

LOCAL BRIEFS.

The cyclone occupied men and time yesterday. The boys are busy now getting their last winter's overcoats out of stock.

The boys are busy now getting their last winter's overcoats out of stock. Judge Rightmyer dealt out full-handed justice to the moot court at his office last night.

The following marriage licenses were issued in the probate court yesterday: Hewitt J. Moran to Lillie A. Deffenbach; William W. Roberts to Elizabeth Dolson.

The "straw" vote found got in his work on the cyclone excursion train on the Ohio Southern yesterday. It resulted as follows: Foraker, 280; Hoadly, 238; Leonard, 35.

The evening sessions are growing longer, and the nut-cracking season is just upon us. The double chestnut will be in demand for the boys and girls to determine their fate.

Officer Wilson found Andy Fox drunk on Limestone street yesterday, and ran him in. This is the second time this week Andy has reposed behind the bars with the same charge against his name.

Somebody in town has made high-life sensation under his hat, and says at the proper time he proposes to let it go. Such rumors should always be taken with salt, and this is no exception to the rule.

In the common pleas court clerk's office, yesterday, the new suits were filed as follows: Manss Bros. & Co. vs. J. A. and E. J. Reif-snyder, $3,000 and equitable relief; Susannah Baker vs. Harmon Baker, divorce.

One who has never seen a wrecked town can have no conception of the wreck and desolation wrought by a terrible tornado. The wonder, to the looker-on is that a single being could come out of the mass of ruins.

Col. Datas, the officer in charge at the station house, spent his off-duty hours yesterday at Washington C. H., the scene of the terrible cyclone disaster. Col. Datas says the reports of the terrible state of affairs there have not been exaggerated.

The temper of the people in patronizing county fairs is not flatter than any very great enthusiasm. The different counties round about all tell the same story of poor exhibits and poorer attendance. There must needs be a revival in the fair business or let them go to the wall.

Bill Simpson, the man who stoned the Bee Line train at Oxbow last Saturday night, was taken to Oxbow for his preliminary hearing this morning. He waived examination, was bound over to court, and in default of bail was returned to the jail here. Last night Officer Bias took him to Xenia to be incarcerated in the Greene county jail.

The people of Springfield were prompt to offer aid to the sufferers in the stricken localities. Those people will need great help, from the fact that winter is near at hand and they will not have time to recover from the effects of the disaster before the weather shuts them in. In many instances houses and contents are not only gone, but personal injury, the loss of goods and crops, putting the poor sufferers at the complete mercy of friends and neighbors who have escaped more fortunately. It is a good time to show a benevolent disposition.

PERSONAL.

Amos Miller went to Washington C. H. last evening.

Ex-secretary of state, James W. Newman is at the Arcade.

Henry Ward and Adam Nicklas go to Washington this morning.

Prof. L. G. Fessenden, of Xenia, spent Wednesday afternoon in this city.

Mrs. J. D. Endloss, of Dayton, is the guest of Captain and Mrs. Haak, of East High street.

Mrs. Homer Caldwell, of Limestone street, has gone to Cleveland, O., to visit for a few weeks.

Miss Ella McMorris, of West Main street, leaves today for Mechanicsburg, where she will spend a week among friends.

THE FREMANTLE DRING.

Probably Another Death from Injuries in the Howlsville Wreck.

Another fatality has probably resulted from the Howlsville wreck, in which brave Bob Haylor sustained fatal injuries. His friend, Ed. S. Taylor, was not considered dangerously injured at first, but since the wreck has not rallied, and was thought to be dying yesterday afternoon. When the engine ran onto the siding, Taylor jumped and fell, and was picked up in a bewildered condition, notwithstanding which he rallied soon, and as no injuries could be found on him, except that one leg was pretty badly hurt, it was supposed that he would soon recover.

The nature of his injuries is unknown. Taylor lives at San Lucas, where he has a family consisting of his wife and one child.

Nearly all the engines on the I. B. & W. road are draped with crepe, out of respect for Engineer Haylor.

Miss Estelle Clayton, the lovely star.

Miss Estelle Clayton, the lovely star of "Fayette: The Story of a Wife," is famous for her wonderful beauty of face and form, particularly in the west and south, where she was known as the "American Langtry." Her charming innocence and delicious naivete is as rare as it is refreshing, and that she retains this natural sweetness of disposition and deportment in the face of such universal praise and adulation as she receives, is creditable both to her good womanly sense and the early training of her convent days.

Hon. James W. Newman, revenue collector for this district, was in the city yesterday to determine if any democrat could be found in Clark county willing to accept office under him. His mind was soon disabused on that point, however, for his presence was no sooner known that the members of the great unwashed party began putting themselves in order to pass before the "magd." No crumb of comfort was left behind and the "kill-kenny" fight is still on.

Wants a Divorce.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Susannah Baker filed a petition for divorce, in the common pleas court, against her husband, Harmon Baker. The petition alleges that the plaintiff and defendant were married in 1879; that for six years the defendant has neglected the plaintiff, refusing to cohabit with her, and failing to support her; in consequence of which the plaintiff has been compelled to labor for the support of herself and their six-year-old child, of which she asks to be awarded the custody.

THE FATED CITY.

WASHINGTON C. H. A DROULAT WARE OF DEMOLISHED HOMES.

RAIN ON EVERY HAND. THE LOSSES AFFECT THE HIGH AND FINE ARTS. Suffering Appeals for Aid. Gov. Hoadly's Proclamation—Curious Details of the Disaster.

Special to the Globe Republic. WASHINGTON C. H., Sept. 9.—The darkness of this evening has hardly reduced the excitement of the day. Great crowds of people are still thronging the streets, and the lurid light caused by the bonfires built for the purpose of taking the place of gas, add to the weirdness of the scene. There will be little sleep here tonight, and there was none last night. Those who have had their homes torn from around them are too busily engaged in patching up temporary abodes to think of, or consider sleep.

Washington Court House, the scene of the disastrous visitation, is the county seat of Fayette County. It has had a most extraordinary business growth in the past fifteen years, and being the center of a rich agricultural district, with excellent railroad facilities, it had grown to be a business place of considerable importance. Its residents had beautified the town with tasteful dwellings, and its recently completed court house was one of the best in the state.

The public meeting held this afternoon on Court street to raise money for the suffering and needy was quite successful, and many of the visitors made liberal contributions. Mr. P. S. Collins acted as spokesman of the meeting, and was eloquent in his appeals for money to buy food for those who were destitute and provide shelter for those who had none. "The birds of the air have nests and the fowls have their holes," said he, "but many a resident of Washington C. H. has not where to lay his head tonight. If you have any generosity about you do not let me plead in vain." The result was a liberal shower of silver and many promises of speedy assistance. The citizens' relief committee decided early in the day not to ask for outside help if it was possible, although this afternoon nearly every neighboring city telegraphed offers of aid.

The work of clearing the streets has progressed steadily this afternoon, although the great crowds which had gathered prevented rapid work. All the sidewalks are blocked with the wreck of fences and roofs, and that walking, except in the middle of the streets, is impossible.

Every square yard of ground in the town is covered with shingles, boards, bricks and portions of the roofing. The appearance of the business portion of the city is terrible. There is not a building in it which is not either totally demolished or more or less injured. Some of the stores are left roofless, others have had their roofs or rear torn away and all present the appearance of ruin. It is a matter of general wonderment to all who gaze upon the wreck that the loss of life was not greater. It is really miraculous that only six persons should perish when the sudden demolition of buildings was so general, and when the air was so filled with flying timber and debris hurled with almost inconceivable velocity. Some idea of the force of the wind may be gained when it is known that in several instances boards were shot like bullets entirely through frame dwellings, and there is now sticking through one house near the Catholic church an eight-inch plank which is firmly imbedded in the wall.

CURIOUS FEATURES OF THE CYCLONE.

A curious feature of the cyclone, which is generally commented on, is the fact that it seemed to jump from place to place and not pursue a definite course. In many instances houses are totally demolished, whereas an adjoining property has hardly been disturbed, except possibly in the loss of a chimney or a few shingles.

Among the incidents of the disaster was the blowing of the house of W. Thorpe entirely to pieces out of sight. The three occupants were dropped across the street, where only Mrs. Thorpe severely bruised; the others had but slight hurts. The house cannot be found.

The total length of the course of the cyclone, seems to have been about eleven miles, and in that distance, and for a territory about half a mile wide, the destruction is general. Reports have been coming in all afternoon of losses of lives and homes in all country along the track of the storm. In many of these cases, stock has been killed, but so far no deaths have been reported. The most miraculous escape in the city was undoubtedly that of the thirty Old Fellows who were holding a lodge meeting in their hall. Mr. Hess, one of their number, and who was himself badly bruised, says he was engaged in shutting the windows, when the storm burst in its full fury upon the building. He turned back from the window, exclaiming, "Boys, let's get out of here quick!" All rushed out into the auto-room on route to the outside stairs, when, with a roar and crash, the end of the building and the side went out, leaving them clinging to the portion of the floor which remained intact. Judge Gregg, one of their number, was, however, not so fortunate, and was caught by the wind and hurled into a neighboring lot sixty feet away, sustaining what will probably prove a fatal injury. After the storm had passed, they found that about the frightened Old Fellows crawled down the ruins as well as they could and called the roll. Many people say they heard the cyclone coming several minutes before it struck the town, and recognized it by the peculiar whistling sound which they had heard described. It came so suddenly upon them, however, that before pleas of safety could be reached it was upon them, and in a few moments more was over. There was a rumor current during the afternoon that several people had hastily taken refuge in the covered bridge which spans Paint creek at the foot of Court street, and that they had been buried under the debris in the turbid and swollen waters of the stream. At one time the number of those drowned was reported at sixteen, but a most diligent search by the Globe Republic correspondent failed to verify the story in any particular, and as no one is reported missing it is doubtless one of the exaggerated stories which are always current after terrible disasters of this nature.

GOV. HOADLY'S PROCLAMATION.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 9.—Gov. Hoadly tonight issued a proclamation, calling on the people of Ohio to extend aid to the sufferers by last night's cyclone. He says that money is needed by the citizens of Washington Court House, and that contributions should be sent

COMPLETE LIST OF KILLED.

CYCLONE NOTES.

Gen. Keifer was one of the most interested lookers-on. Sheriff Rankin is just the man for an emergency.

The number of sight-seers who visited the city today is estimated at 25,000.

Governor Hoadly was present today, and subscribed $100 toward the relief fund.

All the churches were injured, and hardly any of the saloons. Strange Providence.

Brick masons and carpenters can find plenty of work and are in great demand.

No fair estimate of the loss can be made yet. It is variously estimated from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

As soon as the telegraph wires were put in working order today orders were sent out thick and fast for building materials.

The I. B. & W. will run another excursion from Springfield Thursday morning, leaving at 9 a. m. and returning soon after 1 p. m.

Mayor Goodwin, of Springfield, has been busy here all day doing what he could to relieve the suffering and has remained here to night for the same purpose.

The I. B. & W. handled their immense excursion business yesterday in splendid shape. Supt. Van Tassel was on hand personally to see that everything went right.

A telegraph office was opened today by setting a soap box on end in the street, mounting an instrument on it and connecting the latter with the broken wire.

Every one is complimenting the Globe Republic's enterprise in getting so good a report in the first morning paper immediately following the cyclone. It was the most complete and correct account published.

Coroner's Inquest in the Haylor Case.

The coroner continued his hearing, last evening, in the case of the killing of Robert Haylor in the wreck on the I. B. & W. last week. The first witness was Michael McGree, section foreman, who testified that he was at the place where the accident occurred at about forty minutes before it happened, and that the switch was then in good condition. He was in the habit of examining the switch every morning to see that everything was all right, and that it would be easily worked at will. He said that it was sometimes very hard to open and close the switch on account of the lack of oil on the lever. The last time the switch was repaired was week before last. That on the same morning of the wreck he moved the rail, to which the cause of the accident is attributed, about one inch back to allow the switch to be opened.

The testimony of John Missig, baggage master, went to show that on the morning of the wreck, when nearing Howlsville, he heard the engine whistle and also heard the brakes put on. But he was not certain how far it was from the station. The next thing he knew they were on the side track. He did not look out of the car, nor did he see any head-car on the side track. As soon as the train stopped he got out of the car and went down to the engine, which he saw turned over on its side. His eyes were then directed to the crowd that had gathered around the brave injured engineer. He assisted Mr. Huey, the express messenger, to remove Mr. Haylor to the office of Mr. S. Hawkins. He did not notice the switch at that time and does not know what condition it was then in.

The testimony of "Red" Wilson, a brakeman, was next taken, but it did not differ materially from the statement of Missig, except in his giving an account of the finding of the freeman and his condition at that time.

Michael Fitzgerald, foreman of the bridge gang, and Frank Moore, Samuel Stratton, Jas. H. Long and Frank Welser, his bridge hands, were then heard, and all gave about the same testimony.

All the witnesses have not yet been heard, so that no decision has been reached.

Some Persons are Mistraken.

The following was handed in at the Globe Republic office, Wednesday evening, for publication in this morning's issue. It goes to prove that Mr. Leach made a mistake when he said that the club-roll numbered twenty members. Following is the entire list of present members of the club:

- ROLL OF SPRINGFIELD FORAKER CLUB. D. Beavel, president; M. H. Vaughn, vice president; J. H. Morgan, secretary; C. W. Reynolds, assistant secretary; E. H. Hannon, treasurer; D. E. Smith, George Elliot, Sam Hays, W. Metcalf, H. E. Johnson, Wm. Miller, Wm. Harkins, Clark M. Cook, Thos. Fry, Isaac Toler, Daniel Hal., L. D. Woods, James White, Wm. Yates, A. B. Brigham, C. Turner, W. Ferrer, W. Smith, Wm. Harkins, C. Clark, M. Carrow, Thos. Ripston, Wm. Hoffman, E. D. Hart, H. G. Johnson, Geo. McMillan, A. H. W. Lewis, H. Hopkins, A. Jackson, J. Smith, J. St. John, C. W. Haylor, J. Taylor, J. Brown, Thos. Harsfield, M. Sanders, P. Miller, M. Shelton, H. Thorton, W. Reed, Wm. Morgan, J. Chastain, C. Myers, S. Moore, W. Miles, G. Reed, J. Jones, J. V. Lamping, E. Deussen, J. G. Jones, W. Richards, D. Robinson, J. Galtner, B. Miller, J. Brown, J. Davis, S. Spears, J. Venable, J. P. Johnson, A. H. W. Lewis, J. Barry, Wm. E. Tozer, E. Anderson, J. Morgan, J. W. Johnson, J. W. Hoffman, Geo. Wallis, J. W. Hamilton, C. A. Jones, J. H. Johnson, Marshall Hall, Ed. Page, Jas. Marshall, J. Patonagall.

This is to certify that the statements of Mr. Geo. Leach, in Wednesday's Globe Republic, stating that the club consisted of only twenty members, is false, and, by a motion, his name is dropped from the roll for disreputable and improper conduct toward members of the club.

Million Money.

Julius Aaron, private secretary of Adjutant General Finley, brought with him from Columbus last evening the pay of Col. White and his staff and Co. A, Seventh Regiment, for the service of the Keaton camp. The amount to the company is $459.25, while that to the colonel and his staff is $50. This is a remarkably high payment of camp money, as the boys have been in the habit of waiting five or six months for their lure.
