SPRINGFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY EVENING, JUNE 1, 1886.

THE SPRINGFIELD REPUBLIC, ...

OWEN BROTHERS

Indications. WASHINGTON, June 1.—Ohio Valley and Tennessee. Fair weather; slight change in temperature, variable winds, generally southerly.

To meet the requirements of the times, we put modest values upon every article of merchandise in our line. The set of people talking hard times and everything going to the dogs, have but to examine our stock and learn prices to be convinced that despite the general howl of chronic kickers, times are good and everything goes swimmingly on.

The hats at 50c, the handkerchiefs at 5c, the shirts at 25c, the socks at 5c, the men's suits at $3.50, the youth's at $4.50, the bluffs at $1, the boy's long stockings at 10c, the jersey suits at $1.50, the men's undershirts at 20c, the suspenders at 5c, 10c, 15c, 20c, 25c, the 4-ply linen collars 2 for 25c, the fine neckwear at 25c, the fine kid gloves at $1, the boy's shirt waists at 25c, 35c, 40c and 50c, the overalls at 25c, 40c and 50c, the blue flannel shirts at $1, and the "Owl" white shirts $1, partially show what we are doing toward easing the times and stretching the buying power of a dollar note.

We have led you to expect, you have found here more for your money than has been possible for small dealers to offer. Why? Because we are in a position to give more. Our buying and manufacturing advantages alone allow us to mark all goods one profit below any competition who depend upon jobbers and their prices for their supplies.

We catch the trade, we hold the trade, and everything moves swimmingly on.

New tourist blouses to-day. Among our this morning's arrivals from our factory are to be found new lines in blue flannel plaited and belted tourist coats, in sizes 33, 34, 35c, 36 to 42. Instead of $8 are $5. A rushing demand for these garments makes coming quick a necessity.

New lines in men's, youth's and boy's seersucker coats and vests are in. It's time to prepare before the extreme heat catches you. Every size from 28 to 42.

Black Alpaca, pure Mohair. Drap'd etc and linen coats are ready.

Linen, Mohair, and neither, in duster coats. Wanted in Springfield all the year round.

Funeral of Victor Hugo.

PARIS, June 1.—Although rain fell during the night and there was every indication in the early morning of more rain today, hundreds of thousands of people were abroad at daybreak, already crowding the streets and boulevards through which the great Victor Hugo funeral procession will move. Owing to the crowded condition of the hotels thousands were compelled to be out in the open air all night. The space around Arc de Triumphe is already filled with the chief officers of staff, members of the diplomatic corps, senators and deputies. From all directions came deputations with draped banners and bearing flowers and gigantic wreaths, and all moving in the directions of the Arc de Triumphe, the Mecca of France today. Never did Paris present such a scene. Chestnut trees in the Champs de Elysees are in full bloom, and form a strange contrast to the veiled lights, draped banners and vast sea of people, all in habiliments of mourning, that lined either side of the immense avenue, and the brilliant uniform of the soldiers. Large bodies of cavalry occupied the streets leading to Champs de Elysees. Minute guns are fired from the Hotel des Invalides and from Fort Valerian. The crowds are very orderly, and at this hour there is not a sign of trouble, so much talked of and written about. The societies are taking the place assigned them in the line of procession. Ladies lead with visitors, en route from the provinces and from abroad, are constantly arriving. The enormous crowd already here is ever increasing.

PARIS, 1:45 p. m.—The head of the procession has just reached the Pantheon. The immense crowd that fills Boulevard Michel includes the disturbing or noisy element of the city's population. Now that the funeral is practically over, these "roughs" threaten to inaugurate the revolutionary demonstration which has been expected since the death of Victor Hugo.

PARIS, 2 p. m.—The funeral oration by M. Flouquet touched the hearts of his hearers and was greatly applauded. The police arrested several bearers of flags, which were unfurled at starting points or at the headquarters of several revolutionary societies. There has been, however, no serious collisions yet.

Six orations were delivered under the Arc in the presence of nearly all the illustrious men of France. The funeral ceremonies were complete and the march of the procession ended without anything happening that might be called a disorderly character. Accidents incident to the presence of such an immense concourse of people were numerous, and in many instances were of a serious nature. The procession, as it left the Arc de Triumphe, moved in the following order:

First, Squadron of Republican Guards. Second, the general commanding with his staff.

After these came a regiment of cuirassiers, headed by its band and the drum corps of three regiments; these formed the escort proper for the funeral procession, while along its line on both sides were constantly heard the roll of muffled drums. Cars laden with wreaths and flowers followed, accompanied by boys of public schools. The band of the Republican Guards here headed the deputation from Beaune.

Following the hearse were the relatives and immediate friends of the family of Victor Hugo, the representative of President Grey, the Presidents of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies, Foreign Ambassadors, the Chancellor of the Legion of Honor, the Military Governor of Paris, senators and deputies, deputations of the prefects of the Seine, the police and military and naval authorities, a contingent of the army of Paris, and a squadron of the Republican guards.

The procession followed the route from the Camps Elysees, through the Place la Concorde, the Boulevards, St. Jernain and St. Michel, the Rue Suflet, to the Place du Pasteur.

A Jug Handled Nicotinos. CHICAGO, June 1.—An election is in progress here today to fill the vacancies occurring by the expiration of the terms of office of five Circuit Court Judges. No opposition is made to the re-election of the five sitting judges. In addition to the election for judges the people vote for or against one million dollars in bonds for the erection of a new insane asylum. All tickets favor the bonds.

MEMORIAL DAY.

President Cleveland and Members of the Cabinet Review the Procession in New York.

General Grant Stands by His Window as the Procession Passes by and is Greeted with Cheers—Excitement at Other Places.

HOW THE DAY WAS OBSERVED.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Decorations Day was celebrated here with appropriate ceremonies. Various Grand Army posts started early to the various suburban cemeteries and decorated the graves of their fallen comrades. The feature of the day was the parade of the Grand Army posts, headed by several of the crack regiments of the State militia. The procession formed at Forty-second Street and Fifth Avenue, the various divisions filling the side streets between Fourth and Sixth Avenues as far north as Fifty-eighth Street. The start was made at nine o'clock sharp, and, with martial music, the various divisions of the G. A. R. swung into line and marched down Fifth Avenue, Fourteenth Street, through Fourteenth Street and Union Square and down Broadway to Eighteenth Street, at the foot of which the procession was reviewed by President Cleveland as it passed the grand stand. The President was surrounded by the members of his Cabinet, General Sheridan and his staff, Major General Hancock and staff, and Mayor Grace.

As the procession of military passed through Sixty-sixth Street General Grant stood in the window of his room and saluted the regiments. He wore his dressing gown and skull-cap and seemed quite pale and weak, but stood without using his cane. There was continuous cheering and saluting as the line passed and the scene was quite affecting.

The ceremonies were concluded at night at the Academy of Music, where the Hon. William M. Everts delivered an oration. The hall was festively decorated in honor of the occasion, and at eight o'clock, the time set for the exercises to commence, every seat was filled, while many thronged the aisles and balconies. President Cleveland, with Secretaries Whitney and Endicott, occupied seats on the platform. When the President took his seat on the stage, the vast assembly clapped their hands and cheered him for fully five minutes. The President gratefully acknowledged the compliment, by bowing several times. Mayor Grace presided at the meeting, and after the playing of the national anthem, he stepped to the front of the stage and in a short speech introduced Mr. Everts, who at once commenced his address. After having reviewed the history of the war and the magnitude of the Grand Army posts, he spoke in complimentary terms of the presence of President Cleveland and Governor Hill. He next spoke of the pension system and said that the soldier should be preferred to any other citizen. He then spoke of the patriotism, but as duty. In the course of his remarks, Mr. Everts paid a glowing tribute to General Hancock, which was greeted with a storm of applause. The speaker concluded by referring, in a feeling manner, to General Grant.

BOSTON, June 1.—The chief feature of the day in this city was a military parade composed of the Grand Army posts, different regiments of the State militia, and exempt firemen and war veterans. The parade was reviewed by Governor Hill and staff. In the afternoon the soldiers' graves in the different cemeteries were appropriately decorated.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1.—The day was appropriately observed here. The drizzling rain caused no change in the programme as arranged for the day. The parade of the Grand Army posts, a negro, who mistook Laughlin for the maniac, lit the officer a terrible blow with a brick, but the officer held on and Reume was secured.

A Democratic Prohibitionist Gets a Place. WASHINGTON, June 1.—The President today appointed Isaac H. Maynard, of New York, Second Comptroller of the Treasury, vice W. U. Upton, of Oregon, resigned, by request. Judge Maynard is a resident of Delhi, Delaware county, New York, and at present holds the office of First Deputy Attorney General of the State. He was the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State two years ago, and was defeated. It is said, because of his prohibition record.

Russia, Germany and England. LONDON, June 1.—The supposition that the expulsion of Russian Poles from Prussian territory, where they had settled to escape Russian despotism, was due to a misunderstanding between the governments of Russia and Germany, seems to have no sufficient foundation. Russia is engaged in executing retaliatory measures. Many Germans who have been residing in Russia are being forced to return to their native country. In many instances these refugees reach the German frontier in a destitute condition.

Strikes on the Kentucky Central. CINCINNATI, June 1.—Owing to a reduction of 10 per cent. in wages, the freight cars of the Kentucky Central railroad struck this morning. No freight trains are moving on the road. The men in the round-house at Covington have also gone out, except the master mechanic and apprentices.

Workmen Go Out. PITTSBURGH, June 1.—The workmen in the iron mills where no scale has been signed went out on a strike this morning. Thus far ten out of thirty-eight iron and steel mills in this district have signed.

Important if True. This morning's Dayton Journal says that Ben Schade, manager of the new Dayton ball team, is in receipt of a telegram from Manager Cross, of the Lexington, desiring that he countermand orders for the Dayton team to leave for Lexington this morning, as his team would disembark immediately upon their return home from this city. No such word had been received here when the Springfielder embarked for Frankfort last night, and if one club disbands the other will be likely to. The Journal sees in this the breaking up of the Inter-State League. Developments will be awaited with interest.

Dayton Journal: "Two years ago, while going from Dayton to Springfield, Prof. J. P. McLean, of Cincinnati, demanded of a C. C. O. & I. conductor a seat as he handed him his ticket. The official is said to have roughly handled the gentleman and sprained his wrist. Suit was commenced in the Hamilton county court for damages in the sum of $10,000, and at last being postponed and continued, the matter came to a trial Friday. A verdict was rendered yesterday in favor of plaintiff, and his damages assessed at $672.

A DRUNKEN MADMAN.

Louis Reume, Travelling Man of Detroit, Takes Possession of a Seating-Chair on the Wabash Road at Kansas City, and Holds it Until it Reaches Chicago—One Policeman Killed and Several Wounded.

CHICAGO, June 1.—A strange story of murderous hallucination, which resulted in the death of one and possibly two persons, developed here Sunday afternoon upon the arrival of the Kansas City express over the Wabash road. Before the train was due the city police had been telegraphed that an insane man had cleaned out the seating-chair car shortly after the train left Kansas City, and had held the fort successfully, thwarting any attempt of the train hands and the authorities along the route to secure him. Lieutenant Laughlin, three detectives and ten policemen were on hand when the train arrived at 8:30 p. m., and a fierce battle ensued, during which Con Barrett, a policeman, was killed outright.

The crazy murderer was secured after the most determined struggle, and is now at the hospital suffering from two wounds in the back which are believed to be fatal. When the train left Kansas City Saturday night at 6:30 Lewis Reume, a traveling agent for the American Eagle Tobacco Works of Detroit, was one of the passengers. There were in all about twenty persons on the train. Reume, who was evidently the worse for liquor, had a large flask of whiskey, which he paraded through the cars during the first few hours of the trip, trying to persuade passengers to drink with him. When his offers were refused he became sulky and finally, at about nine o'clock, he retired to the chair car without, however, going to sleep. There were but three or four other passengers in that car, and these left Reume's strange antics became too obvious. As soon as Reume was the only occupant of the car he evidently determined to remain in it, but he resented all attempts to the contrary by flourishing a large bowie knife in one hand and firing a revolver with the other.

At Florida, where the train changed conductors, J. O. Hasselton, of Jamestown, N. Y., passenger agent of the Southern Kansas Railroad, who was on the train and knew Reume, made an attempt to quiet the madman, but was unable to do so. He was greeted with a demand for yells and threats: "I'll shoot you as well as any other." The threat was followed by two shots from Reume's revolver. Some bananas were thrown with morphia pills into the car and Reume ate them, but the drug was not strong enough.

By this time the authorities all along the line had been notified and at El Paso, Ill., Sheriff Nathan S. Smith, of Washington, a fourth class clerk in the office of the First Assistant Postmaster General, and who, for the past two years has performed the duties of chief clerk in that office, has voluntarily resigned because of ill health. He was a Canadian insurgent, who belonged to Riel's insurrectionary force, the Secretary of War instructs me to say that the military forces have no authority to arrest or detain them. They must therefore be released from military arrest."

Father and Son Murdered by Unknown Assassin. LAUREL, TEX., June 1.—George Holder, in company with his son George, aged four years, left Salinas Station early Saturday morning for the mines. They had hired an ambulance to drive them across the country. After they were some seven miles from the station, Mr. Holder found that he had forgotten part of his baggage. They concluded to send the driver back for the baggage, while they awaited his return in a grove near by. When the ambulance returned some few hours afterward, the driver found the bodies of father and son near the spot where he had left them. They had both been shot several times. The exact cause of their assassination is a mystery. If the motive was robbery the assassins were frustrated, for the money which Mr. Holder was conveying to the mines was in the ambulance. It is not known whether their pockets were rifled or not. Holder was regarded as a man of great ability in mining matters. He is only ten days ago that an American who was bookkeeper for the mines was killed on the same road. The Mexican authorities make but little effort to hunt down and punish these assassins.

Mrs. Farnell Poverty Stricken. NEW YORK, June 1.—Agent Lemman, well acquainted with the Farnell family, says that Mrs. Farnell's financial troubles started in her lending her son John $100,000 to carry on a peach orchard business in Delaware, which proved a failure. She then started a summer boarding house at the "Ironides." It did not pay. She also gave a good deal to the land league, or expected to lecture there. Of late she tried to retrieve her fortune by speculation. The result was the loss of every dollar. She is a woman of literary tastes, but with no business tact whatever, and the result of her disregard or ignorance in these matters is the Sheriff's sale, advertised for to-day, of her personal effects and the old county seat near Bordentown, where her father, Admiral Stewart, "Old Ironides," once resided.

Railroad Bridge Swept Away While a Train Was Crossing. STUBENSVILLE, O., June 1.—A bridge on the C. & P. road over Riddle's run, nine miles below here, was carried away by a freight Friday evening while an east-bound train was passing over it. Three cars were swept away with the bridge. An extra train was sent to Bellaire to transfer passengers and baggage on the west-bound passenger train.

A HORRIBLE MURDER. Fatal Result of a Feud Between Rival Lovers. HUNTINGTON, Pa., June 1.—The wildest excitement was caused in the town of Warrior's Mark, this county, Friday night, by the brutal murder of James Irwin, foreman of the Shoneberger Mines Railroad, and one of the most popular young citizens of the county. A rivalry for the affections of Miss Alice Holmes, daughter of the Rev. J. L. Holmes, of the Presbyterian Church, has long existed between Irwin and John Laporte, son of County Judge Laporte. On the present occasion Laporte, exasperated by the preference shown to Irwin by Miss Holmes, has attacked Irwin and threatened to kill him. About 6:30 o'clock Friday night the men met, both being somewhat under the influence of liquor, and a quarrel ensued. Shortly after this Irwin's body was found lying in an alley, dead, his throat cut from ear to ear and his face smashed into an unrecognizable mass. A large stone was found near by covered with blood and hair. Laporte gave himself up, and is confined in the murderer's well in the jail. Miss Holmes is almost frenzied with grief over the tragic death of her lover.

Killed in the Road. HENDERSON, Ky., June 1.—On Saturday Dr. Thos. Sutton and Charles Anderson met in the road, and after a few words between them, Dr. Sutton shot the ball passing through Anderson's breast near the heart. Nothing is known of the quarrel between them. Anderson cannot speak.

Fatal Quarrel Among Mill Men. PITTSBURGH, June 1.—Friday night Michael Gleason and Martin Somerville, iron workers employed at Graf, Bennett & Co.'s mill, quarreled over their work. Somerville made a vicious attack on Gleason, when the latter picked up a bar of iron and struck his assailant over the head, crushing his skull and inflicting fatal injuries. Gleason has been arrested.

Found with His Throat Cut. NEW YORK, June 1.—At 8:30 o'clock this morning Richard Hands, head clerk in Crawford's drug store at 130 Hudson Street, was found dead sitting in a chair in a room in the rear of his store. His throat had been cut from ear to ear and his skull fractured in two places. Up to a late hour the police had not found a clue to the murderers, whose motive for killing Hands was evidently robbery, as the money drawer had been rifled and several articles of value taken from the store.

Scuttling Race a Fiasco. NEW YORK, June 1.—The long-talked-of scuttling match between Wallace Ross and James Riley, which was to have occurred at Oak Point Sunday, ended in a fiasco. Riley failed to appear, and rather than disappoint the spectators Ross gave George Gaisel twenty seconds start and rowed over the three-mile course in twenty minutes and forty seconds, coming in some length ahead.

Another Crack. NEW YORK, June 1.—John Heurtel, of No. 359 West Forty-second Street, Friday attempted to commit suicide by jumping from the Brooklyn bridge. He was caught just as he was climbing the rails and looked up. He pleaded poverty as the cause and said that his wife and children were starving.

50,000 Lb. Salt. ST. LOUIS, June 1.—Mr. W. B. WORLD'S EXPOSITION.

Want the President to Leave the Government Exhibits at New Orleans Another Year.

Heads of Departments Asked for a List of Clerks whose Services Can be Disposed With—Capital Notes.

WANT THE GOVERNMENT EXHIBITS TO REMAIN.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Several gentlemen from New Orleans, representing the Board of Managers of the World's Exposition, arrived here yesterday and others are expected to-day and together they will make up a committee sent here to induce the President to sanction leaving the Government exhibits at New Orleans. The committee, it is understood, are prepared to guarantee a deposit of a quarter of a million of dollars or more to indemnify the Government for any possible loss to the exhibits and to defray any incidental expenses of the Government and caring for its property at the Exposition during the coming year. They do not desire the President to assume the responsibility of continuing the Exposition another year, but if they succeed in keeping the Government exhibits there, the Board of Managers propose to reopen the exhibition early next fall and continue it through the winter. The matter will probably be placed before the President and his Cabinet early next week.

Most of the Cabinet officers have already asked the heads of bureaus in their respective departments for confidential communications made up of lists of clerks whose services can be disposed with, or whose places can be filled by civil service appointments with advantage to the Government. These lists, no doubt, will be ready for use next month, and besides the bare mention of names will contain what is known about the clerical fitness, offensive parsimony, offensive habits and manners of each individual mentioned. The purpose, evidently, is to use this information in making removals from civil service classes in order to give the way for new appointments through the civil service commission. A member of the Cabinet is reported as saying that he expects to dismiss one-quarter of his force of clerks this summer, but that none would be dismissed who did not deserve it, and that he meant to rely on Republican testimony mainly in making up his mind who should go.

General R. C. Drum sent the following telegram to General Schofield Friday: "Reporting to your telegram of this date regarding the arrest on American territory of Gabriel Dumont and his associates, Canadian insurgents, who belonged to Riel's insurrectionary force, the Secretary of War instructs me to say that the military forces have no authority to arrest or detain them. They must therefore be released from military arrest."

Want the President to Leave the Government Exhibits at New Orleans Another Year.

Heads of Departments Asked for a List of Clerks whose Services Can be Disposed With—Capital Notes.

WANT THE GOVERNMENT EXHIBITS TO REMAIN.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Several gentlemen from New Orleans, representing the Board of Managers of the World's Exposition, arrived here yesterday and others are expected to-day and together they will make up a committee sent here to induce the President to sanction leaving the Government exhibits at New Orleans. The committee, it is understood, are prepared to guarantee a deposit of a quarter of a million of dollars or more to indemnify the Government for any possible loss to the exhibits and to defray any incidental expenses of the Government and caring for its property at the Exposition during the coming year. They do not desire the President to assume the responsibility of continuing the Exposition another year, but if they succeed in keeping the Government exhibits there, the Board of Managers propose to reopen the exhibition early next fall and continue it through the winter. The matter will probably be placed before the President and his Cabinet early next week.

Most of the Cabinet officers have already asked the heads of bureaus in their respective departments for confidential communications made up of lists of clerks whose services can be disposed with, or whose places can be filled by civil service appointments with advantage to the Government. These lists, no doubt, will be ready for use next month, and besides the bare mention of names will contain what is known about the clerical fitness, offensive parsimony, offensive habits and manners of each individual mentioned. The purpose, evidently, is to use this information in making removals from civil service classes in order to give the way for new appointments through the civil service commission. A member of the Cabinet is reported as saying that he expects to dismiss one-quarter of his force of clerks this summer, but that none would be dismissed who did not deserve it, and that he meant to rely on Republican testimony mainly in making up his mind who should go.

General R. C. Drum sent the following telegram to General Schofield Friday: "Reporting to your telegram of this date regarding the arrest on American territory of Gabriel Dumont and his associates, Canadian insurgents, who belonged to Riel's insurrectionary force, the Secretary of War instructs me to say that the military forces have no authority to arrest or detain them. They must therefore be released from military arrest."

Father and Son Murdered by Unknown Assassin. LAUREL, TEX., June 1.—George Holder, in company with his son George, aged four years, left Salinas Station early Saturday morning for the mines. They had hired an ambulance to drive them across the country. After they were some seven miles from the station, Mr. Holder found that he had forgotten part of his baggage. They concluded to send the driver back for the baggage, while they awaited his return in a grove near by. When the ambulance returned some few hours afterward, the driver found the bodies of father and son near the spot where he had left them. They had both been shot several times. The exact cause of their assassination is a mystery. If the motive was robbery the assassins were frustrated, for the money which Mr. Holder was conveying to the mines was in the ambulance. It is not known whether their pockets were rifled or not. Holder was regarded as a man of great ability in mining matters. He is only ten days ago that an American who was bookkeeper for the mines was killed on the same road. The Mexican authorities make but little effort to hunt down and punish these assassins.
