

CITY MATTERS.

E. M. Campbell has been engaged as tenor in the High street M. E. church quartette choir.

Man wants but little ear below his seal-skin cap, nor wants that little long—this weather.

Mr. E. M. Campbell's family have just returned from a three weeks visit with friends in Indianapolis.

A brakeman on the Ohio Southern, whose name could be learned, had two fingers badly mangled last night while coupling cars near Storms, Ohio, a little station down the road.

Rev. A. L. Wilkinson having been called from the city by the death of his mother, there will be no preaching in the First Baptist church next Sunday. Sunday school as usual.

Mr. E. H. Dooley, of East High street missed his thermometer this morning. It is a cold night Mr. Dooley, when the weather machine crawls down off the nail and hides himself.

Mr. Charles A. Conahan and Mr. Phillip Dorn have leased the Globe Printing and Publishing Company's bindery and will be ready to commence active operations Monday morning.

Fifty cents will buy a seat in the gallery for the 5-and-40 Blackbirds' entertainment this evening. At this low price this portion of the Grand Opera House should be packed to its utmost capacity.

Last year the "5 and 40 Blackbirds" paid over to the Woman's Benevolent Society $750. This year they will turn over at least $900. This fact "vindicates" the management, if it needs it. We make this statement on the authority and at the request of Mr. Thomas F. McGrew, jr., the treasurer.

Last night as Mr. Thomas P. Fetter, the bookkeeper at this office, was on his way home he was tripped by two men on Maple avenue near Elm street. The object undoubtedly was to rob him, but he was too quick for them and did not fall. As soon as they saw him regain his feet they started and ran.

Mr. Charles Forbes, agent of the "Yakie" Company, called at the Globe-Republic office to-day to say that he didn't "kick vigorously," or at all, in fact, about the Blackbird program. In fact, he wasn't in the city. He thinks the Blackbird entertainment, program and all, a good thing. But he really believes that "Yakie" is still better.

Last night a colored man named Clayton, who lives in the country, reported to officer Record that his roan horse and piano-box buggy had been stolen from in front of the Colored Baptist Church on South Factory street. It was stolen some time between eight and nine o'clock, and up to noon to-day nothing had been heard from it.

The grand and only 5 and 40 Blackbirds, ahead of the Big Six band, paraded at one o'clock this afternoon, attracting crowds everywhere on their route. Each saddle-warrior of them wore a boutonniere at his Newmarket lapel and carried a cane. It is said there are but few seats at the Grand not taken for the concert to-night.

Mr. Gus Margelett, of the firm of Hoffman & Co., this city, was married last Wednesday evening to Miss Emily Bauer, a prominent young lady of Aurora, Indiana. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride. The young couple returned to this city this morning and are now receiving the congratulations of friends.

Officers Nicklas and Ward last night arrested a white man named James Conners on the charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and by the time he was locked up the additional charge of resisting an officer was placed against him. Conners got his wages yesterday and started out on a big drunk, finally landing in Kennedy's saloon, on the "hill," where he claims he was robbed. Afterward he went into John Howard's restaurant, and after getting a lunch refused to pay for it. Officer Nicklas was called, and Conners then began to shout fight. He pulled out a knife and succeeded in cutting officer Nicklas on the fingers. On the way to the station house Conners caught hold of officer Foster's foot and attempted to throw him off the wagon. He tackled the wrong man, however, and was finally locked up. In Mayor's Court this afternoon he was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness and $5 and costs for resisting an officer. He took the dose pretty hard.

William Diers, Foreman. The following indictments have been found in the following cases, parties to which are under arrest: Fred Deeds and Geo. Brenner, burglarizing shoe store at South Charleston; John H. Biase, being intoxicated; Alfred Johnson and Thos. Harvey, larceny at elbow factory; Edward Johnson, petit larceny, stole three watches from D. Greenbaum; Chas. Henderson, grand larceny, stole money from Chas. Bagle; Geo. Hill, petit larceny, stole stole Lewis's larceny; Geo. Steen, assault and battery on J. E. Kinsane; Hoses de Artabill, burglary of barn, Madison township; Charles McCleary, playing at a game in public place for gain; Harry Franklin, burglary at Kern's grocery.

Following cases ignored: John Maxwell, murder; B. B. Armstrong, trespassing, etc.; Jackson Baker, petit larceny; Wm. Carr, burglary and larceny; Owen Gaffney, shooting with intent to kill; Geo. Langston, burglary and larceny. Excepting the thirteen indictments above mentioned, and one other, the indictments found are for violations of liquor laws; twenty in all. Prisoners will be arraigned to plead Monday next.

Death of Thomas Brown. At half-past nine last night Thomas Brown died at his home, corner Dibert and Race streets, after an illness of nearly a year, of consumption, leaving a wife and one son. Mr. Brown was last employed at East street shops, but has done no work, owing to ill health, since last spring. He was a member of the Foresters and Red Men's Orders and a man of correct habits and dealings. He was a first-class nurse, in cases of protracted illness, as more than one of our citizens takes pleasure in testifying, and was employed in that capacity by the Masonic lodges when occasion required, always giving satisfaction. He was born near Birmingham, England, entered the British army while yet a boy and served through the war of the Crimea. Coming to this country, he made the voyage from New York around the Horn to San Francisco, in a whaling vessel, and after spending some time in California returned to New York and finally came here. He took great interest in public

Amusements. To-night and to-morrow night, with a Saturday matinee, the Wymans will appear at Black's in the laughable absurdity "Yakie," at reduced prices of admission. The New York World says: "California has sent us two more especially clever people in Lulu Wilson and Ali Wyman as apt title for them is the Champion Laugh-Makers." The Com-mercantile Telegram says: "Lulu Wilson is a magnificent dresser; pretty, vivacious and an artist; Ali Wyman one of the best Dutch comedians on the stage. Their play goes with shouts and applause."

Only 10 and 15 cents admission to the matinee for ladies and children at Black's tomorrow.

Next Monday evening Draper's Uncle Tom's Cabin Company will appear at the Grand. The Cleveland Plain Dealer says of their entertainment: "The Academy of Music, like its rivals, was crowded last night. Draper's Double Uncle Tom's Cabin Company played to one of the largest houses of the season. The company has been here before and the play is familiar to every one. It is sufficient to say to those who do not already know it that Draper's Double Company is the best Uncle Tom's Cabin Company before the public. The show last night gave general satisfaction to those who attended. It is one of the best Uncle Tom's Cabin shows that has been here for years. A large matinee was given this afternoon, and another performance will be given tonight."

"A Midnight Marriage," which will be given at Black's Opera House next Monday; is from all accounts a grand romantic drama, of the legitimate school and said to be a great relief from the modern melo-drama with which the public have been deluged for the last few seasons. The following is a criticism from the Philadelphia Inquirer: "To the elders who attended the Chestnut Street Theatre last night there was a genuine surprise and to all others an entertainment was presented that was most enjoyable. Mr. Osborne, who is in the play given as a graphic picture of life in the days of chivalry, and while he has not been unkind of the romantic has provided some portraits of real life, which, being real life sketches of the glorious times of King Francis, are as pat today as they were in yore. Mr. William Redmond gave a delineation of the heroic lover of the time that is at least true to the legend and assuredly admirable. Mrs. Barry was only second in her finished performance of the spirited, educated and accomplished "Hortense de Guise." The stage settings were handsome and appropriate, and the support by Mr. W. F. Owen, Miss Van Doren and others of the company was all that could be desired. The new play made a hit and impelled the most generous applause from an immense audience."

Grand Jury Report. The Grand Jury for the January term at court reported about 11:15 this forenoon, and was discharged. Following is their report: To the Honorable the Court of Common Pleas of Clark county, Ohio, for the January term of 1885: We, the Grand Jury, hereby report we have been in session five days, have examined about one hundred and twenty-five (125) witnesses, have found thirty-four (34) indictments and have ignored six cases that have come to us on transcripts.

We have examined the jail and found everything clean and tidy and the prisoners are well and properly cared for, and the new sheriff is to be complimented for the manner in which he starts off in his new position.

The following indictments have been found in the following cases, parties to which are under arrest: Fred Deeds and Geo. Brenner, burglarizing shoe store at South Charleston; John H. Ohio Division of Independent Foresters. There will be a call meeting of Fidelity Lodge, No. 20, on Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock, at the hall, to make arrangements to attend the funeral of the late Brother Thomas Brown. By order of M. H. BERRY, C. R.

L. O. R. M. Meeting Notice. Members of Logona Tribe, No. 61, L. O. R. M., are notified to meet at their hall Saturday evening, January 24, at 7 o'clock, to make arrangements for attending the funeral of Thomas Brown. Per order, JOHN KURTZ, Sachem.

The Charity Concert. An audience of about five hundred persons in Black's Opera House last evening listened to one of the finest concerts ever heard in this city. The program proved to be very enjoyable, and received much applause.

The execution of the Big Six at the top of its high standard, as: Springfield is always proud of it. Her Arthur Korthen's piano-playing captivated his new audience here.

Prima donna Mrs. Brandon's singing was a complete surprise to Springfield. Though she has resided here for months, her powers as a vocalist have been known to only a few. Her voice is a pure soprano of medium range and great flexibility. Her intonation is always so excellent that it alone makes her singing a constant delight. She was most generously appreciated and encored with thunderous applause.

Her Raphael Koester's violin was superb, and was rapturously encored. The recitations by Mrs. Josephine Latimer were fine recitations, and were received with great applause.

The duet by Mrs. R. F. Brandon and Mr. F. E. Rhinehart, of Cincinnati, was given in excellent style. The young baritone, Mr. R. F. Rhinehart, of the Cincinnati College, acquitted himself admirably in solo, and won great favor.

The performance came to a fitting close with "The Old Folk's at Home," sung by Mrs. Brandon and accompanied by Herr Koester on the violin. The general accompaniments were played by Miss Ella B. Franz with marked taste and delicacy.

How She Lost Dobbin. A young lady of good position recently became engaged to a young man whose name is Dobbin, though it ought to be. Some day after the engagement was made public he called, as was his custom, on his betrothed, and was admitted by a servant, who was delayed by a messenger with a parcel from announcing him immediately. Dobbin stepped behind the heavy drape to look at a blooming chrysanthemum in the bay window, waiting patiently. Just then the bell rung again and another gentleman was admitted, and the fair betrothed instantly entered the drawing-room to greet the newcomer. It might have been bashfulness, it might have been some other reason; but, at any rate, Dobbin paused a fatal moment before presenting himself. There was a warm kiss; then the gentleman asked instantly if the news of the engagement he had heard only that day was true. Yes, it was awfully true, said the betrothed of Dobbin, though he was the only man she loved, and though she still wore his ring given her before he went away.

"But papa has lost everything, and I had to take—'What all his fortune?' asked the visitor anxiously. "Yes, everything." "Well, I am very sorry; don't cry," etc. "No, I mustn't make my eyes red, for I expect 'him' every moment, and he is our only hope." Whereupon, so the gossip says, No. 2 departed, leaving No. 1 to settle up matters with his fiancée. But Dobbin seized the opportunity while his beloved returned to her room to bathe her eyes to make good his escape as well, and now there is a broken engagement and despair generally in a mansion not a hundred miles from the Public Garden. So few girls here got engaged this autumn that it is terrible to break to pieces an engagement actually accomplished, but this is the misery of being found out; and, alas! she never intended that it should happen.—Boston Letter Albany Journal.

Alibi. A man was arrested on charges of murder. He was the son of a man who had been a member of the Foresters and Red Men's Orders and a man of correct habits and dealings. A Mean Man's Triumph. He was coming down the street with a broad grin on his face, when an acquaintance halted him and inquired if he had made a strike. "I just have," was the reply, followed up by a hearty laugh. "My wife and I haven't lived happily for the last year, and she has made up her mind to apply for a divorce. "Has she? Why, that's too bad!" "You wouldn't think so if you knew her. She expects me to fight the proceedings, you know. She is going to allege cruelty on my part, and for the last two weeks has been working up scars to show the jury. She's torn up a bouquet, and will have the pieces to show what a bad temper I have. She's cut the buttons off a dress, and will have it in court as an evidence of my tyranny. She's going before a jury to swear that I threatened her life on several occasions, and she's got two servants to remember that I once cut her corset-strings with a butcher-knife. She's calculating on a big sensation and a crowded court-room—ha! ha! ha!" "But where does the laugh come in?" "Why, I skip the town for Denver to-night, and she'll have to pay her own lawyer and get her bill without sensation. The papers won't give it three lines—there'll be no jury to see the case—no lady spectators to weep—no boom to float her into the market on. If you want to see the maddest woman in the State of Michigan just drop around to-morrow and ring my front door-bell—he! he! he!"—Detroit Free Press.

It is rather odd that the man who led the first batch of emigrants across the plains to California in 1849, and that there and got rich, never had even the smallest mining interest. His name was Martin Murphy. He began raising cattle and kept at it, and has just died at San Jose, 80 years old, and worth $1,000,000.
