

CITY MATTERS.

Mr. W. J. Hudson, Major of South Charleston, was in the city to-day.

Married: On Thursday, at 7:30 p. m., by Rev. Henry W. Tate, Mr. Julius M. Bethel to Miss Laura Green.

Mrs. S. A. Hoffman, Mrs. Geo. W. Emery and son, and T. C. Arkerson, wife and two children sat next Wednesday on the good steamer Thomas Sherlock for New Orleans, where they expect to remain the rest of the winter.

Street Commissioner Mills had men out to-day opening covered gutters, some of which had filled solid with ice up to the gutter plate and were closed tight. If a heavy rain had come it would have caused bad work.

A party will be given this evening, at the residence of Mr. James A. Dicus, on East High street, in honor of his little daughter Maud, who will do the honors of the evening as hostess. A large number of her friends have been invited.

Deputy Sheriff A. J. Baker went to Columbus this morning taking Chas. Henderson, alias Robert Logan, sentenced for eighteen months for grand larceny, to the penitentiary. He is the first sent there under Sheriff Baker's administration.

I. B. & W. train from the west were a couple of hours late again to-day. Those from the east were on time. Two trains on this road, one morning and one evening, stop here twenty minutes for meals since the opening of the Arcade restaurant.

The little four year old son of Mr. James Dorley died this morning about three o'clock from convulsions at the family residence on Bolser street. The little boy was a very bright and interesting child, and the bereaved parents have the sympathy of many friends.

G. W. Brown was jailed last night for stealing coal. Daniel Davis, the other party implicated in the stealing of Mr. Rawlins's hog, was also captured last night and locked up with his partner in crime. The patrol wagon made a run in each case.

A masquerade will be given at the stabling this evening, and from present indications it will be the finest thing of the kind ever given here. Much attention has been paid to costumes and some very fine ones will be worn. The prizes are all very neat and appropriate and will be worth working for.

James Galloway, who broke jail and escaped from Meigsburg sometime ago and was brought back here yesterday and is in a horrible condition. His face, feet and hands are frozen black and he is a raving maniac from his sufferings. It is not likely he will recover. He was arrested for a minor offense.

Fulton Armstrong has been sued for $17,000 damages, at London, for causing the arrest of Mary J. Darcy and her daughter, Mrs. Corliss, on suspicion of murdering Sam Armstrong, a Madison county farmer and husband, at the time, of one of the women. Detective John T. Norris worked up the case.

Dr. L. E. Russell, of this city, assisted by Prof. Heuser, of Cincinnati, performed the surgical operation of removing an ovarian tumor from Mrs. William Mills, at Lexington, Ohio, on Tuesday last. The tumor weighed fifty pounds, and was the size of the abdomen in length. The patient rallied nicely, with every prospect of an early recovery.

A lecture will be delivered upon the subject of temperance under the auspices of St. Joseph's Total Abstinence Society, at St. Joseph Catholic church, on Kronton street, Sunday evening, February 1st, at 7:30 p. m. Able speakers will be present and every effort will be made to make the occasion one of interest and instruction. Admission 10 cents. All are cordially invited.

There was no session of Common Pleas court this morning, there being no business ready for hearing. The stockholders of the Springfield Base Ball Company, against whom judgment was obtained on a claim of $260 for board of players and umpires, have taken steps to raise the amount by contribution among themselves, and stop further proceedings.

Mr. Harry C. Fisher, manager of last season's base ball team, received a letter yesterday from parties in the South asking him to get up a club in this city and join the Southern League. This would be the only Northern club in the league, and for this reason it is considered impracticable. Mr. Fisher is investigating the matter, however, in regard to what the cost of transportation will be and whether it would pay to go into it. At the same time Mr. Fisher is working up the Interstate League, and it is altogether likely that this will be formed. Mr. Fisher was in Dayton a few days ago talking the matter over and everything seems favorable. He is yet awaiting an answer from Terre Haute parties, who are interested in the scheme.

This morning, about 3 o'clock, Drs. Batters and Weish and Dr. Hengert were called to a house on the corner of Oberlin alley and Winter street and there found a white man named "Roney" Marsh lying in an unconscious condition from the effects of an overdose of morphine. On inquiry it was learned that Marsh had been suffering from pleurisy, and, becoming much worse, last night Mag Hughes, who lives opposite, was sent for. A hyperemic injection of morphine was administered, but instead of getting better he grew worse, and finally went into a stupor from the effects of the drug. The persons in the house became alarmed and sent for the doctors. By the vigorous application of electric batteries Marsh was so brought to consciousness, and is now doing well, with hopes of his recovery.

Amusements. "The Sea of Ice" in times at the Grand tomorrow will afford delightful entertainment to ladies and children, and such a play, with its magnificent scenery, can't fail to attract a large audience. The piece will also be repeated in the evening. The New York Tribune says: "The dramatic company that has been organized this season to act with Miss Kate Claxton, throughout the country, is mentioned as one of well-chosen elements and exceptional merit. The performances given by Miss Claxton and her associates merit with active and practical admiration—drawing full houses and hearty plaudits. Indeed, this is one of the most successful parties on the road.

"Vim" the laughable comedy written for Mr. Neil Burgess, will be presented at Black's to-morrow evening. The San Francisco Chronicle says: "Mr. Burgess's performance rises into art and displays a finish and strength that can never be imputed to accident or irresponsible talent. Miss Cora Van Tassel, as "Fanchon," at Black's Opera House, Monday evening next. Cheap prices will be the rule: General ad-

TRUE ECONOMY Teaches judicious expenditure. In the purchase of Shoes, for instance, it is more economical to secure the best quality, price considered, than to ignore quality in order to avoid a slight additional outlay. We have a medium grade of Shoes, made of excellent stock without expensive and unnecessary finish, covering all sizes for Men, Women and Children, which for service and value to the wearer are really worth more than others of greater cost. They are not quite so low-priced as shoddy goods, but are ten times more durable. The "Paul Revere" is of this class. Persons who understand how to economize will find that our stock affords them an opportunity. We have no shoddy goods, and will not give them place in our store. They are dear at any price. Our aim has always been to give a better Shoe for the money than any other house in the city, and we have been eminently successful. ROUSE & PARSONS, 26 S. MARKET ST.

DR. HAMMOND ON BATHS. When They Are Decidedly Injurious—Common Sense Rules. Much of the literature on the subject of the Turkish bath owes its origin to those who are financially interested in the success of the bath. As such it is of course to be regarded with certain respect, but suspicion in order to get the opinion of high and disinterested medical authority in the matter, Dr. William A. Hammond was called upon. In response to the question: "Is the Turkish bath an injurious bath?" Dr. Hammond said: "The Turkish bath is generally beneficial to a person in good health. Always is a word which never occurs in a physician's vocabulary. That the layman should believe that these were always healthful, but the physician knows that the generally harmless strawberry when eaten by certain persons, will produce a most violent eruption of the skin. I am not saying that the bath is injurious, but that it is not healthful. The Turkish bath is generally beneficial, although I have known cases in which a serious derangement of the body's functions has resulted from a single bath. In such cases are the baths injurious?"

"In all cases where there is a tendency to heart disease, when there has been a bath of aggravation of this hot room for the first time without having had his heart examined by a physician." "Are you a physician?" "No, but I have contented myself with a cold, but every morning I find that the cold is not so bad as it was yesterday." "Would you recommend that for a person of slight physique?" asked the reporter with a glance at the doctor's stalwart figure. "I would recommend it for every one with whom it agrees. That is the best of common sense and medical science. If you remain blue and cold after a bath, don't take it again while in the same state of health. If, on the other hand, your system reacts, the effect is entirely beneficial. If you pin me down to generalization, I should say that the tepid bath is the most beneficial to the majority of the people. The hot bath should never be taken in one's health. When handed a long newspaper clipping, in which it was laboriously proven that the cure of this age was a too free use of soap and water, the people of the temperate regions grow weak and short-lived under its application, while the natives of the north lived to a good old age, enmeshed in dirt and train oil, the doctor characterized it as "an elaborate argument built upon false premises."

"A person should wash once a day," he continued, "with soap; for without soap the skin will shed water like the plumage of a duck. Indulgence in a Turkish bath should not be as frequent as it is now. It is injurious. It is preposterous to say that the inhabitants of the north outlive those of the south. The Equinians are a very short-lived race, while the negroes live at the other extreme. With a few exceptions, the white nurses who dandled the father of his country upon their knees, and still live to tell the tale."

Feccularities of Manitoba's Soil. (Scientific American.) On the Canadian Pacific railway, west of Winnipeg, it is noticeable that all the prairie land is free from weeds and grasses. It is along the line, one bushel of stones could not be gathered in fifty miles. In the neighborhood of Brandon the soil is gravelly, and there are some large boulders, which are striated in the east and west direction. These are the only boulders to be met with for 400 miles from Winnipeg. The absence of earth-worms and slugs is a marked feature of this soil. When dry, it is hard to work; during the winter it can scarcely be plowed, when wet, it adheres so hard to carriage wheels and boots, that it can only be removed by being scraped off. A very little moisture produces a mud which is so sticky that it will adhere to the scraper; with 20 per cent moisture it somewhat resembles half-set mastic or glue. The most adhesive qualities of this soil are termed "gumbo." When "gumbo" dries it bakes too hard to be plowed; on several occasions it was taken out with picks, in large blocks, and laid by hand in the dump. In its worst condition it will not hold the hoof of a horse working in it and pull their shoes off; this has occurred repeatedly, and within one hour of their having been set. The authors kiln-dried and soaked some of it, and found it would absorb 72 per cent moisture before becoming "slurry."

The frost penetrates the ground to a considerable depth. In the excavations for the main sewer in Winnipeg some years ago, a layer of frost six to twelve inches thick was found eight feet below the surface in the month of August. The presence of frost in the lower layers of the soil is not prejudicial to the growth of the crop. The soil does not freeze during the winter, it can be plowed, which is a marked difference to the clay subsoils of the eastern provinces. Houses can be built on silt laid on the surface of the ground; foundation walls of piles have to be cast down into the soil, which has a beneficial effect on the earthworms, crumbling down the "gumbo" and causing it to fall like fine garden soil. It also consolidates the embankments.

Co-operation on the Stage. (New York Tribune.) Daniel H. Harkins, the tragedian, a member of McKee Rankin's Third Avenue company, tells me a curious combination in that theatre. Seven members of the company have formed a sort of commune of their own, and have introduced the co-operative principle into the theatrical business. They are Mr. and Mrs. McKee Rankin, D. H. Harkins, J. J. Wallace, Theodore Hamilton, Frank Moriant and Mr. Halley. They are bound by articles of co-operation for three years and at the expiration of that time a majority of the seven can bind the whole for three years longer. They receive no salaries, but divide the profits or make up the losses after paying rent and the salaries of the hired members of the company. I asked Mr. Harkins how they got over the one great difficulty in such a combination of actors—the disposition of each to insist on the best part in the play and the biggest line in the programme. "Readily enough," he answered, "we print the names in the same type; and one of the articles of agreement is that each member is under bonds and a forfeiture to play whatever part he may be cast for by the duly selected stage manager. The seven members of this syndicate are not over young, and among the six men there is an average of about 300 pounds of flesh and an amplitude of waist which I will not venture to estimate; but they are experienced actors and they seem to work with perfect harmony."

Simple Enough. A learned professor claims that he has discovered lately that "Nystagmus, or oscillation of the eyeballs, is an epileptiform affection of the cerebellar oculomotoric centers."
