The world is receiving very little benefit from its educational system these days, because materialism occupies the forefront of it. If this is desired, it is because he who desires hasn't the remotest idea what materialism is. He doesn't see any soul in education—only the body; only arithmetic, grammar, geography, methods for making money and living without work. It is not studies that warm the heart, but that tickle the brain, that fill so much of the educational area of today. Education is not to make scholars, but true men and women. That is what education means—the outflow of the divine spirit in a person, rather than the inflow of knowledge to stifle the spirit, says Ohio State Journal. It is easy enough to establish the reform and make feeling, instead of thinking, the object of education, for the brain without the heart is a positive evil to mankind. The way to secure the great reform is from the inside. Education is not a profession; it is a life. The people should not be gulped by false ideas of education. They should insist upon the true idea.

The question of a federal divorce law or some unification of the state laws has been agitated by churchmen, judges, lawyers and legislators. Bills have been presented to congress on this subject, and amendments to the federal Constitution have been suggested. So far nothing definite has been done, either toward settling upon a satisfactory code to be adopted by the several states or in obtaining legislation upon the subject. The present conflicting laws in force in the several states have the effect, it is said, of affording opportunity for fraud and abuse of privileges and often result in legal difficulties for persons innocent of any ill intent.

London, like Paris, is generous in its expressions of praise for the American soldiers who participated in the great parade in celebration of peace. Better soldiers have never been seen in Europe than the doughboys. "Ah, your soldiers!" exclaimed a French veteran of rank to a correspondent. "Their marching is magnificent. It was the acme of military precision. It was 100 per cent perfect." But if their marching is good, so is their fighting, says Buffalo News. That, too, was 100 per cent perfect.

Germany is getting her cost of living down sharply, while in the United States we have the amazing spectacle of abundance and continued exploitation of consumers, says Houston Post. It is yet within the possibilities that Germany will be traveling on Easy street when we will be getting rich by printing paper money and blowing soap bubbles.

There are many theoretical programs for lowering the cost of living. There is much talk of redundant currency, excessive demand and world shortage. But the remedy for most of our economic ills can be summed up in this simple prescription: Go to work, stay at work and produce enough goods to supply the world's needs.

Shoes are scarce and therefore prices are high, we are told. And yet exports of shoes in the month of July were greater than for the whole of last year. Apparently we have plenty for Europe but mighty few for America.

From the way claims for damages by foreigners are piling up against the Mexican government it looks as if Mexico will have proportionately as heavy a bill to pay for her revolutions as Germany has to pay for her war.

An advocate of bolshevism says revolution may be put through easily in America by arming workers and disarming owners. Better hurry, for at present wages the workers in America soon will be the owners.

Latest figures on the cost of the war to the United States place the total somewhere around $30,000,000,000, which to the average citizen doesn't seem much bigger than his monthly grocery bill.

Contentious Never Popular.

The wise man in Israel has truly said: "A fool's lips enter into contention," and the contentious fool is as common a nuisance today as he was no doubt in the olden ones. Usually in proportion to their lack of actual knowledge do such persons presume to set themselves up as dictators to others.—Exchange.

Loyalty Well Rewarded.

A Parisian with a sense of humor bequeathed 300 francs to each relative who abstained from attending his funeral. One poor relative insisted on following the deceased to the grave; and her loyalty was rewarded, for by a codicil to his will the deceased left the residue of his large fortune to those relatives who were prepared to sacrifice the 300 francs.
