General Grant Feels Better and is at Work on His Reminiscences.

Blaine and Cleveland.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Mr. Blaine called at the White House last evening to pay his respects to President Cleveland. The meeting between the two gentlemen was a hearty one, each shaking the other by the hand with a warm grasp. They were closeted together nearly an hour, and when Mr. Blaine came out the President accompanied him to the door and gave him a cordial invitation to visit the Executive Mansion at will.

Honors to a Hero.
WILMINGTON, March 14.—The funeral of Sergeant Thomas Plunket, the armless hero of Fredericksburg, took place to-day. The flags of the city were at half mast. The Governor and principal officers of the State were present.

The legislature attended in a body. Three hundred high school pupils sang during the exercises. The whole State joined in doing the humble hero honor.

Correct.

St. Petersburg, March 14.—The Journal de St. Petersburg says: "Negotiations between Russia and England still continue, and are conducted with a firm desire to avoid a collision, and upon a profound conviction that it is to the interest of both countries to reach a solid settlement of the present dispute."

General Grant.

Ohio Legislature.

COLUMBUS, March 13.—SENATE.—Williams, of Cuyahoga county, introduced a bill to reorganize the city of Cleveland. Although the bill is not so iniquitous as the Columbus bill, being purely political and not a robbery scheme, it is designed to perpetuate Democratic rule in the city of Cleveland and protect Democratic rulers from the virtuous indignation of an outraged people. The bill provides for one councilman, instead of two, from each of the twenty-five wards, and under its provisions one member from each ward in the present council will hold over, thus continuing a Democratic council for another year. The bill also provides for a board of nine aldermen to serve for four years, to be elected from nine aldermanic districts into which the city is divided by the bill, the majority of these districts being Democratic according to last spring's vote.

Bills passed: Amending the jury law so that if the clerk draws the name of a person known to be deceased or removed from the county he shall draw an additional name.

Houses.—The most important action of the House was the passage of Judge Littler's bill abolishing separate schools for white and colored children. The Democratic members of the House have endeavored to kill the bill indirectly several times by shutting it off in preliminary stages, but in every case were unable to do so. When it came to voting directly on the bill they had not the courage to defeat it by an open vote. The bill provides that section 4008 of the Revised Statutes be so amended as to prevent the establishment of separate schools for white and colored children, except when petitioned for by a majority of the colored people over 18 years of age in any school district. Mr. Littler made an eloquent argument in support of the bill, and virtually dared the Democrats to vote against it.

Mr. Thompson, of Hamilton, offered an amendment, which was adopted, so changing the bill that it simply repeals section 4008, thus abolishing separate schools entirely. After the adoption of this amendment the bill was passed by a vote of 60 yeas to 12 nays. It has yet to pass the Senate, and is liable to defeat by the Democrats in that branch of the Assembly.

Gordon Memorial.

LONDON, March 14.—The Gordon Memorial Committee met at the Mansion House today. The Prince of Wales presided. Among members present were the Duke of Edinburgh; the Duke of Cambridge and Earl Granville. The object of the meeting was to decide upon the form which the Gordon Memorial should take. At a general meeting it was decided that in no event should the memorial be a statue. The committee today decided that the memorial should be in the form of a port hospital and sanitarium to be erected at Fort Said and to be open to the people of all nations. The Khedive has already granted a site for the proposed memorial.

Baltimore Failure.

President's Proclamation.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The following proclamation was issued by the President to-day:

By the President of the United States of America: A Proclamation: Whereas, It is alleged that certain individuals, associations of persons and corporations are in the unauthorized possession of portions of the territory known as the Oklahoma lands, within the Indian Territory, which are designated, described and recognized by the treaties and laws of the United States and by the Executive authority thereof as Indian lands; and whereas, it is further alleged that certain other persons or associations within the territory and jurisdiction of the United States have begun and set on foot preparations for an organized and forcible entry and settlement upon the aforesaid lands, and are now threatening such entry and occupation; and whereas, the laws of the United States provide for the removal of all persons residing or being found upon such Indian lands and territory without permission expressly and legally obtained of the Interior department:

Now, therefore, for the purpose of protecting the public interests, as well as the interests of the Indian nations and tribes, and to the end that no person or persons may be induced to enter upon said territory, where they may not be allowed to remain without the permission of the authority aforesaid, I, Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, do hereby warn and admonish all and every person or persons now in the occupation of such lands, and all such person or persons as are intending, preparing or threatening to enter in or settle upon the same, that they will not be permitted to enter upon said territory, or if already there, will not be allowed to remain thereon, and that if a due regard for, and a voluntary obedience to the laws and treaties of the United States and this admonition and warning be not sufficient to effect the purpose and intention of the government as herein declared, the military powers of the United States will be invoked to abate all such unauthorized entry and occupation, and to remove all such intruders from the said Indian lands.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

The members of the Embassy say the French, after losing 500 men, succeeded in occupying two positions commanding the road across the island between Kelung and Tamai, but that the Chinese still hold all other forts. In securing these two positions the French made the first and only successful advance since landing at Kelung.

Bad for Barrios.

LIBERTAD, San Salvador, via Galveston, March 14.—The firm attitude assumed by Mexico in behalf of the autonomy of San Salvador and Costa Rica against the threatened usurpation of President Barrios of Guatemala, excites enthusiasm throughout the three republics. The Figure "3."

In noticing the important part the figure "3" plays in this age and generation, and its bearing at this time upon the business situation, Mr. Henry Clews, of New York, recently said that "cold snaps invariably last 3 days, excessive heat periods 3 days. A severe rain is sure to be followed by sunshine after 3 days. Intense panics are of 3 days' duration, and immediately after a 3 days' wonder. Depression in business after a panic is invariably prolonged 3 years. The present depression has now lasted 3 years, during which time the best years only have thrived and those that have made money are only 3 in number. The next three years then belong to and will be richly claimed for the bulls, who have shrunk at least 3 during the past 3 years; 3 and 10 make 13, an unlucky number, especially at a dinner party. You can prove almost everything in figures by the rule of 3. Moral—Everybody should now prepare for good and prosperous times for the next 3 years, since the handwriting on the wall is now so plain as to point that way and is like therefore to be proven by the rule of 3. United States government credit is measured by 3 per cent bonds; England's credit by 3 per cent consols; France by 3 per cent rentes. Time money is now 3 score years and ten."

Sitting Bull has his photograph taken three times a week. He can afford to. He can stand it. He just sits down, as his position, lays one hand on his tomahawk, glares right into the camera and there isn't a photographer in the land who dares ask him look right up here at this crack in the wall, or say to him, "Look pleasant, please?" It is sometimes a sweet boon to be a Injun.

The theory that there must be open seas at the poles is based on the assumption that the flattening of the earth brings those points thirteen miles nearer the centre of the sphere than any other portion of its surface.

A Romantic Story.

This is told by the Erie Dispatch: "In 1861 a young man named Silas Mooney lived with his wife in a log hut in a forest in Concord township, Erie county. When President Lincoln issued a call for volunteers to defend the country's flag, young Mooney conveyed his wife to his father's home in Franklin county, New York, where he enlisted in the army. Two or three months after Silas departed for the front his wife gave birth to a little daughter, and died in childhood. Shortly after her birth the news came over the wires that the battle of Bull Run had been fought and thousands of precious lives sacrificed. Among the number reported missing was Silas Mooney. The years rolled wearily on, but peace was finally declared. Silas was given up as dead and his little daughter was adopted by her mother's sister, Mrs. Walters, who lived for a time in Venango township, in this county, and her husband was once in the employ of the late Jacob Fritz, a well known citizen of that place. From Venango the Walters family moved to Spring township, in Crawford county, Pa., where they now reside. The little girl grew up to womanhood and was highly educated and accomplished. One stormy day last week while sitting by the fireside a man knocked at the door and inquired for the Walters. The stranger proved to be Silas Mooney, the long-lost father of Mr. Walters' adopted daughter. The meeting between parent and child, who had never seen each other's face before, may be imagined but can not be described. It seems that at the battle of Bull Run Mr. Mooney was taken prisoner by the rebels and held in captivity for many months before he made his escape, only to learn that his wife and child had died, and that he was alone in the world. He returned to his company and passed through many a bloody conflict unharmed. After the war he went with one of his comrades to the far west, and finally settled near Tucson, Arizona, where, by industry and economy, he amassed a fortune. A few weeks ago he learned by some means that his daughter was living near Springboro, and he lost no time in hastening to her."

Australian Wonders.

There are, says the Federal Australian, two magnificent sources of wealth in Australia, one of which has been imperfectly exploited, while the other is almost untapped. The first consists of the subterranean channels of ancient rivers, which have long since ceased to flow and have been buried for ages beneath the superincumbent strata through which the enterprising miner now sinks his shaft. Each of these must have been a veritable Fæolus, and their golden sands have yielded a rich return to many an adventurous company. The second source of wealth is also subterranean, and will probably prove to be far more precious than the first. We refer to the underground rivers which have their origin in the great central depression of the Australian continent, where some superficial streams and the heavy tropical rains disappear, percolating through the penetrable soil, and forming hidden reservoirs, from whence at least two great bodies of water issue southward and find an outlet in the sea. Ever and anon one of these channels is pierced by the well-sinker, and there rises to the surface a perennial spring of the precious element, in the midst of a region that is liable to be parched with drought. Such a discovery has just been made at Moree in the electoral district of Gwynder, about 390 miles north of Sydney. Water was struck at a depth of 130 feet, and it rose 42 feet in three hours. "The value of the discovery," we are told, "cannot be over-estimated, as the country in the vicinity has hitherto suffered terribly in dry seasons." The question arises whether, inasmuch as the country is beginning to be dotted with various points at which similar discoveries have been made, it would not be possible by systematic investigations to determine approximately the course of one, at least, of the subterranean rivers—that which is believed to have its outfall near Portland—so that boring operations might be conducted for the time to come in those places only where there is a reasonable prospect of success.

A Pretty Woman.

A very pretty woman, who has reappeared in Washington this year, is Mrs. George Spencer, wife of the former senator from Alabama. Six years ago society was excited when the senator went over to New York, married Miss Nunez, a member of a theater company there, and brought his bride here. She was a Mississippian by birth, and related to several generals of the confederate and Egyptian service, and is still a very beautiful woman of the slender Spanish type. As she appeared the other day, in her graceful motions, seconded by the wonderful play of her large dark eyes under the thin arching brows. She held a whole company of ladies spellbound and fascinated, and that is the last and most cruel test of any pretty woman's talents. When she sat down they formed a semi-circle before her, and she carried them with her by storm. Except for an occasional question, they let her have it all her own way, and she was as bright, sparkling, and fascinating to all these women and bewitched them as completely with her smiles and her black eyes and clever talk as if they had been so many susceptible men.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Cotton-raising not being profitable in some parts of South Carolina, the planters are turning their attention to tobacco culture. There is said to be a belt of land in the State specially adapted to the growth of the finest quality of leaf tobacco, equal to that raised in Mecklenburg county, North Carolina, which is said to be the finest in the world. This region is found in Upper Edgedfield, Newbury, Fairfield, and Chester counties.

The site of the famous prison pen at Andersonville, which is near the South-western Railway, is now hidden from view by the growth of pines which has sprung up since the war. At the request of travelers, the Secretary of war has consented to have a space cut through the pines, so that the remains of the stockade can be seen from the railway.
