

BURN LESS COAL—HAVE MORE HEAT

GLOBE RANGE BURNERS will do both, because of their scientific construction. The lower part of the "down" flue extends from the bottom base-plate to the top of the ash pit. Then, three flues in the back are three-fourths exposed. This distinctive GLOBE construction gives you twice the direct heat radiation of any ordinary base burner, at less cost! Don't take our say-so. Come in and see for yourself. Rigidly inspect a GLOBE RANGE BURNER. That's all we ask.

Other products of the Globe Stove & Range Co., Kokomo, Ind., are: Globe Steel and Cast Range, Base Burners, Soft Coal Heaters and Warm Air Furnaces.

KICKS A $500-JOB AROUND

Actor Finally Discovers Mysterious Cable, Long Ignored, Refused by Others, Belonged to Him.

"Who is Leo Robinson?" asked Robinson of the clerk of a Tenderloin club in one of the large cities, whose membership is for the most part made up of actors. "That cable has been here so long it is getting my goat." It was one of those cable envelopes which permit the name and address to be read through the thin paper. "Haven't you opened it yet?" asked the clerk in return. "I forwarded it to J. C. Robinson in San Francisco and he returned it saying it did not belong to him. Next I forwarded it to H. D. Robinson, in New Orleans. He said it did not belong to him. I did not think of asking you to open it because you have seen it almost every day and I got the idea that it did not belong to you. I put it back again thinking that it was for some other Robinson who might be introduced and have the mail privilege."

Robinson carefully opened the flap of the envelope with a pencil because it had been pasted up by the last Robinson. As he read the message his brows knitted, his fingers trembled, he ran his hand through his hair. "Dampfool!" he ejaculated, and glared at the cable dispatch. Whether he meant the remark for himself or for the sender he did not specify. "That cable is for me," he remarked, the ejaculation having cooled him off somewhat. "That cable offered me a $500 job for a month's work. Here it has been kicking around for three months and I hadn't the slightest idea it was for me. But why should it be addressed to Leo Robinson?" The clerk took the cable dispatch. "It isn't addressed to Leo," he said. "That is 'leo,' which means the cable message is written in the language of the originating country." "Give me a postage stamp and I'll write an explanation, but I know it will never be believed," but it was ten minutes before Robinson got his thoughts into shape to put on paper.

New Estimates of Old Writers. New estimates of the writers of the past generation are constantly being made and if they were generally accepted a good many people who liked the works of these writers would wonder how it happened that their judgment was so uniformly wrong. One critic rules George Elliot out of the list not only of the great, but of the near great. Thackeray and Dickens are spoken of with toleration, but with much questioning of their methods and their real ability; Tennyson is set aside as a second-rate poet by the new school of verse makers, and so the iconoclast goes on. The latest victim of attack is Flaubert. In the North American Review Willard Huntington Wright not only declines to regard the author of "Madame Bovary" as a transcendent genius, but refuses to accord to him a place in the front rank of modern literary artists. He admits that he is a master of style, but insists that style, however perfect, is not of chief artistic significance, but is only of secondary importance when compared with the "internal architecture of art." This "poised inner structure" is a quality he fails to find in any of Flaubert's work. It is not quite clear what he means by this internal architecture, but his critique will be found of interest by readers of Flaubert.

TRACTOR SCHOOL STARTS FEB. 11

Will Be Held at State Fair Grounds, Columbus.

FREE TO ALL INTERESTED

Ohio State University College of Agriculture, Board of Agriculture of Ohio and Tractor Manufacturers Co-operating in Conduct of School. Strictly Educational and Intended to Meet War Emergency Need.

In view of the increasing use of tractors, the Ohio State University, in co-operation with the Board of Agriculture of Ohio and the tractor manufacturers, will conduct a free tractor school at the State Fair grounds the week beginning Feb. 11.

Tractor specialists of Ohio State University College of Agriculture and from other state universities, as well as experts from the factories, will be in charge of the instruction. Approximately 20 types of tractors will be on the grounds, so that the student will probably find it possible to study the same sort of tractor that he is using at home.

Not For Sales Promotion. The school is intended to be strictly educational and not for sales promotion.

The subjects will include an elementary study of gas engines, types of tractors, ignition, fuels, carburetion, lubrication, valve grinding, bearing adjustments, removing of carbon, transmissions, tractor hitches, troubles and adjustments, tractor ratings and tractor operation.

The laboratory work will be in charge of experts, rather than salesmen, from the tractor manufacturing companies. They will explain all of the details relative to their machines. Opportunity will be given to the students to operate the various tractors on the grounds, to make adjustments, and to become familiar with the make-up of the different machines.

No Fees Attached. To get the most out of the course it will be necessary for each student to be present for the first lecture and to remain throughout the entire week. There are no entrance requirements or fees. Students are advised to bring overalls, however, as this is no glove-handed affair. Anyone may attend.

A detailed circular about the course may be had from Prof. H. C. Ramsower, Ohio State University, Columbus, O.

with our guns and with our brains, for some day the ability to knock a man cold may save a soldier's life. "Don't worry about that precious boy of yours! Be proud of him—proud that Uncle Sam has pronounced him fit to undertake the biggest task America has put its shoulder to since 1776. He may come back to you covered with medals and glory. He may not come back at all. But whether he does or doesn't—he's a better man today than he ever was before! And let your dear old heart swell with the sense of satisfaction that he is a man! Otherwise, his commanding officer would send him home 'for the good of the service.' "And remember: we haven't forgotten you mothers—that's the reason we're here. The men who went before us fought that we might be free. We're fighting for you who stay at home and do your bit—and for the mothers and the little ones that are to come."
