

CAMP WM. EARNSHAW.

United States and paid for out of the national treasury, and that consequently the Grand Army should not be called upon for the effort you indicate.

Briefly stated, my reasons are: First—The people of the whole with almost unanimity, look upon the burial of their great and noble patriot, and commander, at the place now selected, as unfit and but temporary. So sure as we have a tomorrow, the nation will claim her own, and in soil which is the property of the whole people under the protection and sole jurisdiction of the laws of the United States, and within the peace of the republic, will fix his place of final rest; they will loving care out of their own affections as well as because of the wish of the dead, place by his side for her whose name is so dear to the people, a monument that will be imperishable. One that will be the National Monument will be erected. Because, as I believe, this thought is in the heart of the people, they will not with readiness open their purse in aid of the project, they will perceive that, by however pretentious a name it may be called, it will come to but one of the many monuments to be erected by the states and communities to the memory and fame of Grant.

Second—Steps already taken indicate that local pride and purpose are at many points now active. Illinois, whose citizen he was when he stepped forth to serve his country's flag, has appointed her committee to gather the funds and direct the work of memorial. Ohio will remember that he was her son, and will be swift to commemorate him. The Ohio city of Missouri will recall that he there set up that heartstone whose story adds, if that were possible, fragrance to the name of home, and if the men of St. Louis could forget, the women would remember to build an altar there. Notice appears that Grand Army comrades are to be asked to take counsel as to erecting a monument at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas. Who will doubt that the great hearted "welcome home" was given him on his return from abroad, the same abounding loyalty and generosity will make due provision for a monument to his memory. These are only the examples I believe will be followed in most of the states of the Union. I rejoice at it. I would have imperishable reminders of him within the sight of all the people. The posts of the Grand Army and the individual comrades will be asked to lead in securing the monument. The auxiliary organization, the "Woman's Relief Corps" will be called on for its always efficient aid. I am not charged with any official duty in this regard, my words are only the persuasion of a comrade, but I did it in my heart to wish for these local efforts, whether to have expression in the parks of New York, of Chicago, St. Louis or elsewhere, every success, and the more so because I know that these will not hinder the erection, all in due time, of that greater memorial which shall be creditable to the nation he served and saved and therefore adequate to his fame. When we shall have closed over him on Saturday next the door of his place of sojourn, I shall take the liberty, unless you object, to suggest, to give this letter to the press generally, confident that my comrades will do in the premises that which is just and wise.

Fraternally yours,
S. S. BENDIS, Commander-in-Chief.

THE MASONIC CONCERT.

Pleasing Finale of the Annual Session of the Grand Lodges.

The Mason's concert at the Wigwam, conducted by C. D. Swayne, was very successful and the participants acquitted themselves handsomely. First was a chorus entitled, "O, Hail to ye Free." This was sung with much success, and met with favorable applause. The duet by Miss Diana Hackley and C. D. Swayne entitled, "Gently sighs the breeze," was rendered exquisitely and met with overwhelming applause. These talented singers deserve great credit for their meritorious work. Mrs. A. B. Robinson was the next to hold her audience spell-bound. She sang "Gaily Chants the Bird," which was rendered better than we have heard it before. She well deserves all the praise that could be given her. Miss Mattie A. Scott favored the audience with a beautiful recitation entitled "The Ride of Jennie McNeill." She recited it in her usual good style, which pleased her audience. The next pleasing feature on the programme was a quartette by Mrs. A. B. Robinson, Miss D. Hackley, C. D. Swayne and J. G. Clayton, entitled, "Come where the lilies bloom." This was accorded with exceedingly loud applause. Next was Mr. Ed Coates, late of Bentley's Concert company, in an aged negro piece, entitled, "Honey Corn." This was without a shadow of doubt the best imitation we have ever seen, and the audience showed their high appreciation by calling him out three times. The duet by Mrs. A. B. Robinson and C. D. Swayne, was well received. Next was a chorus, entitled "Joy, freedom today." Miss Layona Coover recited "The Atlantic." She spoke in her grand style which held her audience in wrap attention. The last was a waltz song, by the chorus, entitled "Vogles Waltz," and they kept up the reputation of the concert by singing it finely. The audience then retired to the banquet hall where everything was served in grand style.

MR. HOFFFIELD VS. XENIA

And Xenia Comes Out the Winner.

Honor to whom honor is due, and in the game yesterday afternoon between the Springfield and Xenia base ball teams, on the grounds of the latter, we of necessity must concede the honor to Xenia by a score of 11 to 10. The Torchlight, of this morning, has this to say of our team: The Springfield boys showed up very strong in their preliminary practice, and were in the game. "Play" was called it was dollars to marbles that they would defeat the Xenias easily. They are as gentlemanly a set of men as ever were seen on a diamond and are by far the strongest team the Xenias have yet met.

GREEN TOWNSHIP.

Prison, Aug. 11.—We saw a prominent probib. sitting on the door of a saloon. It ought not to be so.

Henry Johnson leaves this Monday for eastern Tennessee and will look up himself a sunny home.

Miss Mattie Mellinger on getting up in the morning and on looking at herself in the glass she had one black eye. Her eye was all right when she retired, but in the morning the surface and around the eye so let was black and very painful. The cause is unknown.

Joseph Waddle left Monday evening for the reservoir to join Charles Lewis and family, also Stewart Lewis who went last week. They will spend some days in recreation.

Fifth Ward Caucus.

The Fifth ward Democrats will hold their caucus in Schneider's store room, on West Main street, Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, to select delegates to the county convention.

RAVENS BRIDGE.

F. M. Spence, Committee.

The Ohio Democratic State Convention which opens Aug. 19, will have about 750 delegates and continue in session about two weeks.

DR. LEONARD'S ALE EXPERIENCE.

How the Prohibition Candidate Ate Ale—Soaked Toast for Medicinal Purposes.

The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette publishes a special dispatch from Decatur, Ind., this morning, giving an account of how, several years ago, Dr. Leonard, prohibition candidate for governor, regaled himself on old ale at a camp-meeting. The Commercial Gazette's correspondent interviewed a Methodist, whose name is not given, who was formerly in the roofing business in Cincinnati but who now resides five miles northeast of Decatur on a farm. His story is given as follows:

At the time Dr. Leonard was pastor of St. John's church, Cincinnati, he was sick with dyspepsia, as much so that he was not well able to perform his pastoral duties. On my recommendation and that of my wife he went to Dr. O. E. Newton, who has since died, for treatment. Dr. Newton said he could cure Leonard if he would follow his advice. Dr. Leonard said he would follow the doctor's instructions. The physician told him that he did not want him to eat a single square meal at the table but that he should have some bread and soup with it a tumbler of old ale several times a day. I got the ale for Dr. Leonard at Walker's brewery. Shortly after that the Dayton camp-meeting came on. Dr. Leonard called on me and said, "What are we going to do? We had made up our minds to go. I replied, 'Dr. Leonard, I'll fix that! My wife went to work and toasted him a great lot of bread, and I put three or four bottles of the ale into my traveling bag. I also put in some tumbler. We went to camp-meeting. Dr. Leonard and I would get up very early in the morning, before anybody else was about the camp-ground. I would take my grip-sack and we would go off to the woods, away out of sight of anybody, and I would pull out a bottle of the old ale and some toasted bread. Dr. Leonard would sit on a log, pour out a tumbler of the ale, and sit up with the toasted bread and then eat the bread. Dr. Leonard would sit there for half an hour, eating the ale-dipped toasted bread. Then we would go back to camp-meeting and would sit down to the breakfast table, but Dr. Leonard would be very careful what he ate."

"How many times a day did you and the doctor go to the woods to give him an opportunity to sup ale?" I asked.

"Three times—morning, noon and night."

"My information is that you went behind the bushes."

Dr. Leonard's friend laughed and said: "Yes, I know how to give him a soda-awful off, where nobody could see us."

"And you are mentioned as standing guard, to warn the Doctor of anybody's approach."

"Yes, that's right."

"It was, indeed—fine, creamy old ale."

"You took three or four quart bottles of ale to camp-meeting for Dr. Leonard—how many days did you and he remain at camp-meeting?"

"Three or four days."

The correspondent adds: As to the moral phase of the ale incident, Dr. Leonard's friend's conscience is easy, as he thinks it was for anybody. Dr. Leonard included in the ale incident a small quantity of good ale, but he does consider it very inconsistent and uncharitable for Dr. Leonard to berate others for doing the very thing he has done himself, in this particular; and he furthermore has nothing but censure for Dr. Leonard for turning aside from his military for the purpose of leading the Democratic Aid Society.

SOUTH CHARLESTON.

SOUTH CHARLESTON, Aug. 11.—The past week has been an eventful one for this village. Last Monday Mrs. Mary Paulin was buried. Saturday Mr. Jacob Kizer was also buried at same hour as General U. S. Grant.

August 10, 1885, the regular reunion here in Hankin grove just east of town. Gen. J. W. Keifer with other field officers were present. Several other regiments were present and took part in the ration set out by the ladies which was a fine spread. On Sunday Mr. Leonard, for turning aside from his military for the purpose of leading the Democratic Aid Society.

Urbana Camp Meeting.

URBANA, Aug. 11.—Monday morning, at five o'clock, there assembled a small congregation in the auditorium for the purpose of devoting a portion of time to an experience meeting. At this service there was an occasional shout.

Mr. Joseph Wallace, of Medway, who is tenting here was called home Monday, on account of sickness.

The Moorefield ladies have the honor due them for strictly observing the rules on the Sabbath, at their dining hall. They did not depend on any of their connections on the Sabbath. They have the entire title for all public boarding on the camp ground, for which they paid a heavy price, and the committee should look into this matter.

The services conducted at the eleventh hour yesterday was very impressive. There were many at the altar pleading for mercy, while others shook hands and shouted "Glory to God."

Miss Fannie Foley, of Springfield, registered with the Springfielders yesterday.

There are a number moving into the camp to-day.

Dr. Pierce reports the health on the camp excellent.

The children's meeting, which occurred at 2:30 o'clock, was directed by Rev. Hudson. The subject for this service was "Peace," on which about 100 children repeated verses containing the word "peace." Rev. Oliver gave a nice little talk to the children, taking as his subject "Snakes," to represent the idea of sin, which created a mirthful sensation in the minds of the children. J. M. B.

Co. F. Reunion.

All members of Co. F, 24 Regt. O. V. I. with their families and invited friends, who intend attending our annual reunion at Flat shore on Friday, Aug. 14, are reminded that the train leaves I. B. & W. depot at 10:15 city time. Leave your baskets at east end of depot where a competent man will be in attendance to take care of them. Comrades will meet at G. A. R. hall at 9 a. m. for a short business meeting, after which we will march to the depot accompanied by the Cadet band, who will go to Plattburg with us. Fare for the round trip reduced to 35 cents. By order of Col. D. King, president, J. M. Bennett, secretary pro tem.

The New Government Building.

The Enquirer this morning doubts the efficiency of the popular government as an error by official authority. It says:

Springfield passed sensibly and successfully through the ordeal of a republican convention, and was not greatly disturbed even by the prohibition pro-rew. But the voters of a location for the new government building there has torn the town to tatters. A little season of relief has come, however, pending the arrival of a special commissioner to investigate the whole affair. Unless, however, the prohibition pro-rew.
