo de Taos. These villages, commonly called pueblos, are occupied by the "Indians of the Terraced Houses," who live in communal dwellings, are farmers and own their own land, all work and profit being in common. They also produce pottery and bead work, but in the main are tillers of the soil, and have been for many centuries.

These Indians have annual fiestas or dances, which are part of their ancient religion. It was Mrs. Ward's privilege to be present at the festival of San Gerónimo de Taos on September 30th, one of the most famous of the Indian ceremonies. Nearly four thousand people from all over the United States witnessed the dance. Taos is famous as the home of Kit Carson, the scout. On the return from Taos the quaint villages of Penasco, Las Truchas, Las Trampas and Chimayo were visited. These villages are occupied by Spanish speaking natives, and are entirely of adobe construction, with quaint and beautiful mission churches.

Mrs. Ward reports a wonderful climate, sunny, yet cool. The altitude for Santa Fe is 7000, hence the nights are always cold enough for blankets, and the temperature during the summer seldom goes over 75 degrees. Only one cloudy day was experienced during her entire stay in Santa Fe.

Edwin J. Ward went to Santa Fe in the early part of 1916, and has built up an important business in Santa Fe since that time. He is president and manager of the Rocky Mountain Camp Co., a concern furnishing automobile and pack horse trips for tourists in the Santa Fe section. The company also maintains permanent camps in the Santa Fe National Forest near the city. A complete synopsis of the trips outlined by the company are furnished in a recent booklet issued by the Santa Fe Railway System, "Off the Beaten Path."
